Kathy DeFeo wants to know where you were Friday night.

Kathy figures she's entitled to an answer.

Was it just a lot of things to do around the house?

Or maybe the end of the week let down when a comfortable chair and a tall cool one is all you wanted?

Or was it Friday's television line up that held you indoors . . . such as:

7:30 p.m. The Little People. Dr. Jamison (Brian Keith) refuses to address the local PTA despite the pleadings of his nurse and convinces her that his daughter (Shelly Fabares) would be the ideal speaker.

Or maybe it was the weather that kept you home. Touch of chill in the air. Better stay in. Would have liked to have been at your gathering, Kathy, but you know how a fall cold can stay with you all winter long.

It was a good idea you and the League of Women Voters had. A candidate's fair with as many as 40 political aspirants represented. A smorgasbord of political philosophies and persuasions was promised with personal appearances by virtually every local candidate and hopefully some state-wide candidates as well.

Kathy DeFeo, voter service coordinator for the League of Women Voters, thought beforehand the candidate's fair approach would be better than trying to get people to sit in a high school or church auditorium to listen to speeches. So the idea was to get space at the Arlington Park race track exhibition hall and allow candidates to set up booths and have access to an open microphone to address the crowds.

It wasn't really a failure Friday night, but let's face it, at the most there were some 150 to 200 persons there . . . and how many of them were part of the pre-committed political organizations is anyone's guess.

At the end of the evening, Kathy DeFeo and other league members seemed a bit angry about the turnout and more than a bit mystified about what motivates people these days.

"I know the idea for this fair is right," Mrs. DeFeo said. "The whole question is, will anything get them interested this year?"

Apparently not, Kathy.

A week ago Saturday at a candidate's night at the First United Methodist Church in Arlington Heights there were more candidates on the rostrum than there were people in the audience.

Last Thursday night at a political forum at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights, candidates from all sides of the issues came up to debate before an audience of maybe 30 persons. In fact, it got sort of embarrassing.

Two candidates for the Illinois House who have a sort of cobra-mongoose relationship are, Robert Juckett and Aaron Jaaf. Their debate got so heated and so filled with emotion that the moderator of the discussion had to call an end to it. Afterwards the candidates discovered there was no one from their own 4th District in the audience at all and their fire-

Outline Plan For Cutting Vandalism In Village Parks

Preliminary details of a large scale program aimed at reducing vandalism at parks and other facilities operated by the Schaumburg Park District was outlined Thursday by Park Commissioner John Brandenburg.

Brandenburg, who has joined with other members of the park board in voicing concern of vandalism and damage, discussed what he termed a "personal program" of bringing the problem to the youth of the community.

He said the central theme of the program would be to establish a rapport with students at the elementary, junior high, and high school level to discuss vandalism.

In this way, Brandenburg said the youngsters might be able to offer suggestions on how to curb the problem, while at the same time enforcing in their minds that the parks belong to them and the parks should be respected.

"WE WOULD LIKE to work with student councils and other student groups to get them involved," Brandenburg explained. "We have to establish the importance of taking care of the parks and convince the kids they should govern themselves in this area," he added.

Brandenburg said he received a favorable reaction to the proposal from other park district officials at a recent national parks and recreation convention.

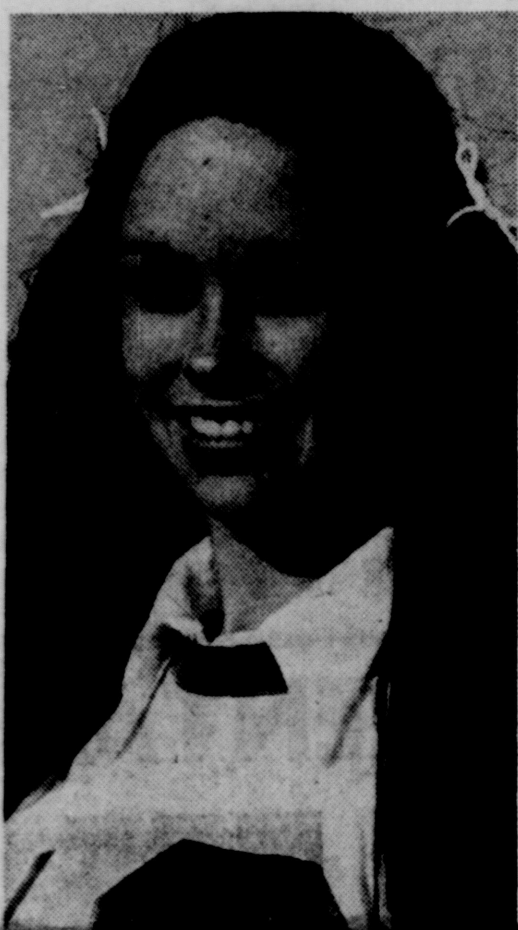

Park Board Pres. Robert Bock and district director Paul Derda both praised the program as a start towards correcting the problem.

They also suggested some effort should be made to beef up recreational programs for community teenagers. Bock said it might be a good idea to include funds for more safety lights at park sites in future development programs.

"We have to get across to the young ones, and get them accustomed to taking care of the parks," Brandenburg said.

The district has been continually plagued with damage to play apparatus, park district buildings and shrubbery.

"This certainly will not be a total solution, but it will be a start in what I feel is the right direction," Brandenburg said.

Thefts Reported

Thefts from four automobiles in Hoffman Estates were reported over the weekend.

The thefts include a battery stolen from a Hoffman Estates post office vehicle; a wallet stolen from the car of Michael Grant, 146 Bradley Ln.; and a portable radio from the car of Harry Walder, 150 Bradley Ln. The thefts occurred Friday night.

The fourth incident involved a tachometer taken sometime over the weekend from Ralph York's car at 353 Westview Ln. Hoffman Estates detectives division is investigating.

At School In Austria

A Schaumburg student has enrolled in a new overseas study program sponsored by the department of Germanic languages at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

Michael Ayrton, 1320 E. Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg, will be among 19 U.S. college students to participate in the program in Austria. The students will also work as graduate assistants while enrolled in the program.

Voter League Starts $ Drive

In their first-annual fund-raising drive, members of Schaumburg-Hoffman Area Provisional League of Women Voters will visit 200 business and commercial interests in both communities tomorrow.

In the day-long activity, the goal is to raise $8,000 with which to continue and expand efforts begun when the provisional league was established last February. Members expect to attain full league status next spring.

Introducing the fund drive, league members have mailed out 300 hand typed letters to area business men and concerned citizens within the past week.

League members believe a community-wide finance drive is necessary since their annual individual $10 dues cannot support materials supplied to the general membership as well as publications, printing, postage, equipment, meetings, speakers and state and national services.

IN ADDITION, the drive provides the league with an opportunity to personally explain its purpose to the community.

In less than a year, 85 league members have researched a "Know Your Town" study which covers both Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. This product is a complete analysis of socio-economic factors, government agencies, history, growth record, tax-base structure of each village.

Initially, the league intends to print 10,000 copies of the study for distribution to major contributors and sale to individuals and businesses in the area. Information (Continued on page 3)

Council Hears Sheffield Homeowners

Homeowners and builders of Sheffield subdivision in Schaumburg agreed Saturday morning on action to correct complaints, working in a meeting with village officials.

Purchasers of the Sheffield homes aired their complaints at a "Coffee With The Council" session, held the second Saturday morning each month. Also in attendance was Gerald Harker, project manager for Leviitt and Sons, developers of the subdivision.

General complaints dealt with what Harker called a possible fraud case, but said it was an administrative error.

A homeowners association representative told of model homes being sold with downspouts and gutters, but the purchasers of those homes being billed $250 for the installation of the downspouts and gutters.

VILLAGE CODES and the suburban building officials' code both call for the items as required equipment for homes with basements or livable space below grade.

On one style of the Levitt homes, said the spokesman, the items were part of the model, and the home was sold with the downspouts and gutters as options between June and December, 1971. Starting last January, said the spokesman,

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The 92nd Congress failed in efforts to adjourn and decided to spend possibly another week trying to settle its fight with President Nixon over a ceiling on federal spending. The Senate was to reconvene today, with the House returning tomorrow.

President Nixon told the nation that during the four years of his administration "we have fought the frightening trend of crime and anarchy to a standstill." He said the campuses which erupted in riots in the late 1960s have become serious centers of learning once again. He also called drug abuse "America's public enemy No. 1."

An avalanche of black mud from fire-denuded mountain slopes poured into Big Sur, Calif., and 50 persons were forced out of their homes in the resort community. Tons of mud filled cabins and resorts after three straight days of rains.

President Nixon's appointments secretary was linked to the alleged political sabotage of Democratic campaigns in separate stories by Time Magazine and the Washington Post.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr. will be sworn in today as Army Chief of Staff, with the mission of leading his troops into the era of the volunteer army. He will be sworn in at a ceremony outside the Pentagon.

The World

Israeli warplanes raided four Arab guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon and one in northern Syria in the first simultaneous strikes into the Arab nations in almost six weeks.

A spokesman for the militant Protestant Ulster Defense Association (UDA) said American Vietnam war veterans are training its underground forces in weapons and guerrilla warfare. At the same time, police appealed on TV for information on the murders of three Roman Catholics, latest in a series of 70 killings since July which police blame on Irish Republican Army or Protestant execution squads in Northern Ireland.

The State

Eight members of a group called "De Mau Mau" gang, formed by dishonorably discharged black Vietnam veterans, were charged Sunday with nine murders including the mass killings of two white families, one in Barrington Hills.

The War

South Vietnamese forces have recaptured all villages lost north of Saigon but Communist troops could still make more attacks in the capital area, the South Vietnam high command reported. In "Operation Linebacker," the North Vietnam bombing campaign ordered by President Nixon, U.S. warplanes flew 350 tactical sorties in 24 hours.

Sports

Joe Rudi hit a decisive home run in the third inning and later made a game-saving ninth inning catch to give Oakland a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati and a 2-0 lead in the World Series.

Junior Miss Entry Deadline Friday

The deadline for entering the Paddock Publications Junior Miss Pageant is Friday.

Forty-four high school senior girls have entered the pageant that will award $1,700 in scholarships.

Coeds having "B" averages or better and who are currently attending high schools located within the circulation area of Paddock Publications, are eligible to enter.

Schools included are Arlington, Conant, Elk Grove, Forest View, Fremd, Hersey, Palatine, Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Sacred Heart, Schaumburg and Wheeling. In addition, Des Plaines girls attending Maine West or Maine East are eligible.

Contestants are judged on scholarship, poise, fitness and talent.

The Junior Miss pageant sponsored by Paddock Publications has produced five Illinois state title holders in the past seven years.

Finalists for the local pageant will be selected Sunday, Oct. 29, following personal interviews.

The 12 judges chosen for this year's pageant includes Wilfred Wolf Jr., cashier at Northwest Trust and Savings Bank in Arlington Heights; Pat Piper, treasurer, State Junior Woman's Clubs, and Mount Prospect Community Action Plan Board Member; and Mrs. David Krause, attorney from Mount Prospect.

Also, Mike Silverman, board of directors of Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce; Tom Lovell, secretary of the Arlington Heights Rotary Club; Kathy Benysh, Paddock and Illinois' Junior Miss of 1966; Bruce Dodds, auditor at First Arlington National Bank; and June Rold, teacher of dance in Des Plaines.

Also, Lt. James Roel of the Des Plaines Police Department and past president of the Optimist Club; Nicholas

B. Christoff, youth pastor at St. Mark Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect; and Mrs. Raymond R. Kessell, chairman of the Hospital Planning Committee for Rush Presbyterian St. Luke's North.

The pageant will be held Sunday, Nov. 26, at which time the two misses chosen to compete in the state pageant will each receive a scholarship of $500. The two runnersup will receive $250 a piece and additional scholarships of $100 will be awarded to the girl with the highest scholastic achievement and to the one with the most talent.

Entry blanks have been distributed to those eligible to compete through the individual high schools. They should be returned to Anne Chalakis, pageant director, at Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, no later than Friday. Additional information is available through Mrs. Chalakis, 394-2300.

HOWLAND'S MEAT MARKET

14 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights

To The Herald Editorial Writer and Cartoon Artist of Oct. 9, 1972:

And now the other side of the story:

As a meat market owner and a union meat cutter, I thoroughly disagree with your second (or is it third) editorial on meat cutters (you call them butchers). The only butchering being done is by you hatchet men. This week it's the meat cutters again; last week it was the drug stores. And speaking of drug stores, how come you have not given the pharmacists who are on strike against one of your big advertisers any space concerning their disagreement with their employers (like an editorial in their behalf)? You have given a lot of free space on behalf of their employers against the meat cutters (in the form of editorials). By the way, what has happened to their union pharmacists?

Maybe that half way solution you mention in your editorial will turn out better than the one they tried 37 years ago under like circumstances. They leased their meat departments to their market managers, then asked their market managers to withdraw from the union. Needless to say they didn't get by with that halfway solution either.

You say you sympathize with the meat cutters on their stand concerning late hours, and all this could be taken care of by staggered shifts and $10 over scale. Bunk . . . what happens when business is off and your big advertiser says to his meat cutters "you will all take a half day off this week or 1 day or 2 days off?" What guarantee has he against this? Chain stores now have a chance to work meat cutters 6 days a week but they don't because the 6th day is a premium pay day.

You say that, for most people, there are nine hours of shopping for meat, all on Saturday. Bunk, pure unadulterated bunk put out by you and your big advertiser. If their meat counters on Saturday have long lines waiting for meat, then they don't have enough meat cutters to get the meat ready and into the meat cases. In case you don't realize it, it's a very skilled trade.

There's the same problem at the check-out counters — a few of them open, the rest closed. Why? I guess it's because of what you call staggered hours — the same help spread out over many, many more store hours. I don't believe you when you say there are many persons who can't shop for meat when the meat counters are open. I also don't agree with you that meat cut before 6 should be allowed to be sold after that time. If union hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. for me, a small merchant, then they should be the same for large stores.

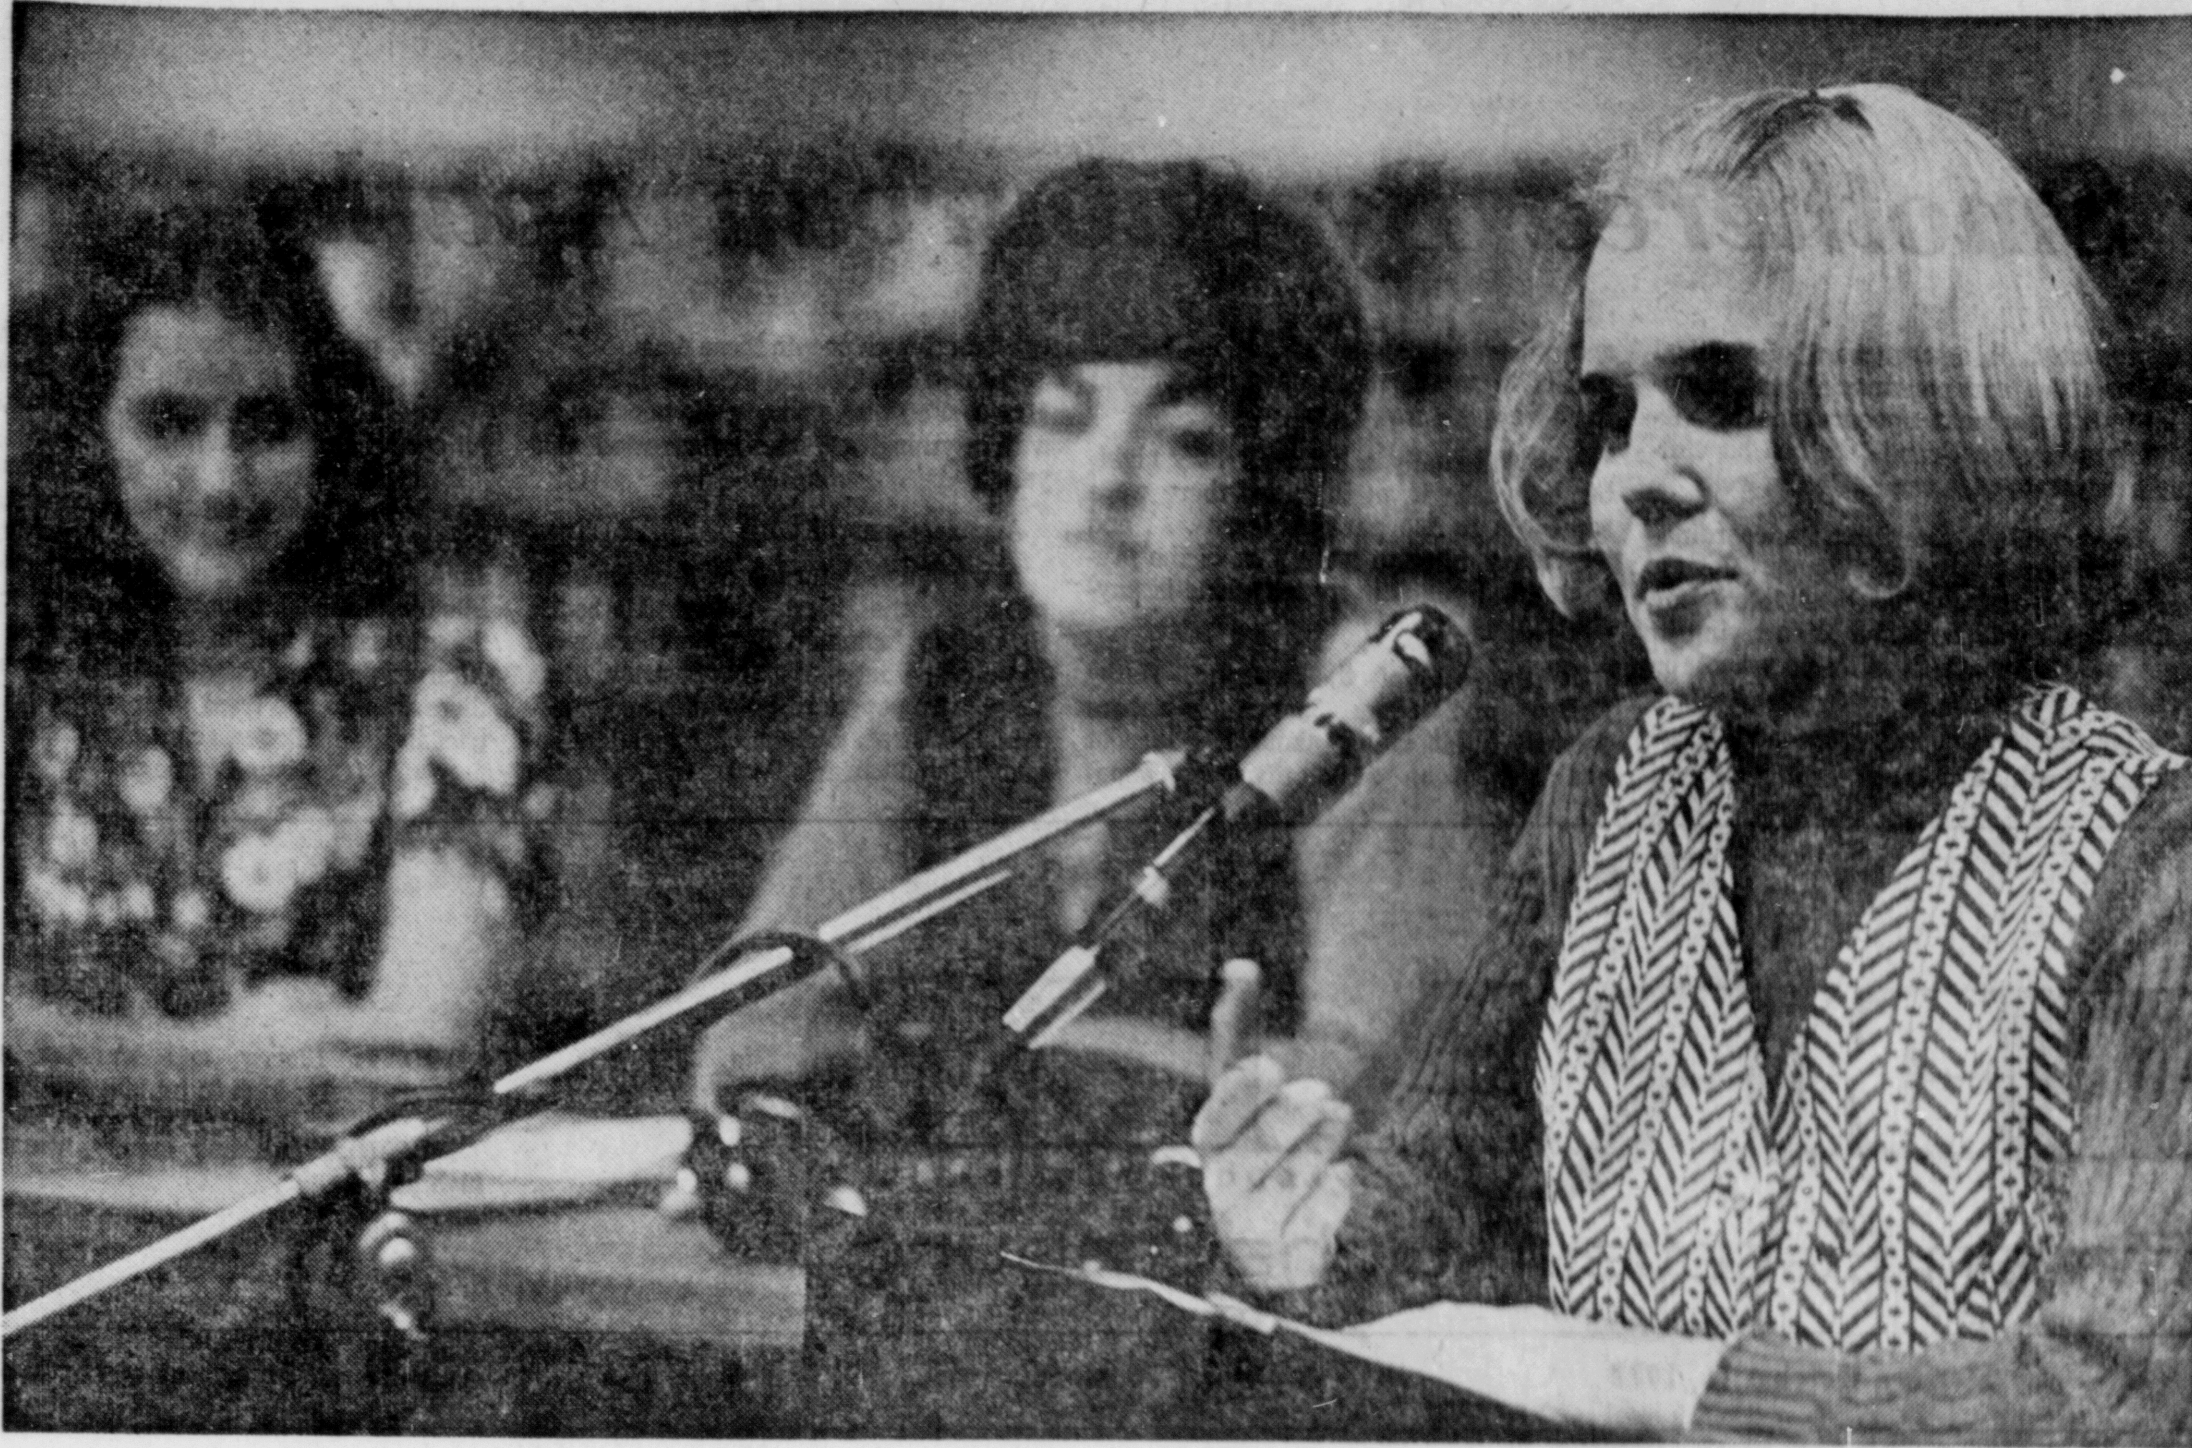

If your big super market advertisers really want to help the customer who can't get to the store before 6 p.m., why don't they put in a "will call" dept. where a customer could call in her order, a union meat cutter could put it up during union hours, and she could pick it up whatever time she could get to the store. I'm sure details could be worked out by the union and the stores.

One of the super markets is basically doing this in its drug department because of a disagreement with its pharmacists. You have reminded meat cutters on a couple of occasions about the hundreds of occupations at which men and women work not only late hours, but even all night shifts. My answer to this is "they chose their professions; we chose ours. What's wrong with that? You are right when you say 'there's no question how the public feels about this issue,' because the largest percentage agrees with the meat cutters and not with you and your big advertisers."

I personally think you have rabble roused and distorted the facts, and your first duty was to your big advertiser and not to the public. At no time have you shown both sides of this disagreement as a good newspaperman or woman should.

Junior Miss Entry Deadline Friday

The deadline for entering the Paddock Publications Junior Miss Pageant is Friday.

Forty-four high school senior girls have entered the pageant that will award $1,700 in scholarships.

Coeds having "B" averages or better and who are currently attending high schools located within the circulation area of Paddock Publications, are eligible to enter.

Schools included are Arlington, Conant, Elk Grove, Forest View, Fremd, Hersey, Palatine, Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Sacred Heart, Schaumburg and Wheeling. In addition, Des Plaines girls attending Maine West or Maine East are eligible.

Contestants are judged on scholarship, poise, fitness and talent.

The Junior Miss pageant sponsored by Paddock Publications has produced five Illinois state title holders in the past seven years.

Finalists for the local pageant will be selected Sunday, Oct. 29, following personal interviews.

The 12 judges chosen for this year's pageant includes Wilfred Wolf Jr., cashier at Northwest Trust and Savings Bank in Arlington Heights; Pat Piper, treasurer, State Junior Woman's Clubs, and Mount Prospect Community Action Plan Board Member; and Mrs. David Krause, attorney from Mount Prospect.

Also, Mike Silverman, board of directors of Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce; Tom Lovell, secretary of the Arlington Heights Rotary Club; Kathy Benysh, Paddock and Illinois' Junior Miss of 1966; Bruce Dodds, auditor at First Arlington National Bank; and June Rold, teacher of dance in Des Plaines.

Also, Lt. James Roel of the Des Plaines Police Department and past president of the Optimist Club; Nicholas B. Christoff, youth pastor at St. Mark Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect; and Mrs. Raymond R. Kessell, chairman of the Hospital Planning Committee for Rush Presbyterian St. Luke's North.

The pageant will be held Sunday, Nov. 26, at which time the two misses chosen to compete in the state pageant will each receive a scholarship of $500. The two runnersup will receive $250 a piece and additional scholarships of $100 will be awarded to the girl with the highest scholastic achievement and to the one with the most talent.

Entry blanks have been distributed to those eligible to compete through the individual high schools. They should be returned to Anne Chalikis, pageant director, at Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, no later than Friday. Additional information is available through Mrs. Chalikis, 394-2300.

Between the Lines

'Dollars, Dirt' Good For Area

by STEVE BROWN

In recent weeks two donations of a totally different nature were made to the park districts in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg. While the donations were different, both will help to speedup two important projects.

Dollars and dirt, that is what the park districts received. Hoffman Estates has been offered 50,000 cubic yards of fill to floodproof a park earmarked or extensive development. Schaumburg received $50,000 from an anonymous source. That money will go toward development of a large nature area in the village that has been in the planning stages for many years.

In each case, the donations are important to major development plans.

The Highpoint Park area is scheduled to receive the dirt. It is also scheduled to receive over $100,000 in improvements.

BUT THE DIRT is needed to create an elevated surface, above the portions of the park which readily flood, so that tennis courts, apparatus areas and recreational fields.

An offer by the home building firm of Kaufman and Broad to supply the fill was made last week. While final details have not been completed it appears as

Less Children Seen Coming From Schaumburg Project

A reduction in the number of school children generated by the development of 190 acres north and east of Robert Frost Junior High School in Schaumburg, is expected by Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

Lerman Realty, Inc., who bought the acreage from Campanelli Bros., proposes to sell the land to two new developers, said Marvin Lapicola, director of business services for the school district.

Campanelli Bros. received zoning and plan approval for the land in December 1969, proposing a total of 1, 016 dwelling units.

The new developers, Ceisel-McGuire and 3H Builders, will come before the Zoning Board of Appeals Oct. 18, asking to reduce the number of units to 889, Lapicola said. Additionally, the number of three-bedroom units will be reduced.

CAMPANELLI'S plans would generate an estimated 328 children, while the proposed new plans would generate only 190 children, Lapicola said.

Ceisel-McGuire plans to buy the north third of the total parcel, and develop 478 units. The units in the parcel will be reduced by 26, although Ceisel-McGuire plans more two-bedroom units and fewer one-bedroom units than Campanelli did.

The central and south portions of the site will be bought by 3H Builders. The firm proposes reducing the number of units in its section by 101, and also decreasing the number of three-bedroom units by 120.

The total reduction of 127 units and the decrease in three-bedroom units will result in fewer children, Lapicola said.

When Campanelli's plan was approved, the developer agreed to donate a seven-acre school site, north of Robert Frost Junior High School, Lapicola said.

The school site is outside the land being sold, and will not be affected by

PTA Notes

The following activities will take place in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 schools this week.

Hillcrest School PTA will hold it's annual book fair from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the school, 201 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Monday evening.

THE ROBERT Frost Junior High School on Wise Road, Schaumburg will open its doors for visitation and open house at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday.

MICHAEL COLLINS School, 407 S. Summit Dr., Schaumburg will have open house at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and the new report card system will be explained during the PTA meeting at 8 p.m.

OPEN HOUSE will be the highlight of the Neil Armstrong School PTA meeting in the school, 155 N. Kingsdale Rd., Hoffman Estates from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday. Parents of children in grades one through three are asked to attend open house between 7 and 8 p.m. and those with children in grades four through six will be welcomed from 8 to 9 p.m.

THE BLACKHAWK Elementary School PTA will present a program on the Exceptional Child and Learning Disabilities at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The program will be held in the multi-purpose room of the school at Illinois Blvd., and Schaumburg Rd., Hoffman Estates.

though the project may be under way sooner than expected. Park officials had conjectured that it might take at least a year to get the needed fill.

The donation to the Schaumburg Park District is equally important. The nature area has been in the planning stages for years. Ellsworth Meineke, a noted conservationist, has fostered the idea and aided the park district's plans. The park district will probably receive state and federal funds to acquire the proposed 400-acre area, but additional money will be needed for development. The $50,000 donation will be instrumental toward this end.

In this day and age of growing formality in the operation of municipal bodies, where direct contact with people is sometimes overlooked, it is good to see two examples one a generous private citizen, the other a giant corporation — make an extraordinary effort to provide assistance.

In both cases, the actions bespeak a generosity sometimes overlooked today. Both donations, dollars and dirt, are refreshing and reassuring that man has not outgrown his ability to cooperate without being compelled to do so.

Watershed Plan To Begin At Busse Preserve

Construction work for a flood control structure in the Busse Woods Forest Preserve can begin immediately, using state funds for the work. The structure is part of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Program which Gov. Richard Ogilvie ordered implemented immediately in an announcement made last month.

Tom Hamilton, chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee, said the U.S. Soil Conservation Service decided work, "can proceed for the Busse Woods structure without jeopardizing the program."

Hamilton made his statement Friday evening after a meeting of soil conservation officials with representatives of various state and local government agencies.

The Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement is a $26.5 million project to build flood controls across the creek. The largest of these controls, the one in the Busse Woods section of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve, would create a 600-acre lake for flood water retention.

IN MID-SEPTEMBER, the agreement was sent to the soil conservation service for approval and inclusion on the fiscal 1974 federal budget. If the Congress approves the conservation service's fiscal 1974 budget, construction could have begun in July, 1973.

On Sept. 19, Gov. Ogilvie announced that the state would not wait for federal funds, but would expand the project and proceed immediately.

The governor's announcement was made after suburban areas along the creek had suffered heavy flood damages.

When the governor made his announcement, Hamilton said that the soil conservation service would have to approve any work the state planned to do. If the state's plans would hinder obtaining approval of federal funds, Hamilton said the state would not be permitted to start work on the project.

THE CONSERVATION service's decision permitting work to begin, "means we will get a head start on the project," said Hamilton.

The first step in construction work will be the completion of necessary engineering drawings. These will be done by the Illinois Division of Waterways, in cooperation with the federal conservation service.

After the engineering drawings are completed, the conservation service, "saw no reason, if state funds become available, for earth moving not to begin," said Hamilton.

Hamilton said John Guillou, head of the state division of waterways, "assured me state funds were available in a governor's emergency fund."

With the approval to proceed immediately, Hamilton said the project was, "speeded up by at least a year, possibly longer. If things go well, the project could be completed before 1980."

THE PROJECT had called for a completion date of 1982.

Hamilton said that local officials must now, "push hard on Congress to get the project authorized, the earlier the better." He said there will also be an effort made to get more federal funding than originally had been asked for.

Voter League Starts $ Drive

tion will be continually on file and the report will be updated by league members as required.

Since formation, the provisional League has distributed voters service materials and a candidates guide. Prior to each election, league interviews each major candidate on key issues and makes the resulting information, along with individual biographies available as a guide toward intelligent voting. League members stress, however, that these guides are non-partisan and do not endorse candidates.

In the past few months, members of the league observers corps have attended and recorded the functioning of 12 local governmental agencies. These records are available to individuals and community groups on request.

"We hope the community will recognize the essential service the league performs and be willing to contribute. Your generosity is an investment in good government through informed participation," Mrs. Parris Caldwell, League president, said.

URGING COMMUNITY participation in the fund drive, Mrs. Caldwell stressed the league encourages its members to participate in the political party of their choice.

"We realize they serve a vital function in supporting candidates and getting out the vote, but our aim is to make that vote more informed and discerning," she added.

More 75 per cent of local league membership has become vitally involved in the fund drive.

"It is our aim to go out and tell local merchants about league and what we can accomplish and how we intend to get people to participate. After all, the more support we have, the more community services we can provide," Mrs. Caldwell explained.

Early tomorrow, solicitors will meet for "wake-up" coffee and pep talks from State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, a former league finance chairman, and from Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, a third district GOP candidate for the Illinois legislature.

Workers plan to arrive at their first calls at 10 a.m. They will break for a pot-luck lunch, provided by league volunteers, at noon at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Hoffman Estates.

At the close of day, league workers will return to the church to turn in contributions and write personal thank-you notes to contributors. Dessert and coffee will conclude their activities.

Mrs. Carol Johnson is league finance chairman.

the items were included in the purchase price for some models. Some purchasers have been billed an additional $250 over the purchase price of the model for the items, while others have not.

Harker, who said "we're not talking about codes, we're talking about possible fraud," explained the matter is "being taken care of." The downspouts are required, and are part of the purchase of the home, he said. The owners will not be required to pay for them, he said.

Harker also urged any persons whose problems had not already been solved to contact the head of the firm's sales department. The homeowner's representative said she already had tried to do so, the man failed to return her telephone calls.

HARKER AGREED to follow the matter up.

In another complaint, Harker promised four homeowners would receive fill in their backyards to give them level grades to a minimum of 25 feet from their homes. The homeowners complained the yards slope 23 degrees, making lawn mowing dangerous and devaluing their property.

Harker said his firm had not been able

Village To Blame For Illegal Tap Ons: MSD

Responsibility for 26 illegal sewer connections in the Timbercrest subdivision was laid squarely with the Schaumburg Building Department Friday by candidates for and employees in the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago (MSD).

The 26 connections wre from catch basins in garages, which drained storm water into sanitary sewers. The set up causes raw sewage backups in homes and streets, said Ayoub Y. Talhami, MSD supervising engineer, local sewer systems section.

The basins should have drained into storm sewers, and village inspectors were responsible for that part of the system, said Talhami. MSD inspectors have jurisdiction over the main system, home system construction of connections, said Talhami.

Talhami spoke at a candidates and information night sponsored by the Timbercrest Homeowners Association. Also attending were Richard Lanyon, supervising engineer of the MSD flood control section; Joan G. Anderson, Republican

MSD trustee candidate; Joanne Alter, Democratic trustee candidate, and Abe Eiserman, Republican candidate and an incumbent trustee.

OTHER CRITICISMS leveled at the village included:

Lanyon's denial that a choke dam was installed at Woodfield to retain flood water, and his comment that the MSD had no responsibility in the matter but the village did.

Talhami's comment that the subdivision was built on a flood plain.

Eiserman's comment that "it sounds like the Village of Schaumburg failed in planning for storm water flow. From what I hear, planning wasn't too good."

HOMEOWNERS COMPLAINED that the village solution to their illegal sewer connections is not workable, village officials are not responsive to their problems and the village did not inspect their homes while they were under construction.

Much of the discussion focused on the illegal connections, and means of correcting them. Talhami reported receipt of a letter from the village requesting an extension of time for the corrections, which are being made and paid for by Morwell Builders, developers of Timbercrest.

The corrections were to have been made by Oct. 1, but the village wrote in September that some homeowners were denying access to Morwell to make the corrections, said Talhami. The extension was granted to Nov. 18.

The homeowners explained the agreement they were asked to sign granting access included a clause absolving Morwell of any responsibility, should the corrective action be ineffective.

THEY ALSO SAID the system proposed by Morwell and approved by the village is not workable.

Talhami said the MSD cannot work directly with a builder, but only with a village. "Dealings with a builder must be done by the village," he said.

After the homeowners voiced complaints about street flooding "up to the top of cars" and sewer manholes "flying up three feet" because of excess pressure, Talhami commented on the general terrain.

"This entire area 10 years ago was farmland. This portion by the school is flood plain area," said Talhami. The land was built up with fill to install roads, he said. Such matters as drainage and flood plains are not MSD jurisdiction, but "are in the jurisdiction of local government," he said.

ASKING "WOULD IT not be proper for the MSD to flex its muscles with communities who want a lot of development quick," one association member suggested the district deny sewer connection permits for future developments in Schaumburg until all violations are corrected.

Eiserman responded that the village is the permittee in development, and the MSD can only require for construction on flood plains the necessary retention be provided and installations meet the specifications of sewer permit ordinances. If those conditions are met, "we have to accept their flow," said Eiserman.

$3,111 Netted For Hospital

A total of $3,111 was collected by 321 teens marching for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in September.

The collection drive was sponsored by the Gamma Theta chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority and assisted by the Beta Nu chapter of Hoffman Estates and Gamma Tau chapter of Schaumburg.

From Jane Addams Junior High School in Schaumburg, 49 teens collected $629; nine teens from Barrington High School, Barrington, collected $115; 40 teens from James B. Conant High School, Hoffman Estates collected $284; 70 teens from Robert Frost Junior High School, Schaumburg, collected $771 and three teens from Schaumburg High School, Schaumburg, collected $26.

OTHERS WERE, 42 teens from Helen Keller Junior High School, Schaumburg, $325; 88 teens from St. Hubert School, Hoffman Estates, $762; one Fremd High School student, Palatine, $17 and 19 others collecting brought in $179.

After the march a social was held at the Vogeley Recreation Center, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates. Refreshments were served and music was provided by the "La Grite-Herein" group of Arlington Heights, and the "Lagottas" of Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. John Latko, campaign chairman, said more than 90 cents on every dollar raised goes directly to the research hospital for treatment and research costs. Research is aimed at finding cures and preventive measures for cancer, leukemia and muscle disorders in children. Children of all races and creeds are welcome at St. Jude upon referral by their family doctor.

Between the Lines

by STEVE BROWN

In recent weeks two donations of a totally different nature were made to the park districts in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg. While the donations were different, both will help to speed up two important projects.

Dollars and dirt, that is what the park districts received. Hoffman Estates has been offered 50,000 cubic yards of fill to floodproof a park earmarked or extensive development. Schaumburg received $50,000 from an anonymous source. That money will go toward development of a large nature area in the village that has been in the planning stages for many years.

In each case, the donations are important to major development plans.

The Highpoint Park area is scheduled to receive the dirt. It is also scheduled to receive over $100,000 in improvements.

BUT THE DIRT is needed to create an elevated surface, above the portions of the park which readily flood, so that tennis courts, apparatus areas and recreational fields.

An offer by the home building firm of Kaufman and Broad to supply the fill was made last week. While final details have not been completed it appears as though the project may be under way sooner than expected. Park officials had conjectured that it might take at least a year to get the needed fill.

The donation to the Schaumburg Park District is equally important. The nature area has been in the planning stages for years. Ellsworth Meineke, a noted conservationist, has fostered the idea and aided the park district's plans. The park district will probably receive state and federal funds to acquire the proposed 400-acre area, but additional money will be needed for development. The $50,000 donation will be instrumental toward this end.

In this day and age of growing formalism in the operation of municipal bodies, where direct contact with people is sometimes overlooked, it is good to see two examples one a generous private citizen, the other a giant corporation — make an extraordinary effort to provide assistance.

In both cases, the actions bespeak a generosity sometimes overlooked today. Both donations, dollars and dirt, are refreshing and reassuring that man has not outgrown his ability to cooperate without being compelled to do so.

Less Children Seen Coming From Schaumburg Project

A reduction in the number of school children generated by the development of 190 acres north and east of Robert Frost Junior High School in Schaumburg, is expected by Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

Lerman Realty, Inc., who bought the acreage from Campanelli Bros., proposes to sell the land to two new developers, said Marvin Lapicola, director of business services for the school district.

Campanelli Bros. received zoning and plan approval for the land in December 1969, proposing a total of 1, 016 dwelling units.

The new developers, Ceisel-McGuire and 3H Builders, will come before the Zoning Board of Appeals Oct. 18, asking to reduce the number of units to 889, Lapicola said. Additionally, the number of three-bedroom units will be reduced.

CAMPANELLI'S plans would generate an estimated 328 children, while the proposed new plans would generate only 190 children, Lapicola said.

Ceisel-McGuire plans to buy the north third of the total parcel, and develop 478 units. The units in the parcel will be reduced by 26, although Ceisel-McGuire plans more two-bedroom units and fewer one-bedroom units than Campanelli did.

The central and south portions of the site will be bought by 3H Builders. The firm proposes reducing the number of units in its section by 101, and also decreasing the number of three-bedroom units by 120.

The total reduction of 127 units and the decrease in three-bedroom units will result in fewer children, Lapicola said.

When Campanelli's plan was approved, the developer agreed to donate a seven-acre school site, north of Robert Frost Junior High School, Lapicola said.

The school site is outside the land being sold, and will not be affected by

PTA Notes

The following activities will take place in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 schools this week.

Hillcrest School PTA will hold its annual book fair from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the school, 201 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Monday evening.

THE ROBERT Frost Junior High School on Wise Road, Schaumburg will open its doors for visitation and open house at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday.

MICHAEL COLLINS School, 407 S. Summit Dr., Schaumburg will have open house at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and the new report card system will be explained during the PTA meeting at 8 p.m.

OPEN HOUSE will be the highlight of the Neil Armstrong School PTA meeting in the school, 155 N. Kingsdale Rd., Hoffman Estates from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday. Parents of children in grades one through three are asked to attend open house between 7 and 8 p.m. and those with children in grades four through six will be welcomed from 8 to 9 p.m.

tion will be continually on file and the report will be updated by league members as required.

Since formation, the provisional League has distributed voters service materials and a candidates guide. Prior to each election, league interviews each major candidate on key issues and makes the resulting information, along with individual biographies available as a guide toward intelligent voting. League members stress, however, that these guides are non-partisan and do not endorse candidates.

In the past few months, members of the league observers corps have attended and recorded the functioning of 12 local governmental agencies. These records are available to individuals and community groups on request.

"We hope the community will recognize the essential service the league performs and be willing to contribute. Your generosity is an investment in good government through informed participation," Mrs. Parris Caldwell, League president, said.

URGING COMMUNITY participation in the fund drive, Mrs. Caldwell stressed the league encourages its members to participate in the political party of their choice.

the items were included in the purchase price for some models. Some purchasers have been billed an additional $250 over the purchase price of the model for the items, while others have not.

Harker, who said "we're not talking about codes, we're talking about possible fraud," explained the matter is "being taken care of." The downspouts are required, and are part of the purchase of the home, he said. The owners will not be required to pay for them, he said.

Harker also urged any persons whose problems had not already been solved to contact the head of the firm's sales department. The homeowner's representative said she already had tried to do so, the man failed to return her telephone calls.

HARKER AGREED to follow the matter up.

In another complaint, Harker promised four homeowners would receive fill in their backyards to give them level grades to a minimum of 25 feet from their homes. The homeowners complained the yards slope 23 degrees, making lawn mowing dangerous and devaluing their property.

Harker said his firm had not been able

Village To Blame For Illegal Tap Ons: MSD

Responsibility for 26 illegal sewer connections in the Timbercrest subdivision was laid squarely with the Schaumburg Building Department Friday by candidates for and employees in the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago (MSD).

The 26 connections were from catch basins in garages, which drained storm water into sanitary sewers. The set up causes raw sewage backups in homes and streets, said Ayoub Y. Talhami, MSD supervising engineer, local sewer systems section.

The basins should have drained into storm sewers, and village inspectors were responsible for that part of the system, said Talhami. MSD inspectors have jurisdiction over the main system, home system construction of connections, said Talhami.

Talhami spoke at a candidates and information night sponsored by the Timbercrest Homeowners Association. Also attending were Richard Lanyon, supervising engineer of the MSD flood control section; Joan G. Anderson, Republican

MSD trustee candidate; Joanne Alter, Democratic trustee candidate, and Abe Eiserman, Republican candidate and an incumbent trustee.

OTHER CRITICISMS leveled at the village included:

Lanyon's denial that a choke dam was installed at Woodfield to retain flood water, and his comment that the MSD had no responsibility in the matter but the village did.

Talhami's comment that the subdivision was built on a flood plain.

Eiserman's comment that "it sounds like the Village of Schaumburg failed in planning for storm water flow. From what I hear, planning wasn't too good."

HOMEOWNERS COMPLAINED that the village solution to their illegal sewer connections is not workable, village officials are not responsive to their problems and the village did not inspect their homes while they were under construction.

Much of the discussion focused on the illegal connections, and means of correcting them. Talhami reported receipt of a letter from the village requesting an extension of time for the corrections, which are being made and paid for by Morwell Builders, developers of Timbercrest.

The corrections were to have been made by Oct. 1, but the village wrote in September that some homeowners were denying access to Morwell to make the corrections, said Talhami. The extension was granted to Nov. 18.

The homeowners explained the agreement they were asked to sign granting access included a clause absolving Morwell of any responsibility, should the corrective action be ineffective.

THEY ALSO SAID the system proposed by Morwell and approved by the village is not workable.

Talhami said the MSD cannot work directly with a builder, but only with a village. "Dealings with a builder must be done by the village," he said.

After the homeowners voiced complaints about street flooding "up to the top of cars" and sewer manholes "flying up three feet" because of excess pressure, Talhami commented on the general terrain.

"This entire area 10 years ago was farmland. This portion by the school is flood plain area," said Talhami. The land was built up with fill to install roads, he said. Such matters as drainage and flood plains are not MSD jurisdiction, but "are in the jurisdiction of local government," he said.

ASKING "WOULD IT not be proper for the MSD to flex its muscles with communities who want a lot of development quick," one association member suggested the district deny sewer connection permits for future developments in Schaumburg until all violations are corrected.

Eiserman responded that the village is the permittee in development, and the MSD can only require for construction on flood plains the necessary retention be provided and installations meet the specifications of sewer permit ordinances. If those conditions are met, "we have to accept their flow," said Eiserman.

$3,111 Netted For Hospital

A total of $3,111 was collected by 321 teens marching for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in September.

The collection drive was sponsored by the Gamma Theta chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority and assisted by the Beta Nu chapter of Hoffman Estates and Gamma Tau chapter of Schaumburg.

From Jane Addams Junior High School in Schaumburg, 49 teens collected $629; nine teens from Barrington High School, Barrington, collected $115; 40 teens from James B. Conant High School, Hoffman Estates collected $284; 70 teens from Robert Frost Junior High School, Schaumburg, collected $771 and three teens from Schaumburg High School, Schaumburg, collected $26.

First Impressions Count In Dress Shop Success

by MARILYN HEISER

Great looking clothes, extra special service, good location, and a little luck combine to make a successful dress shop, Mrs. Priscilla Solomon, owner of Resource at Town Square Shopping Center in Schaumburg, said.

If first impressions count, the store has the first four qualities going for it. Only Lady Luck knows about the fifth.

Located at Schaumburg and Roselle roads, Resource, with its bright orange shag carpeting and unfinished wood paneling, presents a casual yet upbeat atmosphere.

PETITE JUNIORS, regular juniors, and misses sizes are available at the shop, in out of the ordinary, good looking styles.

"Today's fashions are casual and sporty. We presently are oriented toward the casual, but carry dressy things as well, especially with the holiday season coming up," Mrs. Solomon said.

TONY ROGERS, her assistant, displayed several "now" items, ranging from a long knit dress to a twenties jacket and skirt ensemble to a shiny satin-like jumpsuit. Tartan plaid skirts, trouser outfits, and short knit dresses also were in evidence.

Jewelry, sweaters, handbags, body shirts and belts are also available. Searching out a needed item for a customer in supply houses also is done.

FIFTEEN YEARS in the clothing and design field have provided Mrs. Solomon with the necessary experience. "I've been in this business since 14," she said.

She and her husband David for five years have also owned a shop in Hyde Park, near the University of Chicago, called The Source. "We offer moderate priced clothes of good quality. I go on buying trips to New York and California, and search out new designs. I also watch the expensive lines, and buy the less expensive copies."

Mrs. Solomon studied fashion design at the Art Institute in Chicago, and designed clothes for The Source until it became too time-consuming.

SHE HAS organized fashion shows for television and community organizations in Chicago, and has offered to do the same in the Schaumburg area. "We supply the clothes free, and I write the descriptions. The exposure helps us," she said.

Resource opened this week, but the grand opening is Oct. 19-22. Wine and cheese will be served and gifts will be presented to all the women. A $50 gift certificate to Resource also will be given.

The dress shop is open 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Fill Offered To Park Board

The Hoffman Estates Park District may have overcome a major hurdle in the development of Highpoint Park if details can be worked out to transport more than 50,000 cubic yards of fill from a nearby construction site.

Charles Jeffress, assistant director of development for Kaufman and Broad, offered fill to the park district Wednesday evening at a village plan commission meeting.

The park district needs the fill to construct a flood proof area at the park so tennis courts and recreational fields could be constructed.

Both Jeffress and park district director Al Binder said approval must be obtained from the village for the plan to elevate a portion of the 35 acre park above a retention lake there.

Park officials have estimated it might cost $160,000 to purchase the fill. The expense was not anticipated by the district in a development referendum approved in June.

The district would need at least 80,000 cubic yards of fill to build the elevated section.

Binder said he has planned a meeting for Monday morning to work out the details of the offer.

Jeffress said Kaufman and Broad would pay for everything except the trucking of the dirt. He said trucking charges would not be too much.

Binder said the offer could speed the development of the park greatly. Park officials had said it might take as long as a year to accumulate that much fill.

Hoffman Estates High 60 Days Behind Schedule

Construction of Hoffman Estates High School is running almost 60 days behind schedule, but the contractor has assured the High School Dist. 211 Board that he will make up the lost time.

Representatives for Tonyan Construction Co., general contractor, and Ken Unteed, the building's architect, Thursday submitted a revised work schedule to the board calling for completion of the building by June 1, 1973.

The original schedule called for the building to be completed in April. It is scheduled to open in September, 1973.

The representative for Tonyan and Unteed agreed the new completion date can be met, but Unteed added, "It is going to take the effort of everyone on that job site to do it."

The board was told the delays so far have been caused by rain, a brief strike by carpenters in late June and by problems with the plumbing contractor, R. D. Caruso Co. of Hillside.

THE PLUMBING COMPANY, according to Unteed, had not completed drainage work on the site and has now been dismissed by Tonyan and another contractor hired.

The board, accompanied by its attorney and the attorney for Tonyan, held a half-hour closed meeting to discuss the possibility of lawsuits in connection with the plumbing contractor.

Following the closed session, Board Pres. Robert Creek said the board had determined that any legal problems arising from dismissal of the contractor "will be Tonyan's and not the board's because of the way we have written the contract."

Creek added that the problems with the plumbing contractor may have contributed to flooding of homes near the site in Hoffman Estates.

Residents have recently complained to the Hoffman Estates Village Board that water draining off the Higgins Road site has been caused by the construction of the high school. Creek said the failures of the plumbing contractor "undoubtedly" aggravated flooding problems.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS said the new plumbing contractor will be expected to finish the job at no added cost to the district.

Board members expressed concern that the building might not be completed in time. Board member Robert Seger said, "I've been extremely concerned about the lack of progress on this job because we had two or three months' leeway on completion and now it's gone."

Board member William Stenstrom asked what alternatives the board will have if the building is not completed on time. Unteed replied, "Several — and they're all legal."

Community Service Board Elects Head

Marilyn Quinn was elected chairman of Elk Grove Village Community Service Board of Directors at a regular meeting of the board Thursday evening.

Mrs. Quinn was elected unanimously to fill the unexpired term of the Rev. Quentin Goodrich.

Rev. Goodrich announced his resignation as chairman at the September meeting of the board. He cited his appointment as executive director of the Lutheran Community Service in Tacoma, Wash., as the reason for his resignation.

MRS. QUINN'S appointment to chairman was effective immediately.

Also at Thursday's meeting the board received a report from the counseling services committee on tentative plans to rent an office in the old village hall of Hoffman Estates. This facility would be used for the outpost in the Schaumburg Township area.

Community Service now uses an office in the Schaumburg Township Hall for an outpost, but the Hoffman Estates office would give the workers more space.

Expenses for the Hoffman Estates office will be a $10 monthly rental plus the cost of telephone installation and usage.

Tentative plans call for the outpost to be manned one day a week with possible increasing of service as needed.

IN OTHER action:

—a committee was formed to solicit funds from groups in the Schaumburg Township area and develop procedures to have residents of Schaumburg Township appointed to the board of directors.

The committee will initially be a three-man group, but may be expanded. The committee will be chaired by Brother Ferdinand Leyva, director of Alexian Brothers Medical Center; George Spees, village trustee; and Don Lange, chairman of the board's finance committee.

—a report was given showing that Community Service received 48 new contacts in September, with 26 new cases resulting.

—The financial report for the last five months was presented to the board.

—a report on the youth committee's activities was presented to the board.

Fill Offered To Park Board

The Hoffman Estates Park District may have overcome a major hurdle in the development of Highpoint Park if details can be worked out to transport more than 50,000 cubic yards of fill from a nearby construction site.

Charles Jeffress, assistant director of development for Kaufman and Broad, offered fill to the park district Wednesday evening at a village plan commission meeting.

The park district needs the fill to construct a flood proof area at the park so tennis courts and recreational fields could be constructed.

Both Jeffress and park district director Al Binder said approval must be obtained from the village for the plan to elevate a portion of the 35 acre park above a retention lake there.

Park officials have estimated it might cost $160,000 to purchase the fill. The expense was not anticipated by the district in a development referendum approved in June.

The district would need at least 80,000 cubic yards of fill to build the elevated section.

Binder said he has planned a meeting for Monday morning to work out the details of the offer.

Jeffress said Kaufman and Broad would pay for everything except the trucking of the dirt. He said trucking charges would not be too much.

Binder said the offer could speed the development of the park greatly. Park officials had said it might take as long as a year to accumulate that much fill.

Long Campaign: A Time To Settle Political Accounts

by BOB LAHEY

"Hi, I'm Paul Simon, your lieutenant governor."

"I'm helping out Ab Mikva today," he would add, thrusting into the hands of a passerby a brochure urging the reelection of the Democratic congressman seeking a seat in the new 10th Congressional District.

Simon spent one day in Des Plaines Saturday lending his name and his energy to his old friend Abner Mikva, displaced from his former Chicago district by reapportionment and seeking to retain a congressional seat in the new suburban district.

Simon readily admitted that he was no expert on the basic issues in the contest between Mikva and Republican Samuel H. Young, and he did not attempt to debate those issues. The lieutenant governor played the role of any amateur volunteer.

A MATURE man he encountered on the street told Simon, "Well, if Mikva is no better at being a congressman than he is on gun-control laws, I can't vote for him."

"Well," replied Simon, habitually running his hand through his hair, "He's a good man. Look over his literature anyway."

"I will, but I think he's way off base on gun control," said the man. As Simon turned away to shake more hands, cover more ground, the man followed. "But I sure am glad to meet you," he declared. "I wish I could be voting for you for governor."

Thanks, and move on. Never mind that there is not an iota of difference between Mikva's outlook on gun control and Paul Simon's.

THE WHOLE SCENARIO is not really about Paul Simon and Abner Mikva. It has more to do with political relationships and the nature of political campaigns.

Paul Simon, soon to be retired from his office, flies from Springfield to Des Plaines on a Saturday to pay a debt to an old friend who is fighting to keep from being retired.

He shies from debate, not wanting to say the wrong thing on behalf of Mikva. He is there, he says, simply "because I think Mikva is generally regarded as one of the more competent members of Congress, and I want to see him stay in Congress."

Beyond that, there are the many times that Abner Mikva has contributed his name and his energy to the cause of Paul Simon.

Back in the primary election campaign, there were the many times when they altered their schedules, tacked on one more visit to one more banquet at the end of a bone-wearying day, to make one more step, one more speech in the hopes of adding one more vote for the benefit of the other.

It's what you do when you are deep in politics.

And how do you do it in any shorter time than our present system allots to this procedure?

FINALLY, WE'RE getting to what this is all about. This has been a long, long campaign. With three weeks still to go to election day, the voters are bored, the candidates are weary, the costs go up and up.

A state legislative candidate was asked last week, after a meeting which consumed about three hours of time and gave the candidate an opportunity to speak for five minutes to perhaps a dozen voters in his district — if the primary election date shouldn't be moved closer to the general election, to reduce time and expenses.

After a long, melancholy sigh, he replied, "It would be nice if the primary were held about Sept. 15."

It would indeed. But it won't be.

The frustrations of the candidates and the boredom of the voters might be ameliorated in smaller geographical areas, such as legislative districts, if the campaign were shortened.

BUT THE POLITICAL veterans — the "names" — who are demanded at hundreds of rallies throughout the state, who value the appearance at their own functions of dozens of old friends, simply need all the days and weeks and months of the campaign that they can salvage in order to pay and collect all their debts of friendship.

And how would somebody like Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie have fared this year if there were only 30 or 45 days from primary to general election?

Immediately following the primary, he was said to be way behind his Democratic challenger Daniel Walker. Now, nearly seven months later, he is, according to what poll you believe, slightly behind, even, or slightly ahead.

That can't be done overnight.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In their resumes of the new season, several television critics have noted the networks are going in strong for "bolder themes" that once were broadcast taboos.

Already, there have been programs dealing with bigotry, abortion, homosexuality, sterility, VD, birth control and incest.

And that just covers the situation co-the situation comedies.

Hoping to cash in on this trend, I've been working on the pilot script for a new weekly series called "The Happy Hour."

It's a heart-warming story about an alcoholic bigot with an elbow fetish who operates an abortion clinic that actually is a front for the Gay Liberation Movement. Should run for years.

WITH THAT COMBINATION of sociological maladjustments, the scenario possibilities are practically endless.

In the introductory episode, I'm explaining how the protagonist, Elmer Umlaut, became an alcoholic.

I don't know if you ever met anyone with an elbow fetish, but people with this particular hangup get their kicks out of being poked in the ribs with an elbow.

Quite naturally they spend a lot of time in bars, where the high incidence of elbow-bending enhances their chances of getting jabbed in the thorax.

With all that hanging around taprooms, it isn't long before Umlaut is a full-blown lush.

As a matter of fact, Umlaut is obliged to do more drinking than the average run of elbow fetishists. The reason being that he is bigoted on such matters as race, religion, color, creed, sex, national origins, politics and wallpaper.

IN SOUNDING OFF about his prejudices, he invariably offends the people standing or sitting next to him at the bar.

They begin edging away until they are out of elbow-poking range, which frustrates poor Umlaut and causes him to drink more heavily than he otherwise would. But one evening he hits the jackpot.

He bellies up to a bar next to a man who happens to be a traveling salesman. As is the nature of his trade, the salesman is a compulsive joke teller.

Ordinarily, a traveling salesman's japes will empty a barroom even quicker than a bigot's barbs. But Umlaut is in fetish heaven.

For after every punchline, the salesman digs him in the ribs and says, "Get it?"

All goes well until the traveling salesman discovers that Umlaut is prejudiced against farmers' daughters. But that doesn't happen until almost time for the summer reruns.

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

In some circles, these boys are known as the "Flat Earth Research Society" busy with stamping out dinosaurs," writes the Rev. Eugene Nissen, pastor of St. Andrew's Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Pastor Nissen's letter to this column enclosed samples of anti-evolution literature from both the Creation Research Center in San Diego, as well as the Bible Science Association, of Caldwell, Idaho.

If these organizations appear obscure, there are such major bodies as the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod (2.9 million members) most of whose incumbent national leadership appears strongly opposed to the theory of evolution.

During last winter's meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) a Dr. John Moore, of Michigan State University, told an organization called the Society For The Study of Evolution that Darwin's theory is "incredible" and "illogical." He based this conclusion among other reasons upon what he reported as a chromosome count in frogs.

BUT WHAT MAY be the opening gun in a national anti-evolution campaign has been fired by the otherwise intelligent and invariably affable religion editor of The Washington Evening Star and Daily News.

William ("Willow Bill") Willoughby has filed a federal court suit naming as defendants both the Biological Sciences Curriculum Study, of the University of Colorado; as well as the National Science Foundation, of the U.S. Government.

In a column devoted to an apology for his notable litigation, religion editor Willoughby has sensibly (if not too convincingly) dissociated himself from all such as the late William Jennings Bryan & Co.

He opens his explanatory column by noting, pointedly, that he has actually read Charles Darwin's "Origin of Species" — which he does not want banned from any classroom.

What he wants, he writes, is "fair play ... by including a theory (of creation) that is just as plausible as the evolution theory." For: "government money is in fact sponsoring and disseminating a world view highly inimical to my religious and academic views."

If Willoughby's suit is not promptly dismissed by the court, devout Christian Scientists should be able to avail themselves of a legal field day. They can begin litigation to compel an equivalent governmental financing of training of Christian Science practitioners as is presently provided by tax subsidies for state medical schools.

The Latter Day Saints (Mormons) can then sue to require that all history books provide space for mention of Jesus Christ's alleged visit to North America. The Jehovah's Witnesses can file for equal time in all school health courses and medical schools in order to issue appropriate denunciations of blood transfusions.

IN BOULDER, COLO., Dr. William Mayer, director of the Biological Sciences Curriculum Study which is being sued by Willoughby, notes that the lawsuit charges "a deliberate excising of the creation theory from the body of scientific knowledge."

Comments Dr. Mayer: "Such a theory has never been in the body of scientific knowledge! In fact, when I ask such people about what hypothesis, data and experimentation has led to this 'theory,' I get either silence, or the idea of an infallible book. This is a cute way to sell their own textbooks, which they are publishing out in San Diego."

"All material relating to evolution in our books is clearly labeled as a 'theory,'" said Dr. Mayer, "But if these people ever get in a position where they can dictate school texts, I shall fully expect a demand for square globes in all classrooms!"

Stanford University's Dr. Paul Hurd, professor emeritus of education, whose specialty is scientific education, comments:

"While Darwin's theory is the best we have to date, this could change tomorrow. But in 25 years, I have never seen a textbook which contends that the theory of evolution is incontrovertible fact. And while I go over some 40 professional journals a month, I have yet to hear of any responsible or well established scientific organization even proposing a discussion of evolution's alleged implausibility."

JOSEPH E. McLAUGHLIN, director of the Mackinac Island (Mich.) Chamber of Commerce, writes to clarify one point in this column's recent feature on the Rev. Rex Humbard: that the Rev. Rex owns merely a part rather than all of Mackinac Island. McLaughlin also writes that he "enjoyed this article immensely," — a welcome contrast to considerable mail received from disciples of the Rev. Rex.

BUTTON COLLECTORS have a field day at candidate's fairs. Bumper stickers, buttons, bottle caps, shopping bags are all available — even if you can't vote yet.

FORTY CANDIDATES in search of an audience gathered at Arlington Park race track Friday night. Most of the candidates ended up talking to themselves in what has become the hallmark of the 1972 campaign.

Political Fireworks Smothered Here

works was for nothing. And so it was at the league's shindig Friday night. Whatever political fireworks were in store were smothered in an asbestos blanket of special suburban weave.

Oh, the candidates and their representatives tried.

Ed Frank the Democratic Congressional candidate facing incumbent Philip Crane pointed to Crane's absence from the fair and tried to make it seem as if Crane were afraid to face him.

It was a little like General Lee arriving at Gettysburg and grumbling about where the hell the Union cavalry was hiding.

There might have been some fireworks between Tom Flynn, Democratic candidate for state senator in the 4th District, and his opponent, John Nimrod, but the two men never got a chance to face off. Flynn was talking to passers-by about what he claims is Nimrod's record as a political hatchet man for Gov. Ogilvie. Nimrod was there for a short time but then left the campaigning to his wife.

Unfortunately, that was the case with too many candidates. Although league spokesmen say Dan Walker's staff said the gubernatorial candidate would show up, he sent his son instead. The same was true for virtually all Democratic candidates above the local races.

In fact, a new record of voter apathy was broken Friday night by the county Democratic ticket. At booths assigned to Clerk of Circuit Court Matt Danaher, and Coroner Dr. Andrew Toman not a single interested person was seen to visit their displays for over two hours.

The highly visible local candidates were by far attracting the most attention. Gene Schlickman, Ginny Macdonald, Eugenia Chapman, John Kelley, John Graham, Dick Mugalian . . . the office holders past or present who are part of the Northwest suburbs were the most sought out . . . if only by each other.

Kelley, House candidate in the 3rd District summed it up: "It's a pleasure to meet so many interested candidates," he said.

One member of the league offered an explanation for Friday's dismal turnout which may strike to the heart of it. "This is the age of mass media," she said. "Maybe people only relate or are interested in what they can see on television or in print. I suppose if you put this whole show on television the candidates would seem more important and the viewers would think they were really watching an event of some magnitude."

Maybe. But maybe they'd still watch Brian Keith and "The Little People" instead.

Illinois State Chamber Elects Leaders For Year

Wendell J. Kelley, president of the Illinois Power Co., Decatur, was recently elected chairman of the board of the 20,000-member Illinois State Chamber of Commerce for the coming year.

Elections took place during the statewide business organization's 54th annual meeting last week in Chicago's Palmer House.

Kelley succeeds Ralph I. Claassen of Peoria as the State Chamber's chief voluntary office. Claassen, vice president and general production manager of Hiram Walker & Sons, Inc., has led the chamber for the past two years.

To serve with Kelley, three new district vice chairmen were elected and three re-elected. The six vice chairmen, each representing a different region of the state, were named for one-year terms. They are: John P. Clarke, publisher, Illinois State Journal and Register, Springfield (reelected); Theodore F. Gundlach, general manager, J.M.J. Industries, Inc., Belleville (first term); Clifford N. Hathway, vice president, personnel and public affairs, Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria (first term); William T. Jacobs, president, Bill Jacobs Chevrolet, Inc., Joliet (reelected); Clifford L. Peterson, senior vice president, Deere & Co., Moline (first term); and Howard O. Wagner, executive vice president, finance, Jewel Companies, Inc., Chicago (reelected).

Walker Hits Mental Health

Charging that Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has allowed a "serious deterioration" of Illinois' mental health program, Democratic challenger Daniel Walker has issued a 33-page proposal containing his ideas of mental health.

"Essential to an effective mental health program for Illinois is involved, enlightened and responsible leadership by the governor," Walker said.

"The serious deterioration in the program which has occurred in the last four years is due in large part to the absence of such leadership."

Walker said if elected he would:

—Restore authority to the Mental Health Department. He charged that under Ogilvie the Bureau of the Budget has been "meddlesome" and has undermined the morale of mental health professionals.

—Insure the Mental Health Department "an adequate budget."

—Support research and training.

—Try to obtain more federal funds.

—Eliminate political patronage in the department.

Walker also said he would try to get "widespread public involvement" in the state's mental health programs. He said that would "promote greater understanding of the existing services and the need for new services."

FORTY CANDIDATES in search of an audience gathered at Arlington Park race track Friday night. Most of the candidates ended up talking to themselves in what has become the hallmark of the 1972 campaign.

works was for nothing. And so it was at the league's shindig Friday night. Whatever political fireworks were in store were smothered in an asbestos blanket of special suburban weave. Oh, the candidates and their representatives tried.

Ed Frank the Democratic Congressional candidate facing incumbent Philip Crane pointed to Crane's absence from the fair and tried to make it seem as if Crane were afraid to face him.

It was a little like General Lee arriving at Gettysburg and grumbling about where the hell the Union cavalry was hiding.

There might have been some fireworks between Tom Flynn, Democratic candidate for state senator in the 4th District, and his opponent, John Nimrod, but the two men never got a chance to face off. Flynn was talking to passers-by about what he claims is Nimrod's record as a political hatchet man for Gov. Ogilvie. Nimrod was there for a short time but then left the campaigning to his wife.

Unfortunately, that was the case with too many candidates. Although league spokesmen say Dan Walker's staff said the gubernatorial candidate would show up, he sent his son instead. The same was true for virtually all Democratic candidates above the local races.

In fact, a new record of voter apathy was broken Friday night by the county Democratic ticket. At booths assigned to Clerk of Circuit Court Matt Danaher, and Coroner Dr. Andrew Toman not a single interested person was seen to visit their displays for over two hours.

The highly visible local candidates were by far attracting the most attention. Gene Schlickman, Ginny Macdonald, Eugenia Chapman, John Kelley, John Graham, Dick Mugalian... the office holders past or present who are part of the Northwest suburbs were the most sought out... if only by each other.

Kelley, House candidate in the 3rd District summed it up: "It's a pleasure to meet so many interested candidates," he said.

One member of the league offered an explanation for Friday's dismal turnout which may strike to the heart of it. "This is the age of mass media," she said. "Maybe people only relate or are interested in what they can see on television or in print. I suppose if you put this whole show on television the candidates would seem more important and the viewers would think they were really watching an event of some magnitude."

Maybe. But maybe they'd still watch Brian Keith and "The Little People" instead.

Illinois State Chamber Elects Leaders For Year

Wendell J. Kelley, president of the Illinois Power Co., Decatur, was recently elected chairman of the board of the 20,000-member Illinois State Chamber of Commerce for the coming year.

Elections took place during the statewide business organization's 54th annual meeting last week in Chicago's Palmer House.

Kelley succeeds Ralph I. Claassen of Peoria as the State Chamber's chief voluntary office. Claassen, vice president and general production manager of Hiram Walker & Sons, Inc., has led the chamber for the past two years.

To serve with Kelley, three new district vice chairmen were elected and three re-elected. The six vice chairmen, each representing a different region of the state, were named for one-year terms. They are: John P. Clarke, publisher, Illinois State Journal and Register, Springfield (reelected); Theodore F. Gundlach, general manager, J.M.J. Industries, Inc., Belleville (first term); Clifford N. Hathway, vice president, personnel and public affairs, Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria (first term); William T. Jacobs, president, Bill Jacobs Chevrolet, Inc., Joliet (reelected); Clifford L. Peterson, senior vice president, Deere & Co., Moline (first term); and Howard O. Wagner, executive vice president, finance, Jewel Companies, Inc., Chicago (reelected).

Studies To Aid In Curbing Flooding

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Studies of two Northwest suburban river basins are getting under way in connection with a $2.8 million program to curb future flooding along streams. Work has begun on a study of the Des Plaines River basin and will begin soon in the Poplar Creek basin.

Both projects are part of the one-year-old Chicago Metropolitan Area River Basin Plan which is expected to be completed in four years.

The studies are similar to one done by a citizens committee and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service on Salt Creek. Federal funding is now being sought to implement recommendations of that Salt Creek study.

Richard Lanyon, supervising engineer for flood control with the Metropolitan Sanitary District, said citizen volunteers on the Des Plaines River Basin Steering Committee already have collected some data on flooding along the river and that aerial photos have been made of property along the river so that maps can be drawn.

Lanyon said work will begin soon on the Poplar Creek basin which is in the Hoffman Estates area.

Studies of two other river basins — the Little Calumet River south of Chicago and the North Branch of the Chicago River — will be completed this winter, Lanyon said.

Three divisions of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture — the Soil Conservation Service, the Forest Service and the Economic Research Service — are responsible for the research under the plan.

Citizen groups concerned with each of the river basin studies survey local conditions and report back to government officials.

The final Chicago Metropolitan Area River Basin Plan is expected to be completed in July 1976.

The study focuses on areas which will not be directly served by the Chicago Underflow Plan of storage reservoirs and underground tunnels which serve combined sewer areas in close in suburbs and the City of Chicago.

Sept. 1 Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie signed legislation appropriating $172,500 for study tests for the current fiscal year.

Federal contributions for the current fiscal year are $415,000.

On an overall basis the MSD will contribute $1,575,000 to the project.

The studies of the two river basins getting underway will include watershed protection, flood damage reduction, water management, fish and wildlife, recreation and water quality.

River Basin Communities Reply To Questionnaire

Twenty-five communities in the Des Plaines River Basin have replied to a questionnaire sent out by the Des Plaines River Basin Steering Committee.

The committee sent the questionnaires to 44 towns as part of its research to develop a flood control plan under the Chicago Metropolitan Area River Basin plan study now under way.

Committee chairman Eugene C. Doyle, mayor of Northlake, said the questionnaires sent to each town asked for copies of master plans, zoning maps, and flood-control ordinances.

In addition, each town was asked to provide locations of stream debris in its vicinity which should be cleaned out, problem areas caused by combined sanitary and storm sewer overflow, the history of its flooding problem, a flood plain map, an inventory of undeveloped and open land and names of residents who would be willing to distribute questionnaires and conduct interviews on flood damage.

Doyle said the results of the questionnaires are being turned over to the U. S. Soil conservation service.

3rd District House Candidates

John P. Kelley

John P. Kelley

He's In Position To Be Watch Dog

John P. Kelley is a big robust man who physically fits the image of the old time Irish politician. The father of eight children, with five now in their teens, he looks at his flock and sees reasons to be in politics.

But, his warm nature and self-labeled liberalism dispels part of the image his person projects . . . and at the same time his liberalism has its limitations too.

Kelley, a Schaumburg resident, is an attorney and a certified public accountant who said his education and training has brought him to "a point in life where I decided to take a crack at elective office itself."

His choice to run as state representative from the new 3rd District follows more than a decade of activity with Schaumburg Township's Democratic Party Organization.

HE'S MOTIVATED TO run by what he termed an "apparent lack of integrity on the part of elected and appointed officials and its effect on people as a whole."

He pointed to the current indictment against former Gov. Otto Kerner as a great personal disappointment, then added he sees no lack of integrity among candidates or officials in the 3rd District.

Kelley said his auditing experience puts him in a good position to act as a watch dog preventing incidents like the extensive spending on a mansion for Southern Illinois University's president. The discovery of $1 million in unprocessed checks held by the state's Department of Revenues is example of another incident Kelley believes he can prevent.

LIKE EVERYONE else, flooding problems bother Kelley.

"One thing that bothers me most of all," he said, "by continuing to develop vacant land we may be putting the cost of solutions beyond our control."

The solution, he adds, is to develop flood plains as parks while they're still undeveloped.

Local government is closer to the people and to the solution of any problem, Kelley said. But, if local government doesn't do the job needed on flooding, the state and federal government will take over . . . and they'll take over on zoning and building ordinances too, he added.

To motivate local government to do its job he would support legislation enabling the state's attorney general to take action against developers because the problem crosses village lines.

ABOUT LOW AND moderate-income housing coming to the 3rd District, Kelley said he recognizes the need for those who want to work here but can't afford to live here.

He believes there's a place for low and moderate-income housing here to give people exposure to "the better things that prevail in suburban schools, suburban super markets with their lower prices. But, it must be done "without destroying the whole fabric (of the community)," He also emphasized any action

"has to consider the effect of the people already here." The balancing decision on low and moderate-income housing will probably be settled in the courts regardless of what advance action is taken, said Kelley. He is content to let the courts handle the matter.

AMONG KELLEY'S activities is his position as a lay member of the board of education at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

If elected to state office he'd resign his position to avoid conflict of interest when he supports parochial legislation, he said.

It would cost the tax payers in High School District 211 and 214 an additional $1.2 million annually to take on the students from St. Viator, should the school ever close, he said.

If parents paying tuition at St. Viator's were given a $200 annual tax break for each student they're sending to the school, the tax payers in Districts 211 and 214 would still be $1 million ahead, he added.

Beyond economics, he favors parochial philosophically, too. He said we're living in a pluralistic society that shouldn't stress an obligation to mold children into "identical tin soldiers."

"WE NO LONGER find a need to bleach the black man," he said, adding, "there are black study programs. He doesn't have to revere the same colonial heroes."

Kelley added he'd work to allow public funds be used to do the same thing for parochial school within the frame work of existing laws.

"If it (parochial) comes, St. Viator's should be required to open its books to the state. The school should have to adhere to government standards and accounting practices," he added.

Kelley is generally in agreement with current abortion law in Illinois and stressed his "great sanction for human life."

Before condescending to any liberalization of abortion law he'd have to be certain it is aimed at protecting the pregnant woman's health and accounts for the baby's life starting earlier than birth.

"I'd prefer not to pinpoint that," he said, when asked at what point he believes a baby's life begins.

Asked about the Chicago Transit Authority, Kelley said it is the responsibility of the City of Chicago, but obviously has repercussions in suburban Cook County.

"I'll be in favor of giving MFT (motor fuel tax) funds to the CTA," he said, adding his disappointment in the development of roads and highways.

To accommodate transportation needs he'd advocate a six county mass transportation district approved by referendum with provisions for public veto of how much money can be spent.

He feels communities close to O'Hare like Des Plaines and Bensenville should have a roll in controlling the airport.

Township government should be abolished because it doesn't serve a purpose except over a few square miles, he said. He believes the social services it provides can be allocated elsewhere.

"The conflicts overwhelm the benefits," he added.

Kelley also recognizes the need for a judicial review board, "Hell, you can get Charley Manson elected," he said of the present system.

Eugenia Chapman:

Education Is My First Responsibility

by CINDY TEW

When Eugenia S. Chapman, 3rd District Democrat, voted for a reform measure to cut down the number of educational service regions in the state, she had second thoughts.

"I felt ill voting for it," she said. "But it was better than nothing, I guess."

Mrs. Chapman, who has been in the state House of Representatives for four terms, knows that reform in any matter doesn't come all at once. In the case of the educational region "reform," the former 102 regions were cut to 80 regions.

"The state should have a half dozen such regions," Mrs. Chapman said.

And Mrs. Chapman should know. She's her party's spokesman on legislation affecting education.

"EDUCATION IS my first responsibility," she said. Mrs. Chapman, a former teacher, was a member of the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education from 1961 to 1964.

"My second priority is civil rights for women, since I'm one of only a few women in the House."

Mrs. Chapman is hopeful that the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution can be ratified during the next session of the legislature. She was the chief sponsor of the amendment in the House earlier this year.

Other of Mrs. Chapman's priorities are health and welfare needs and metropolitan problems, including water management and zoning laws.

"It's impossible to know all about all 6,300 bills which are introduced each session," she said. "I serve where I have the expertise to do so, and read reports and studies all the time."

Mrs. Chapman also makes sure she has time to help people in her district solve government problems.

"Not just philosophical problems, either," she said. "I try to take care of individual needs when people ask me for help."

Being accessible to her constituents is an important part of the job, according to Mrs. Chapman. She also tries to answer every letter that is sent to her.

"This doesn't mean I'm a computer. I don't subscribe to the philosophy that 'all I have to know is what the people of my district want,'" she said. "I respond to issues."

MRS. CHAPMAN would like to see more staff provided to legislators instead of more pay. Though she's not sure whether or not she'd vote for a raise in pay after the November election, she'd definitely vote for a housing allowance.

Honesty in government is a must, and Mrs. Chapman calls the Watergate incident in which Republicans allegedly broke into Democrats offices "just awful."

"People in public affairs should be honest and not even open to questions about their honesty," she said.

Cooperation between governmental units is becoming more and more necessary, said Mrs. Chapman.

"Take the example of the recent flooding in the suburbs," she said. "It's easy to pass the responsibility for this problem from one governmental unit to another. Every unit should plan for the maximum they can do."

Mrs. Chapman suggests that the state make up guidelines and that local governments should manage the situation, as is done with many educational problems. Cooperative arrangements, like the special education co-op in the Northwest suburbs, are a feasible means of handling situations that cross governmental boundaries, she said.

"At the state level, however, water management has been a low priority item, far behind highways and education. And this is a problem," said Mrs. Chapman.

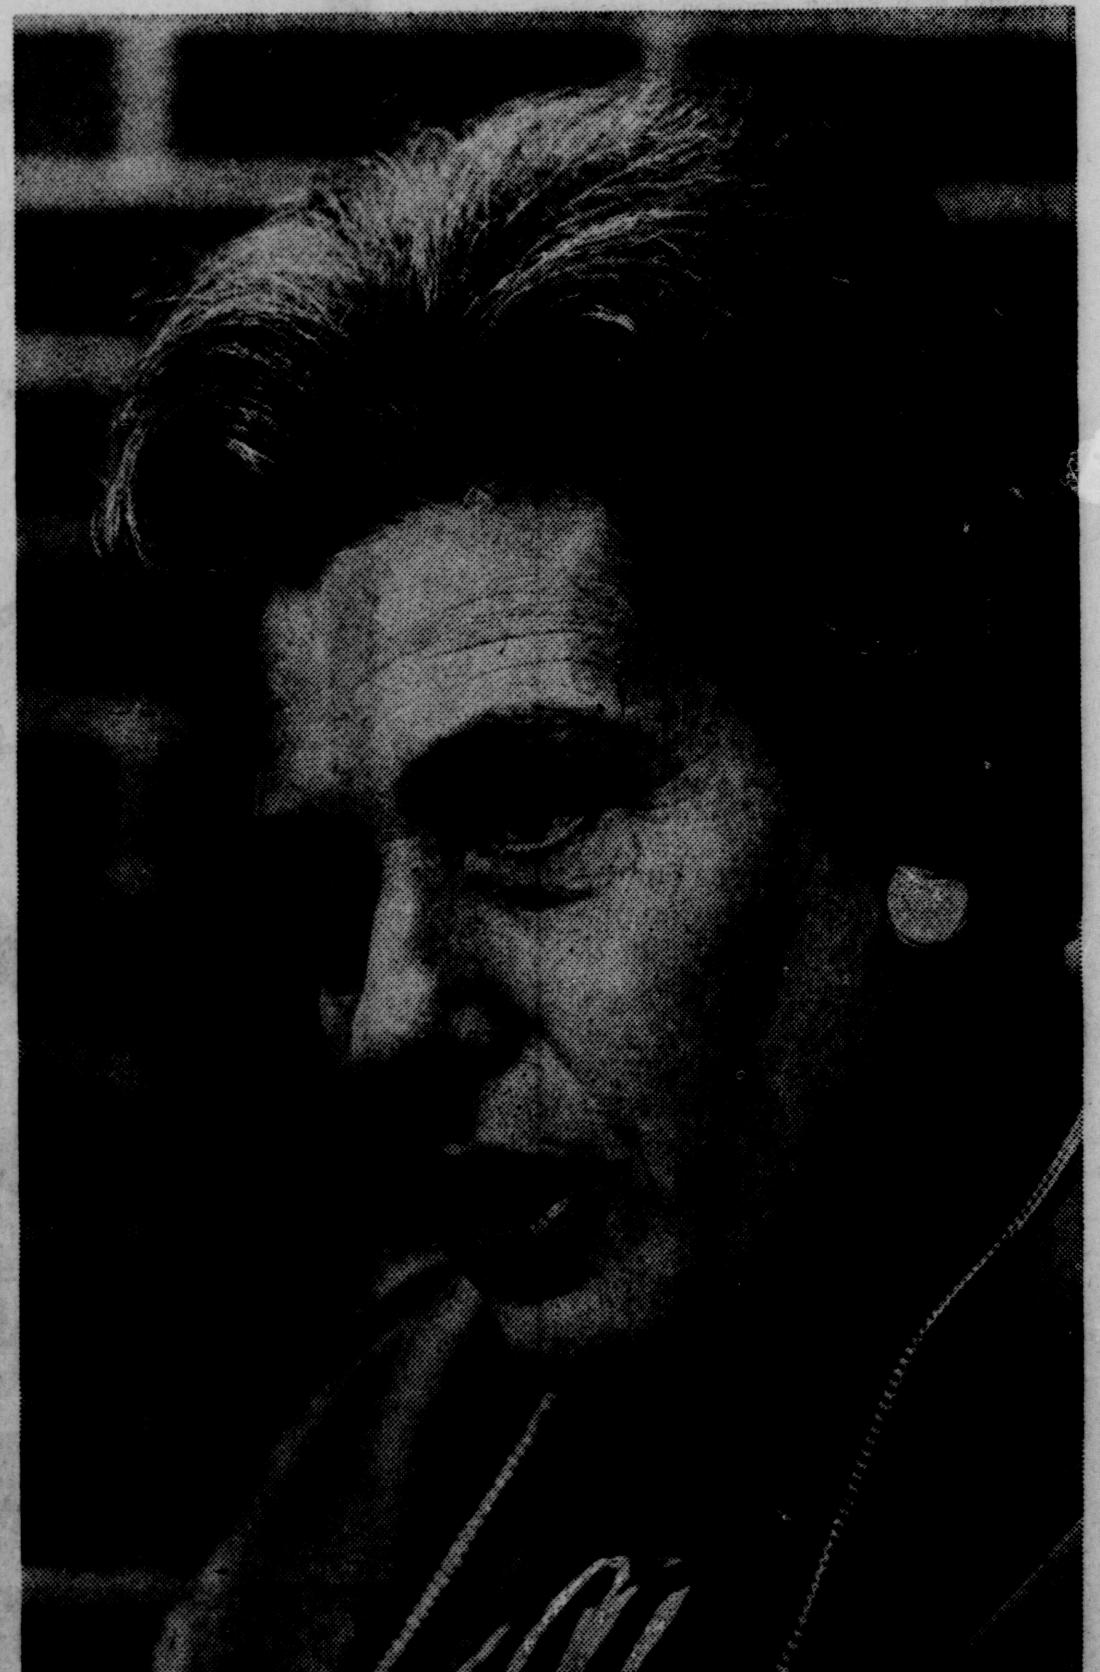

SAVING taxpayer's money by eliminating worthless offices at all levels of government is another major concern of Mrs. Chapman. Worthless offices, according to the veteran representative, include county school superintendents, township school treasurers and township government.

"It would be useless to introduce legislation to abolish township government, however, because the Republican bloc would vote against it," she said. "The Republicans are the villains in this case."

According to Mrs. Chapman, Cook County branch offices to include about six townships should replace the "archaic township government."

"The township officials don't have enough to do," she said. "Can you imagine? They're even willing to handle food stamps to try to prove they're worthwhile."

Saving taxpayer money by eliminating worthless offices is one of her concerns.

Interviews To Appear Daily

Paddock Publications today begins a series of presentations on candidates for state and county offices in the Nov. 7 general election.

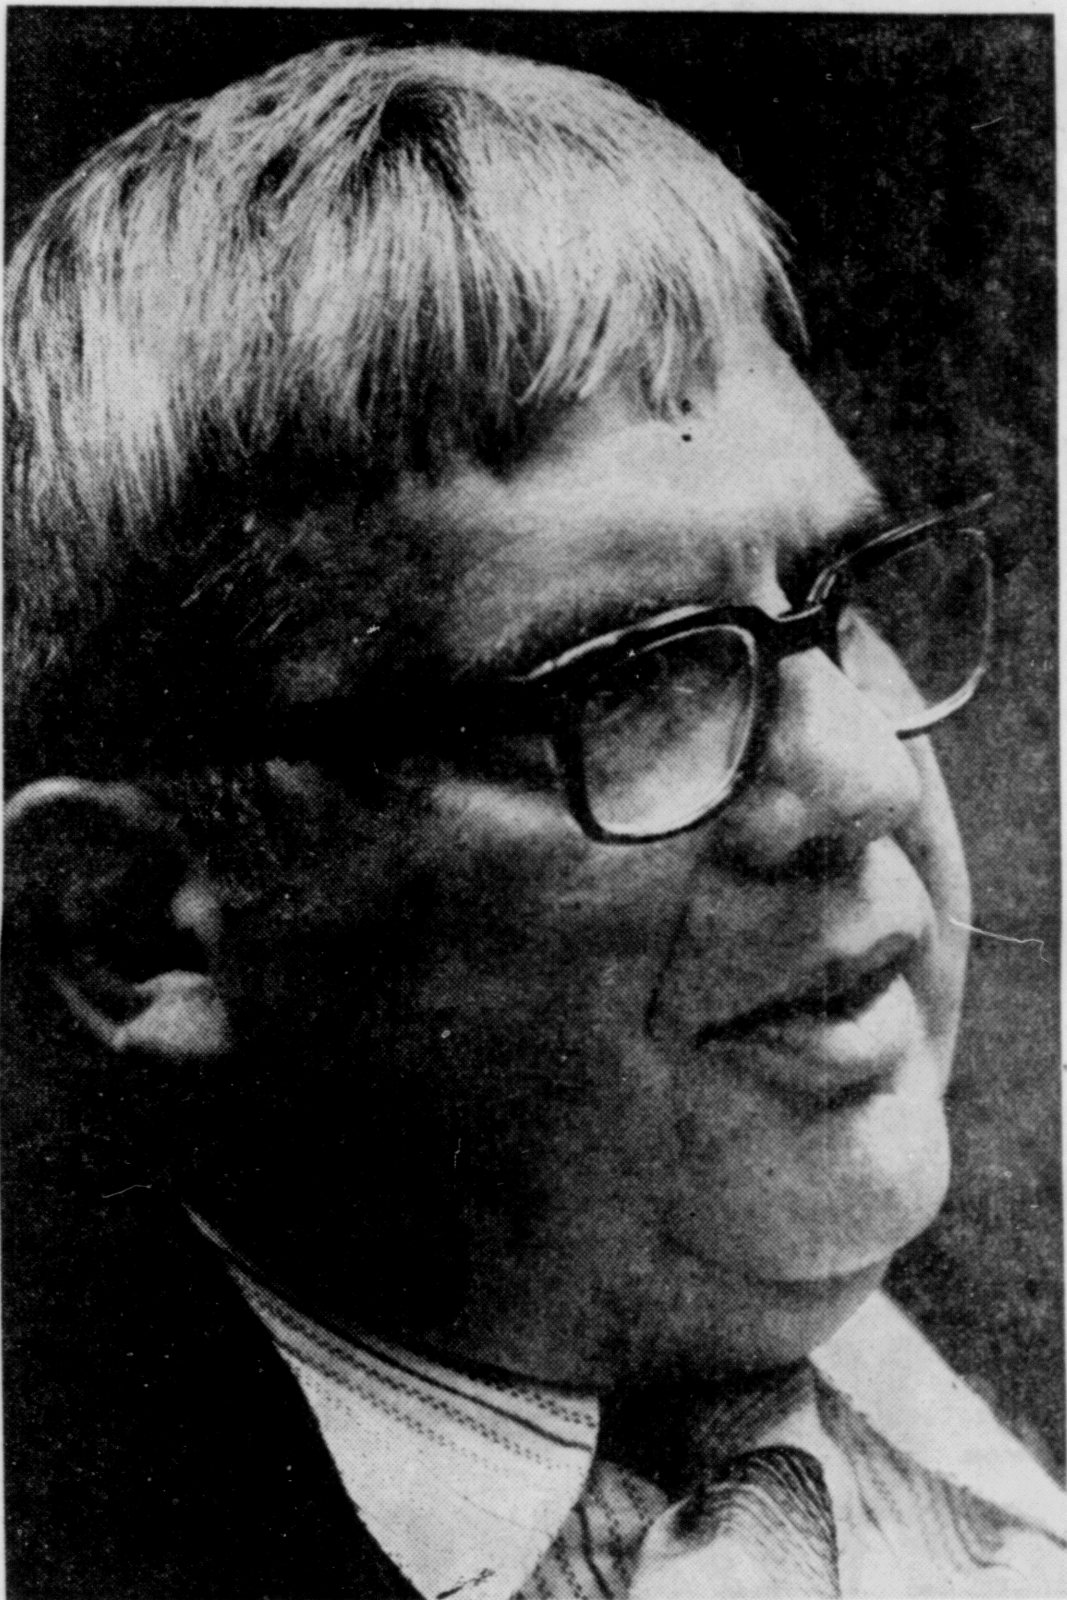

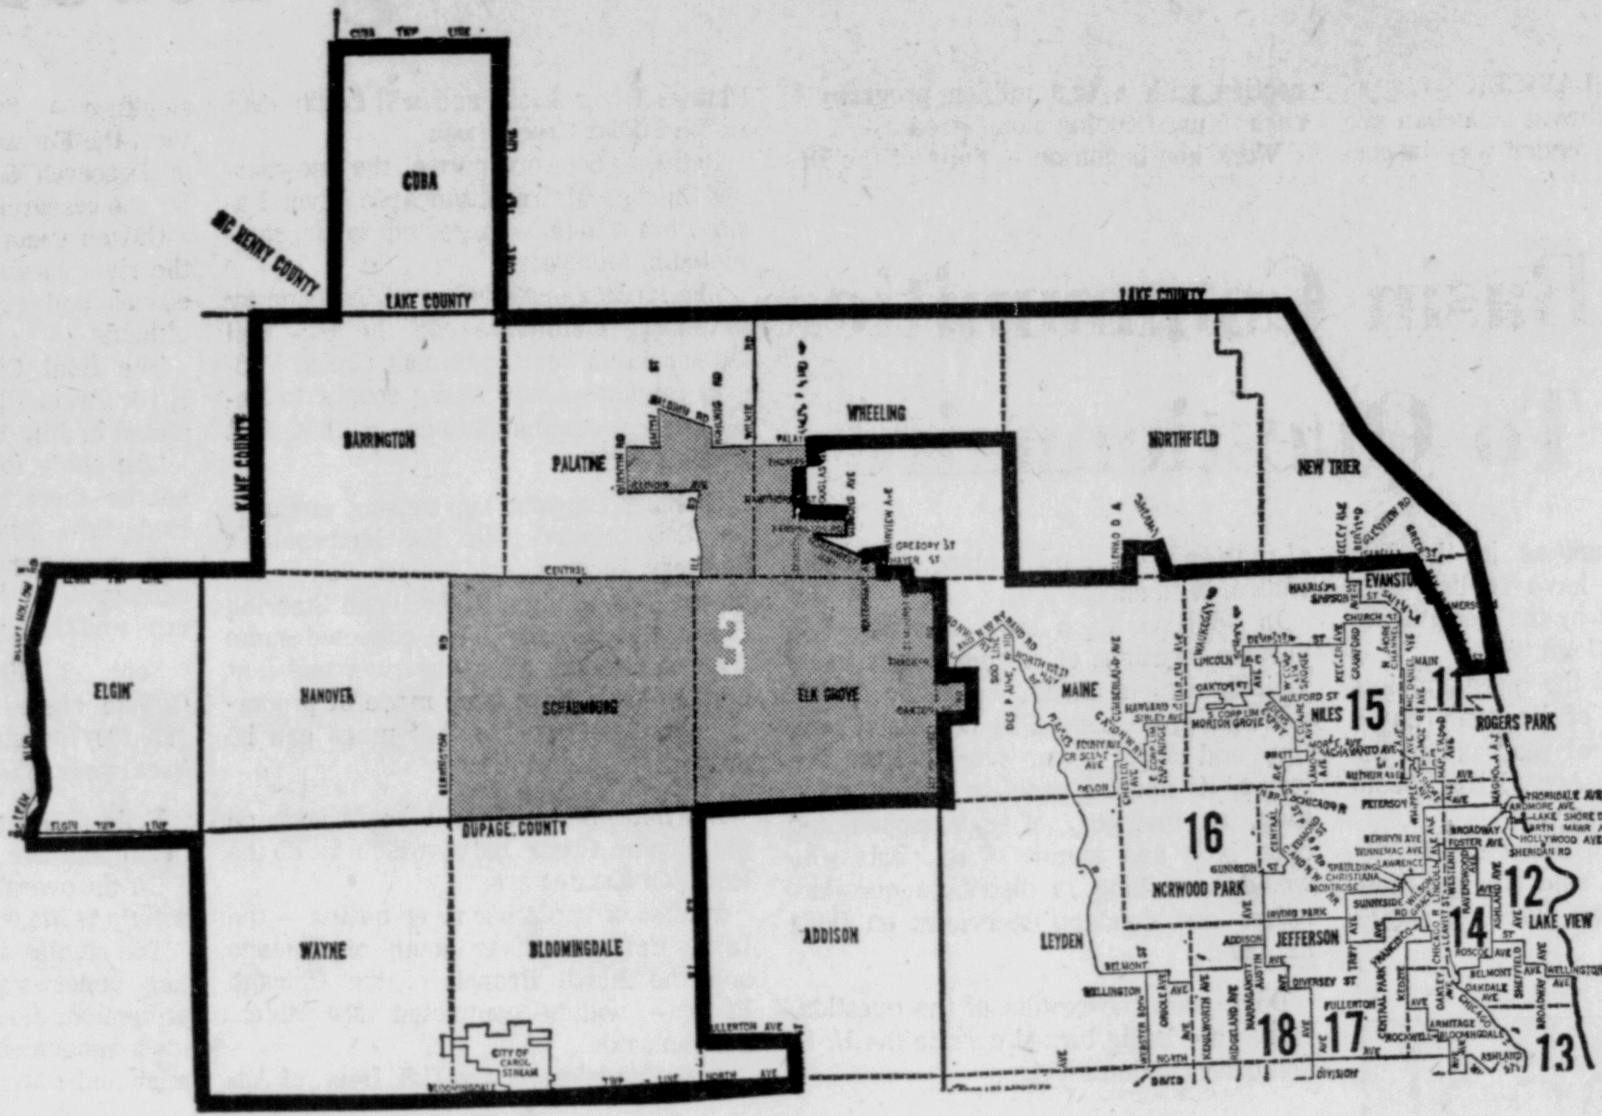

Presented here are interviews with the two Democratic candidates for the state House of Representatives in the 3rd Legislative District of Illinois, Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman of Arlington Heights, and John P. Kelley of Schaumburg.

Interviews with the Republican candidates, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights, and Donald L. Totten of Hoffman Estates, will be presented tomorrow.

Three of the four candidates will be elected to the House.

Interviews with local, county and state candidates will appear daily in the coming weeks as part of the Herald's long standing coverage of suburban politics. All candidates interviewed came before the Herald panel of some two dozen reporters and editors.

3rd District House Candidates

John P. Kelley

John P. Kelley

He's In Position To Be Watch Dog

John P. Kelley is a big robust man who physically fits the image of the old time Irish politician. The father of eight children, with five now in their teens, he looks at his flock and sees reasons to be in politics.

But, his warm nature and self-labeled liberalism dispels part of the image his person projects . . . and at the same time his liberalism has its limitations too.

Kelley, a Schaumburg resident, is an attorney and a certified public accountant who said his education and training has brought him to "a point in life where I decided to take a crack at elective office itself."

His choice to run as state representative from the new 3rd District follows more than a decade of activity with Schaumburg Township's Democratic Party Organization.

HE'S MOTIVATED TO run by what he termed an "apparent lack of integrity on the part of elected and appointed officials and its effect on people as a whole."

He pointed to the current indictment against former Gov. Otto Kerner as a great personal disappointment, then added he sees no lack of integrity among candidates or officials in the 3rd District.

Kelley said his auditing experience

puts him in a good position to act as a watch dog preventing incidents like the extensive spending on a mansion for Southern Illinois University's president. The discovery of $1 million in unprocessed checks held by the state's Department of Revenues is example of another incident Kelley believes he can prevent.

LIKE EVERYONE else, flooding problems bother Kelley.

"One thing that bothers me most of all," he said, "by continuing to develop vacant land we may be putting the cost of solutions beyond our control."

The solution, he adds, is to develop flood plains as parks while they're still undeveloped.

Local government is closer to the people and to the solution of any problem, Kelley said. But, if local government doesn't do the job needed on flooding, the state and federal government will take over . . . and they'll take over on zoning and building ordinances too, he added.

To motivate local government to do its job he would support legislation enabling the state's attorney general to take action against developers because the problem crosses village lines.

ABOUT LOW AND moderate-income housing coming to the 3rd District, Kelley said he recognizes the need for those who want to work here but can't afford to live here.

He believes there's a place for low and moderate-income housing here to give people exposure to "the better things that prevail in suburban schools, suburban super markets with their lower prices. But, it must be done "without destroying the whole fabric (of the community)," He also emphasized any action

"has to consider the effect of the people already here." The balancing decision on low and moderate-income housing will probably be settled in the courts regardless of what advance action is taken, said Kelley. He is content to let the courts handle the matter.

AMONG KELLEY'S activities is his position as a lay member of the board of education at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

If elected to state office he'd resign his position to avoid conflict of interest when he supports parochial legislation, he said.

It would cost the tax payers in High School District 211 and 214 an additional $1.2 million annually to take on the students from St. Viator, should the school ever close, he said.

If parents paying tuition at St. Viator's were given a $200 annual tax break for each student they're sending to the school, the tax payers in Districts 211 and 214 would still be $1 million ahead, he added.

Beyond economics, he favors parochial philosophically, too. He said we're living in a pluralistic society that shouldn't stress an obligation to mold children into "identical tin soldiers."

"WE NO LONGER find a need to bleach the black man," he said, adding, "there are black study programs. He doesn't have to revere the same colonial heroes."

Kelley added he'd work to allow public funds to be used to do the same thing for parochial school within the frame work of existing laws.

"If it (parochial) comes, St. Viator's should be required to open its books to the state. The school should have to adhere to government standards and accounting practices," he added.

Kelley is generally in agreement with current abortion law in Illinois and stressed his "great sanction for human life."

Before condescending to any liberalization of abortion law he'd have to be certain it is aimed at protecting the pregnant woman's health and accounts for the baby's life starting earlier than birth.

"I'd prefer not to pinpoint that," he said, when asked at what point he believes a baby's life begins.

Asked about the Chicago Transit Authority, Kelley said it is the responsibility of the City of Chicago, but obviously has repercussions in suburban Cook County.

"I'll be in favor of giving MFT (motor fuel tax) funds to the CTA," he said, adding his disappointment in the development of roads and highways.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I want to inquire about a recent experience I had with a nose bleed.

A few years ago in New York I was seen by a heart specialist for rapid heart beat. The following day I did some unusual things and developed a shaking sensation plus chest sweat and blacked out. An ambulance took me to the hospital. They gave me Cedanalid and after an electrocardiogram Hydrodiuril Quinidine and Aldomet. I was checked out of the hospital the following day. I had two doctors from India work on me and they sure went to town.

A few weeks ago I went to bed at 10:15 p.m. Suddenly I felt a pouring like water coming from my nose. Putting my finger to the base of the nose, I noted it was very dark reddish blood. I went to our local emergency ward in the hospital. The blood actually poured out. Cool wash cloths were used.

The nurse supplied a half moon bandage and the doctor inserted a flat piece of bandage about 1/16 inch thick and 1/2 inch wide. I got two different injections and was put to bed with the blood pressure being checked regularly. At entry my pressure was over 200, which may have been caused by the sudden "party" with the bleeding.

The doctor okayed me and now I take things in moderation. What I want to know is if this happens again (and I hope it won't) is there some sort of treatment I can resort to before I can get help?

Dear Reader — Your nose bleed is probably related to high blood pressure. Some of the medicines you've listed are given for that. Keeping your blood pressure down will help to prevent another episode. This is why your doctor has asked you to take things easy. Your medicines and keeping your weight down and not overdoing it physically will go a long way towards helping you.

Even with high blood pressure, the reason bleeding occurs is because of damage to the blood vessels. You may not be able to totally prevent the vessel damage but you might help minimize it by being certain that you have a proper diet and that you get plenty of vitamin C.

It sounds to me like you did all right with your last emergency. The most important thing is to stay calm while you're getting help. Keep seated upright so that you don't strangle on any blood that might run down your throat. Also that keeps the head above the heart level which minimizes the pressure that would aggravate bleeding. A cold wet bandage over the nose is sometimes helpful.

Pinching shut the end of the nose may help if the bleeding is in the tip. But if there is lots of blood it may just run down the back of your throat. A small, cold compress inside the tip of the nose will sometimes stop bleeding. Frequently with a severe nose bleed though, it will be necessary to have a doctor pack the nose. With less severe nose bleeds, some of them will stop spontaneously, but even so in an individual with your past history, I think you ought to see a doctor if such an episode occurred.

Housing's Up To Suburbs

A crucial and enduring test for the suburbs — the question of low and moderate income housing — rose again last week and again posed both a threat and a promise for Northwest suburban communities.

In close succession recently the American Civil Liberties Union disclosed its plan for widespread subsidized housing in the suburbs, a federal court ruled the case of the St. Viator land housing project will indeed have to come to trial, and Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect became the latest suburban leader to face squarely the real questions of housing programs for his community.

In the case of Mayor Teichert's response, his answers represent the way we hope the suburbs will respond in the future.

As we have said in this space before, the clearest and soundest answer to the challenge of low and moderate income housing is suburban leadership which recognizes the issues and works to meet them, not thwart them.

Such leadership was exhibited last week by Robert Teichert in his address to the Board of Trustees of Mount Prospect. Teichert, as Village President, sits on a 12-member panel of suburban mayors who collectively are working with the Metropolitan Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities.

Teichert is not an avid proponent of low and moderate income housing and his membership on the committee does not mean he is biased in its favor. In fact, Teichert's conservatism on social issues often clashes with this newspaper's view of government as a means for social change.

But with that aside, Mayor Teichert has correctly touched the nerve of this issue: The suburbs must take action on their own, they must respond to low and moderate housing needs or they will surely face imposed answers from experts who will crack suburban boundaries with a vengeance.

Teichert's reaction to this is the best, and so is his summation.

"Housing is our nation's greatest problem. It will be solved with or without our community's help. I am hopeful that with our participation the solution may be one that is not only acceptable but good. In my judgment our participation is not only a practical necessity, it is a moral obligation."

Teichert correctly assesses the housing situation in the realistic terms of the needs of the metropolitan area. People need housing. It will come to us in one of two forms; as the planned development of the suburbs, or as imposed, court ordered housing as developed in the inner city.

One plan which has been submitted to the court for approval and implementation is the proposal made by the American Civil Liberties Union. In a plan submitted to U.S. District Court Judge Richard Austin, the private legal body proposed that the suburbs be included in any metropolitan plan for widespread low and moderate income housing and further, that suburban municipalities be allowed 180 days to prepare plans for such housing. The housing projects are not to exceed more than two per cent of the suburbs' number of dwelling units.

Should a suburban municipality refuse to abide by the court's order, planning would be done for the community at a rate of four per cent low and moderate income housing per total number of units.

Called an "opportunity" to plan for programmed housing by the suburbs, the ACLU's plan is really a threat and treats low and moderate income housing as a punishment to the suburbs. Plan for it yourself and get two per cent, the plan says, or fail to plan and someone else will punish you with four per cent.

Such thinking is typical of metropolitan planners who regard the residents of the suburbs as appendages to the city and therefore subject to the whims of the city. Worse, it treats the future residents of low income housing projects as commodities to be used as the embodiment of a type of rough justice which is not really justice at all, but a form of revenge.

No, the answer does not lie in those forced plans. The answer is with responsible suburban leadership which sees housing problems beyond the boundaries of isolated suburban communities.

We believe such leadership exists in the Northwest suburbs and that a new generation of responsible public officials is at hand.

For it is not enough for us to punch holes in the urban planners. As Robert Teichert points out, it is up to the suburbs to produce programs of their own.

Prayer Vigil Is Backed

After reading Mr. Rosenberger's statement, I realized that there is a lot of misunderstanding regarding prayer vigils, especially the prayer vigil at St. Joseph the Worker Church on chastity this Friday night.

A prayer vigil's benefits are similar to that of solitary prayer, only they are enlarged. What is the benefit of prayer? To bring graces (helps to get to heaven) to the participants, their family, the parish, the world. I believe that the whole idea of our life on earth is to earn our place in heaven, and to help others to get there.

Butchers Blasted

To all butchers:

I can understand your wanting to be home at night with your families. I wonder if the real reason you don't want to work after 6 p.m. is because you're afraid of the dark? I understand that the stores would like to sell meat after 6 p.m. without you being there, plus paying you extra for it and you also turned this down. If people didn't need meat you wouldn't have a job, and as far as I'm concerned, you're too spoiled and too lazy to do a little extra work for people who only get a chance to shop at night or like to shop at night. I will admit, though, you have a lot of guts because someday if you haven't already you'll need the services of the police, hospitals, service stations and utilities and it's too bad they can't say, "Sorry, we can't help you because it's after 6 p.m."

Wayne S. Walters
Schaumburg

What with raising families, paying bills, worrying about urgent matters requiring our attention NOW, it is easy to forget about, or put off, a distant goal. That is why we need religious like the Franciscan Friars to remind us about the important things — like our souls. When we hope and pray that little Johnny makes the Little League, and Dad gets his contract renewed, Sally gets to be a cheerleader, and Mom, please God, needs help to stay on her diet, this is all to the good. We need a little heaven on earth. But we also have to keep our primary goal in mind, and fulfill the requests that God has made of us. We all know the Ten Commandments, but Our Lord also sent His Blessed Mother to Earth with a message for the world.

Our Lady appeared at Fatima to three peasant children. Three Popes have ruled these apparitions to be authentic. Part of Our Lady's message was "... fashions will be introduced that will be very offensive to my Son." Unfortunately, a lot of girls, and their parents, don't realize that mini-skirts, bikinis, shorts, sleeveless tops, bare midriffs, etc. are offensive to our Lord. You probably would not be able to tell the difference between a high school girl and a prostitute walking down the street, if it were not for the neighborhoods they each walk in, and the hour. That is why religious speakers include these subjects in their lectures.

Our Lady also asked for prayer and sacrifice. Praying all night is a sacrifice, believe me! That is why a lengthy prayer vigil is well organized. First of all it is in the church, because God is there, and the atmosphere is helpful to prayer. Time is allotted for private prayer, to hear speakers that give you food for thought (and prayer), and songs and processions that glorify God, and give you a chance to get up and move around — and keep awake! Some vigils include Mass which is the highest form of prayer.

Laugh if you like, that is your business, but many people feel that pleasing God is more important; and we would rather have His Blessings than yours. Anyway, that is what the prayer vigil is all about. Why don't you come and see for yourself?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter arrived too late for inclusion in our Friday edition.

Students View The Walkout

EDITORS NOTE: Two weeks ago, a walkout occurred at Schaumburg High School, in which a number of students walked out to protest conditions at the high school.

Several of those students were invited to write to the Herald about the incident. They asked that their names not be attached to the following letter.

On Friday, September 22, a walkout for student rights occurred. Approximately 305 students participated and several were arrested. It was a non-violent protest on the student's part. Some people believe the protest was against the temporary closure of the student smoking area, which is not true. The real reason being for open campus.

We don't believe the walk-out was the right way to go about having our problems solved. Although the protest did make Dist. 211 parents realize the students want more liberties.

We feel the only way young people can learn responsibility is by being exposed to it.

The concept of open campus is that students should be able to move freely on the campus grounds. This does not mean students from other schools or any outsiders for that matter will be allowed on school grounds. When you have at least 150-200 students in a small cafeteria the people become very restless. Students are allowed to go outside to the smoking area which is a small roped-off section of the parking lot.

We feel that students should be able to go wherever they wish on school grounds. For students that wish to leave school grounds for their lunch hour should be permitted to do so.

The administration said this was impossible because of students only having a 24 minute lunch period. This is true if we only are allowed 24 minutes for lunch. If we were allowed the whole 48 minute lunch period we are supposed to have, going out for lunch would be possible. The problem of the 24 minute waste period, assigned the name "home-room," would automatically be eliminated with students out of the building.

We don't wish to reveal our names because we feel we will be discriminated against by the administration and faculty.

Fighting Flood's Their Thing

To Mr. Browning, Palatine High School:

Over the past three years, being in educational sales and closely related to both teachers and students, I have developed a tendency to be rather negatively opinionated towards the products of our public educational system — especially when I consider the opportunities available to them. I might add that my opinions are constantly reinforced by the news media and the half dozen or so kids that use our property as a short cut to Paddock School and pause to uproot my wife's flowers.

Mr. Browning, you have no idea what a wonderful feeling I had when four of your students arrived at our house on Monday morning, September 18, to help us clean up our home and my office after the flood resulting from the storm the previous night. They came with shovels, brooms, and mops, but most of all they brought hope for my wife and I that we would get the mess cleaned up. We were up all Sunday night listening to the water coming in and had planned on spending the rest of the week cleaning up. With their help we were back to normal almost immediately.

I made reference to the media earlier in this letter and I'd like to expand on that. Usually you hear of two types of teenagers in the news — the ones in trouble and the ones in sports. While both are newsworthy, I wonder if too much emphasis is placed on the athlete and not enough on the student who does "his thing" in his own way and in his way learns to contribute to society rather than gain from it. As far as I could determine not one of the four men who helped us were athletes, but they were strong enough to move a water soaked piano up a flight of stairs and get on their hands and knees in mud to scrub a wall. In addition, they did this on a free day — classes were not in session — and wouldn't even take a Coke let alone cash payment. These are the men that Palatine High School should be the most proud of. They are gaining an education to live fruitful lives.

I thank and publicly commend Bill Spruance, Chip Howes, Joel Davenport and Chris Conway for not only helping us when we needed it but for making me realize that, with all its faults, our school systems, with teachers like you, can mold productive citizens.

Housing's Up To Suburbs

A crucial and enduring test for the suburbs — the question of low and moderate income housing — rose again last week and again posed both a threat and a promise for Northwest suburban communities.

In close succession recently the American Civil Liberties Union disclosed its plan for widespread subsidized housing in the suburbs, a federal court ruled the case of the St. Viator land housing project will indeed have to come to trial, and Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect became the latest suburban leader to face squarely the real questions of housing programs for his community.

In the case of Mayor Teichert's response, his answers represent the way we hope the suburbs will respond in the future.

As we have said in this space before, the clearest and soundest answer to the challenge of low and moderate income housing is suburban leadership which recognizes the issues and works to meet them, not thwart them.

Such leadership was exhibited last week by Robert Teichert in his address to the Board of Trustees of Mount Prospect. Teichert, as Village President, sits on a 12-member panel of suburban mayors who collectively are working with the Metropolitan Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities.

Teichert is not an avid proponent of low and moderate income housing and his membership on the committee does not mean he is biased in its favor. In fact, Teichert's conservatism on social issues often clashes with this newspaper's view of government as a means for social change.

But with that aside, Mayor Teichert has correctly touched the nerve of this issue: The suburbs must take action on their own, they must respond to low and moderate housing needs or they will surely face imposed answers from experts who will crack suburban boundaries with a vengeance.

Teichert's reaction to this is the best, and so is his summation.

"Housing is our nation's greatest problem. It will be solved with or

Teichert correctly assesses the housing situation in the realistic terms of the needs of the metropolitan area. People need housing. It will come to us in one of two forms; as the planned development of the suburbs, or as imposed, court ordered housing as developed in the inner city.

One plan which has been submitted to the court for approval and implementation is the proposal made by the American Civil Liberties Union. In a plan submitted to U.S. District Court Judge Richard Austin, the private legal body proposed that the suburbs be included in any metropolitan plan for widespread low and moderate income housing and further, that suburban municipalities be allowed 180 days to prepare plans for such housing. The housing projects are not to exceed more than two per cent of the suburbs' number of dwelling units.

Should a suburban municipality refuse to abide by the court's order, planning would be done for the community at a rate of four per cent low and moderate income housing per total number of units.

Called an "opportunity" to plan for programmed housing by the suburbs, the ACLU's plan is really a threat and treats low and moderate income housing as a punishment to the suburbs. Plan for it yourself and get two per cent, the plan says, or fail to plan and someone else will punish you with four per cent.

Such thinking is typical of metropolitan planners who regard the residents of the suburbs as appendages to the city and therefore subject to the whims of the city. Worse, it treats the future residents of low income housing projects as commodities to be used as the embodiment of a type of rough justice which is not really justice at all, but a form of revenge.

No, the answer does not lie in those forced plans. The answer is with responsible suburban leadership which sees housing problems beyond the boundaries of isolated suburban communities.

We believe such leadership exists in the Northwest suburbs and that a new generation of responsible public officials is at hand.

For it is not enough for us to punch holes in the urban planners. As Robert Teichert points out, it is up to the suburbs to produce programs of their own.

Prayer Vigil Is Backed

After reading Mr. Rosenberger's statement, I realized that there is a lot of misunderstanding regarding prayer vigils, especially the prayer vigil at St. Joseph the Worker Church on chastity this Friday night.

A prayer vigil's benefits are similar to that of solitary prayer, only they are enlarged. What is the benefit of prayer? To bring graces (helps to get to heaven) to the participants, their family, the parish, the world. I believe that the whole idea of our life on earth is to earn our place in heaven, and to help others to get there.

Butchers Blasted

To all butchers:

I can understand your wanting to be home at night with your families. I wonder if the real reason you don't want to work after 6 p.m. is because you're afraid of the dark? I understand that the stores would like to sell meat after 6 p.m. without you being there, plus paying you extra for it and you also turned this down. If people didn't need meat you wouldn't have a job, and as far as I'm concerned, you're too spoiled and too lazy to do a little extra work for people who only get a chance to shop at night or like to shop at night. I will admit, though, you have a lot of guts because someday if you haven't already you'll need the services of the police, hospitals, service stations and utilities and it's too bad they can't say, "Sorry, we can't help you because it's after 6 p.m."

tute walking down the street, if it were not for the neighborhoods they each walk in, and the hour. That is why religious speakers include these subjects in their lectures.

Our Lady also asked for prayer and sacrifice. Praying all night is a sacrifice, believe me! That is why a lengthy prayer vigil is well organized. First of all it is in the church, because God is there, and the atmosphere is helpful to prayer. Time is allotted for private prayer, to hear speakers that give you food for thought (and prayer), and songs and processions that glorify God, and give you a chance to get up and move around — and keep awake! Some vigils include Mass which is the highest form of prayer.

Laugh if you like, that is your business, but many people feel that pleasing God is more important; and we would rather have His Blessings than yours. Anyway, that is what the prayer vigil is all about. Why don't you come and see for yourself?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter arrived too late for inclusion in our Friday edition.

to write to the Herald about the incident. They asked that their names not be attached to the following letter.

On Friday, September 22, a walkout for student rights occurred. Approximately 305 students participated and several were arrested. It was a non-violent protest on the student's part. Some people believe the protest was against the temporary closure of the student smoking area, which is not true. The real reason being for open campus.

We don't believe the walk-out was the right way to go about having our problems solved. Although the protest did make Dist. 211 parents realize the students want more liberties.

We feel the only way young people can learn responsibility is by being exposed to it.

The concept of open campus is that students should be able to move freely on the campus grounds. This does not mean students from other schools or any outsiders for that matter will be allowed on school grounds. When you have at least 150-200 students in a small cafeteria the people become very restless. Students are allowed to go outside to the smoking area which is a small roped-off section of the parking lot.

We feel that students should be able to go wherever they wish on school grounds. For students that wish to leave school grounds for their lunch hour should be permitted to do so.

The administration said this was impossible because of students only having a 24 minute lunch period. This is true if we only are allowed 24 minutes for lunch. If we were allowed the whole 48 minute lunch period we are supposed to have, going out for lunch would be possible. The problem of the 24 minute waste period, assigned the name "home-room," would automatically be eliminated with students out of the building.

We don't wish to reveal our names because we feel we will be discriminated against by the administration and faculty.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Few people outside the aviation industry paid attention to a Sept. 27 decision by the Civil Aeronautics Board. They eventually will, because it should make big waves in the multi-billion dollar tourism business and affect the futures of scheduled and supplemental air lines.

The CAB said, in effect, it would permit experimentally through 1975 the chartering of a portion or all of a plane for 40 or more persons if they applied through a charter organizer not connected with the airlines three months in advance. The contract also must include a 25 per cent deposit, refundable only in event of a participant's death or illness. No longer will you have to be or pretend to be a member of a phony affinity group such as the Mystic Knights of the Sea or the Left-handed Banjo Players Association, to enjoy low charter rates. However, affinity groups are not ruled out.

CHARTER OPERATORS also no longer will be forced to charge at least 110 per cent of the scheduled airline's round trip fare. That rule always made impossible some of the low tour rates Europeans have enjoyed for years under the inclusive tour charters ITCs. Englishmen, for instance, have been offered a four-day winter holiday in Majorca for as little as $40. One English tour operator listed an ITC package to Athens for the equivalent of $72.50, including jet travel, four nights in a hotel and airport transfers. They could offer such cheap rates because they bought up plane seats and hotel accommodations and made money on a volume transaction.

New stakes in the charter game are so high that air lines filed suits and petitions moments after the CAB announcement just to jockey for favorable venue sites in case of legal action.

Some scheduled lines are caught in the middle. Pan American, TWA and American don't really know whether to applaud or condemn the CAB. They are in the charter business so it could help. It also could hurt their scheduled business.

"The skeds will lose $200-300 million this year on the North Atlantic run," said one Pan Am spokesman, "we're assessing all possibilities now."

So will the Canadian and European air lines meeting with U.S. officials in Ottawa, Canada on Tuesday. No trouble overlanding rights is expected since Great Britain has tacitly approved the new U.S. charter concept, but the official seal of approval from all will be solicited during the meeting.

VINCENT DUFFY, vice president for corporate marketing at Overseas National Airways, one of the world's largest supplementals, says Europe's experience with booming ITC travel means the CAB action will benefit a lot of people — the supplementals, the skeds, Mexico, Caribbean areas and resort business around the world.

According to Duffy, 8.5 million Europeans will travel ITC charters this year compared with only 80,000 in the United States.

"We're at least 15 years behind the time," said Duffy. "The intra-Europe ITC long has been accepted as the way middle and low-income Europeans vacation cheaply in the Mediterranean. We could build up the Caribbean the same way."

A McDonnell Douglas Corp. study indicates Europe's charter traffic will expand about 17 per cent annually through 1980. Skeds also should do well according to passenger statistics from Spain and Germany, two of the largest charter nations. They showed a 10 per cent annual increase in scheduled traffic since the mid 1960s. Charter flights apparently whet the appetites for scheduled flying.

If the new CAB regulations do for the United States what ITCs did for Europe, 10 million Americans will be flying on charters each year compared with only 80,000 this year, according to Juan O'Callahan, an economic consultant on ITCs.

That would generate a lot of tourist dollars — hotels, air lines, meals, credit cards, car rentals, the whole business. Small wonder, then, that the new CAB regulations are causing a stir in the industry. They also should mean lower costs for you, the tourist.

The Personnel Manager

His Job Carries A Variety Of Responsibilities

by LEA TONKIN

Counting noses, overseeing safety compliance, filling minority employment quotas and dealing with the boss's relatives are all part of the daily grind for personnel managers in Northwest Suburban plants and offices.

It's the kind of job that could give a compulsive perfectionist the willies. You see, the typical personnel manager is perpetually caught between a rock and a hard place: government regulations and the expectations of company chiefs. Then, of course, there are the small problems with employees themselves: turnover, absenteeism and lack of productivity.

TRYING TO COPE with this never-ending cycle of demands is a little easier if a personnel manager doesn't have to go it alone. So every couple of months, a group of Northwest Suburban people experts get together to hash over the latest in labor relations developments. The most recent session was held this week at Union Oil Co. in Palatine Township.

The informal sessions are sponsored by the Northwest Industrial Council, an organization of over 130 companies. Businesses ranging from metal fabricating and engineering to research and development are represented in the council.

A few laughs are prompted at the get together by one personnel manager's claim that he "doesn't give a damn" about some of those confounded government regulations. After all, he claims, there simply isn't enough time in a person's life to be inspected for everything the government tries to regulate.

But mostly the talk is serious, as some two dozen experts in labor relations try to unravel personnel problems. The subject of minority employment quotas is a particularly sensitive topic. As the discussion turns to specific problems ("We can draw black factory workers but we just can't seem to get them for office work") they lean forward and head into a two-hour long give-and-take session.

EACH PERSON HERE has a story to tell of defeats and victories in the paperwork battle or on the safety regulations scene. Sitting around a U-shaped table, they start taking notes, asking questions and trading tales of government inspections.

"We've just had a talk with NIOSH," says one personnel man. "They're part of HEW, but they're actually covered under OSHA," he says with ease. A few of the men shift uneasily, then write down the unfamiliar initials of the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health.

The problem of filling a minority worker quota is often solved by hiring aliens, hopefully legal residents of the United States. It is disclosed that illegal entry papers have been purchased by some area workers.

The stiff penalties for hiring illegal aliens are a problem for some personnel men.

"We've been raided by the immigration authorities twice," says one manager. "We lost five good welders that way."

Then there are technical aspects of minority hiring. Do Indians other than American Indians count as minority personnel? How about a black worker adopted by a white family? When a company has to fill government enforced quotas, "WASPS (white Anglo-Saxon Protestants) are dead" is the general consensus.

SOME AREA employers attract minority workers through cooperative training programs with local high schools. Once a young Spanish-speaking production worker is hired to work part-time, she'll be likely to stay on with the company.

Transportation is a problem, if the minority workers are from Chicago. Company bus service is expensive. Car pools have their pitfalls, too. "Car pools kill us, especially on Monday," complains one manager.

Relatives are a real thorn in the side of some personnel people. What does this expert in hiring do when the boss wants his son on the summer work force and the firm has a no-relatives policy? He hires the boss's son, of course.

"You have a real problem when you have a man supervising his wife," adds one of the participants. "And how can you hire one worker's daughter and not another's son, when there are just so many jobs to go around?" What if the company has a no-relatives policy and a minority worker wants the company to hire his nephew? "You're a dead cookie" if this policy is not stated in writing, adds a man who sounds as though he's been through it all.

Too much of a good thing, can turn sour on the personnel department. Exclusively hiring young minority group workers, for example, can lead to charges of age discrimination.

MOVING ON TO another topic, one relatively carefree personnel man told how a switch to a four-day work week boosted productivity at his plant. Another manager countered that the four-day week is not the answer for every company's problems.

For one thing, office workers generally must maintain a five-day week in order to keep commitments with other firms. At another plant, workers objected to a revised, 10-hour-a-day four days a week schedule. It seems that they worked two hours a day overtime, and the change-

You can now complain about the shameful way you've been treated by that terrible home-improvement contractor to somebody besides Harry, your favorite bartender. And while it is unlikely that Harry can do much for you except to lend a sympathetic ear, or wipe away your tears, there's a good chance of your getting some kind of redress through the National Remodelers Association (NRA) if you have a legitimate cause of complaint.

The association has nearly 5,000 members nationwide — contractors who do home-improvement work and remodeling — who are committed to a code of ethics as one means of trying to improve the industry's image. Another is the maintenance of a national clearing house for consumer complaints at the association's national offices in New York.

AS AN EXAMPLE of how it works, a homeowner in Ohio had paid a local contractor $865 to waterproof a leaky basement. The next good rain demonstrated that it was still a leaky basement. The contractor seemed to have little enthusiasm for doing anything about the situation, so the homeowner wrote to the National Remodelers Association.

A staff man there sent the complaint to another contractor in the Ohio city, a member of the NRA's local council there. The contractor inspected the job and reported that, although high-quality materials had been used, the basement did indeed still leak.

An official of the council talked to the original contractor. What he said is not recorded — but the homeowner got a refund of the full $865.

"Frankly, we don't have much in the way of teeth — yet. Our only weapon is persuasion," says the association's executive director, Joseph M. Nahay. "But a local contractor isn't very comfortable when he meets the other boys if they've got a down on him for giving the business a bad name. So persuasion works pretty well, with most legitimate and conscientious contractors."

If a local council man can't persuade an offending contractor to satisfy a properly aggrieved customer, Nahay says, an NRA contractor will usually offer to redo or complete the work at cost.

THERE'S LITTLE to be done, Nahay admits, for the consumer who's been gulled by a fly-by-night contractor whose specialty is shoddy work or unfinished jobs. The only remedy here, he says, is preventive selection: "Pick a contractor who's established in the community. Check his bank references. Ask for the names of some satisfied customers. Get two or three estimates."

"If somebody advertises, or solicits a job, with prices that are way out of line on the low side, reason should tell you that you're going to get short measure on either the materials or the workmanship. Or that you're dealing with a 'bait-and-switch' artist."

If you've acted on that advice, and you have a grievance against a contractor who's still around and available, you can address a complaint (it must be in writing) to the association at 50 East 42nd St., New York, N. Y. 10017.

Judge Enjoins Agency From Using Word 'Girl' In Ads

U.S. District Court Judge Abraham L. Marovitz recently enjoined a Chicago employment agency from using the terms "girl" or "young girl" in its help wanted advertising.

The case was filed by the U.S. Department of Labor against Career Counsellors International, Inc. under the provisions of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967.

Marovitz entered findings of fact and conclusions of law pursuant to stipulation of the parties in which the court found that defendant's use of the term "girl" in the context of a help wanted ad, indicated a preference for young persons of the female sex.

In the first ruling of its kind, Marovitz quoted two Northwestern University professors whose opinion it was that the word "girl" meant "young."

Dr. Bergen Evans, author, said all significant dictionaries of contemporary English and all serious uses of the word "girl" support its most general, oldest, non-obsolete meaning, viz: a female child, or a young, unmarried woman.

Frank Cassell, professor of individual relations in the graduate school of management at the university, said "girl" in the context of a help wanted ad, refers to a young person of the female sex.

over would bring an end to their customary visits to neighborhood bars after work.

Planning ahead is a necessary part of the personnel department's business, most agreed. In fact, they'd like to see a little of this foresight incorporated into the municipal's and federal service operations. After all, is it really asking too much for mail sent from Chicago to reach a Northwest suburban plant in less than 14 days?

Talking about these and other problems is not only comforting, it's also helpful. According to Robert Tomczak, chairman of the labor relations group, "Often, many companies share the same problems." He is personnel manager at Precision Extrusions in Bensenville. "What we like to do is to meet every two months, keep it informal and give everyone a chance to tell his opinions. Some companies can change their policies once they hear a better way to do things."

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Few people outside the aviation industry paid attention to a Sept. 27 decision by the Civil Aeronautics Board. They eventually will, because it should make big waves in the multi-billion dollar tourism business and affect the futures of scheduled and supplemental air lines.

The CAB said, in effect, it would permit experimentally through 1975 the chartering of a portion of or all of a plane for 40 or more persons if they applied through a charter organizer not connected with the airlines three months in advance. The contract also must include a 25 per cent deposit, refundable only in event of a participant's death or illness. No longer will you have to be or pretend to be a member of a phony affinity group such as the Mystic Knights of the Sea or the Left-handed Banjo Players Association, to enjoy low charter rates. However, affinity groups are not ruled out.

CHARTER OPERATORS also no longer will be forced to charge at least 110 per cent of the scheduled airline's round trip fare. That rule always made impossible some of the low tour rates Europeans have enjoyed for years under the inclusive tour charters ITCs. Englishmen, for instance, have been offered a four-day winter holiday in Majorca for as little as $40. One English tour operator listed an ITC package to Athens for the equivalent of $72.50, including jet travel, four nights in a hotel and airport transfers. They could offer such cheap rates because they bought up plane seats and hotel accommodations and made money on a volume transaction.

New stakes in the charter game are so high that air lines filed suits and petitions moments after the CAB announcement just to jockey for favorable venue sites in case of legal action.

Some scheduled lines are caught in the middle. Pan American, TWA and American don't really know whether to applaud or condemn the CAB. They are in the charter business so it could help. It also could hurt their scheduled business.

"The skeds will lose $200-300 million this year on the North Atlantic run," costs for you, the tourist.

said one Pan Am spokesman, "we're assessing all possibilities now."

So will the Canadian and European airlines meeting with U.S. officials in Ottawa, Canada on Tuesday. No trouble overlanding rights is expected since Great Britain has tacitly approved the new U.S. charter concept, but the official seal of approval from all will be solicited during the meeting.

VINCENT DUFFY, vice president for corporate marketing at Overseas National Airways, one of the world's largest supplementals, says Europe's experience with booming ITC travel means the CAB action will benefit a lot of people — the supplementals, the skeds, Mexico, Caribbean areas and resort business around the world.

According to Duffy, 8.5 million Europeans will travel ITC charters this year compared with only 80,000 in the United States.

"We're at least 15 years behind the time," said Duffy. "The intra-Europe ITC long has been accepted as the way middle and low-income Europeans vacation cheaply in the Mediterranean. We could build up the Caribbean the same way."

A McDonnell Douglas Corp. study indicates Europe's charter traffic will expand about 17 per cent annually through 1980. Skeds also should do well according to passenger statistics from Spain and Germany, two of the largest charter nations. They showed a 10 per cent annual increase in scheduled traffic since the mid 1960s. Charter flights apparently whet the appetites for scheduled flying.

If the new CAB regulations do for the United States what ITCs did for Europe, 10 million Americans will be flying on charters each year compared with only 80,000 this year, according to Juan O'Callahan, an economic consultant on ITCs.

That would generate a lot of tourist dollars — hotels, air lines, meals, credit cards, car rentals, the whole business. Small wonder, then, that the new CAB regulations are causing a stir in the industry. They also should mean lower costs for you, the tourist.

The Personnel Manager

by LEA TONKIN
Counting noses, overseeing safety compliance, filling minority employment quotas and dealing with the boss's relatives are all part of the daily grind for personnel managers in Northwest Suburban plants and offices.

It's the kind of job that could give a compulsive perfectionist the willies. You see, the typical personnel manager is perpetually caught between a rock and a hard place: government regulations and the expectations of company chiefs. Then, of course, there are the small problems with employees themselves: turnover, absenteeism and lack of productivity.

TRYING TO COPE with this never-ending cycle of demands is a little easier if a personnel manager doesn't have to go it alone. So every couple of months, a group of Northwest Suburban people experts get together to hash over the latest in labor relations developments. The most recent session was held this week at Union Oil Co. in Palatine Township.

The informal sessions are sponsored by the Northwest Industrial Council, an organization of over 130 companies. Businesses ranging from metal fabricating and engineering to research and development are represented in the council.

A few laughs are prompted at the get together by one personnel manager's claim that he "doesn't give a damn" about some of those confounded government regulations. After all, he claims, there simply isn't enough time in a person's life to be inspected for everything the government tries to regulate.

But mostly the talk is serious, as some two dozen experts in labor relations try to unravel personnel problems. The subject of minority employment quotas is a particularly sensitive topic. As the discussion turns to specific problems ("We can draw black factory workers but we just can't seem to get them for office work") they lean forward and head into a two-hour long give-and-take session.

EACH PERSON HERE has a story to tell of defeats and victories in the paperwork battle or on the safety regulations scene. Sitting around a U-shaped table, they start taking notes, asking questions and trading tales of government inspections.

"We've just had a talk with NIOSH," says one personnel man. "They're part of HEW, but they're actually covered under OSHA," he says with ease. A few of the men shift uneasily, then write down the unfamiliar initials of the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health.

The problem of filling a minority worker quota is often solved by hiring aliens, hopefully legal residents of the United States. It is disclosed that illegal entry papers have been purchased by some area workers.

The stiff penalties for hiring illegal aliens are a problem for some personnel men.

"We've been raided by the immigration authorities twice," says one manager. "We lost five good welders that way."

Then there are technical aspects of minority hiring. Do Indians other than American Indians count as minority personnel? How about a black worker adopted by a white family? When a company has to fill government enforced quotas, "WASPS (white Anglo-Saxon Protestants) are dead" is the general consensus.

SOME AREA employers attract minority workers through cooperative training programs with local high schools. Once a young Spanish-speaking production worker is hired to work part-time, she'll be likely to stay on with the company.

Transportation is a problem, if the minority workers are from Chicago. Company bus service is expensive. Car pools have their pitfalls, too. "Car pools kill us, especially on Monday," complains one manager.

Relatives are a real thorn in the side of some personnel people. What does this expert in hiring do when the boss wants his son on the summer work force and the firm has a no-relatives policy? He hires the boss's son, of course.

"You have a real problem when you have a man supervising his wife," adds one of the participants. "And how can you hire one worker's daughter and not another's son, when there are just so many jobs to go around?" What if the company has a no-relatives policy and a minority worker wants the company to hire his nephew? "You're a dead cookie" if this policy is not stated in writing, adds a man who sounds as though he's been through it all.

Too much of a good thing, can turn sour on the personnel department. Exclusively hiring young minority group workers, for example, can lead to charges of age discrimination.

MOVING ON TO another topic, one relatively carefree personnel man told how a switch to a four-day work week boosted productivity at his plant. Another manager countered that the four-day week is not the answer for every company's problems.

For one thing, office workers generally must maintain a five-day week in order to keep commitments with other firms. At another plant, workers objected to a revised, 10-hour-a-day four days a week schedule. It seems that they worked two hours a day overtime, and the change-over would bring an end to their customary visits to neighborhood bars after work.

Planning ahead is a necessary part of the personnel department's business, most agreed. In fact, they'd like to see a little of this foresight incorporated into the municipal's and federal service operations. After all, is it really asking too much for mail sent from Chicago to reach a Northwest suburban plant in less than 14 days?

Talking about these and other problems is not only comforting, it's also helpful. According to Robert Tomczak, chairman of the labor relations group, "Often, many companies share the same problems." He is personnel manager at Precision Extrusions in Bensenville. "What we like to do is to meet every two months, keep it informal and give everyone a chance to tell his opinions. You can now complain about the shameful way you've been treated by that terrible home-improvement contractor to somebody besides Harry, your favorite bartender. And while it is unlikely that Harry can do much for you except to lend a sympathetic ear, or wipe away your tears, there's a good chance of your getting some kind of redress through the National Remodelers Association (NRA) if you have a legitimate cause of complaint.

The association has nearly 5,000 members nationwide — contractors who do home-improvement work and remodeling — who are committed to a code of ethics as one means of trying to improve the industry's image. Another is the maintenance of a national clearing house for consumer complaints at the association's national offices in New York.

AS AN EXAMPLE of how it works, a homeowner in Ohio had paid a local contractor $865 to waterproof a leaky basement. The next good rain demonstrated that it was still a leaky basement. The contractor seemed to have little enthusiasm for doing anything about the situation, so the homeowner wrote to the National Remodelers Association.

A staff man there sent the complaint to another contractor in the Ohio city, a member of the NRA's local council there. The contractor inspected the job and reported that, although high-quality materials had been used, the basement did indeed still leak.

An official of the council talked to the original contractor. What he said is not recorded — but the homeowner got a refund of the full $865.

"Frankly, we don't have much in the way of teeth — yet. Our only weapon is persuasion," says the association's executive director, Joseph M. Nahay. "But a local contractor isn't very comfortable when he meets the other boys if they've got a down on him for giving the business a bad name. So persuasion works pretty well, with most legitimate and conscientious contractors."

If a local council man can't persuade an offending contractor to satisfy a properly aggrieved customer, Nahay says, an NRA contractor will usually offer to redo or complete the work at cost.

THERE'S LITTLE to be done, Nahay admits, for the consumer who's been gulled by a fly-by-night contractor whose specialty is shoddy work or unfinished jobs. The only remedy here, he says, is preventive selection: "Pick a contractor who's established in the community. Check his bank references. Ask for the names of some satisfied customers. Get two or three estimates."

"If somebody advertises, or solicits a job, with prices that are way out of line on the low side, reason should tell you that you're going to get short measure on either the materials or the workmanship. Or that you're dealing with a 'bait-and-switch' artist."

If you've acted on that advice, and you have a grievance against a contractor who's still around and available, you can address a complaint (it must be in writing) to the association at 50 East 42nd St., New York, N. Y. 10017.

Judge Enjoins Agency From Using Word 'Girl' In Ads

U.S. District Court Judge Abraham L. Marovitz recently enjoined a Chicago employment agency from using the terms "girl" or "young girl" in its help wanted advertising.

The case was filed by the U.S. Department of Labor against Career Counsellors International, Inc. under the provisions of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967.

Marovitz entered findings of fact and conclusions of law pursuant to stipulation of the parties in which the court found that defendant's use of the term "girl" in the context of a help wanted ad, indicated a preference for young persons of the female sex.

In the first ruling of its kind, Marovitz quoted two Northwestern University professors whose opinion it was that the word "girl" meant "young."

Dr. Bergen Evans, author, said all significant dictionaries of contemporary English and all serious uses of the word "girl" support its most general, oldest, non-obsolete meaning, viz: a female child, or a young, unmarried woman.

Frank Cassell, professor of individual relations in the graduate school of management at the university, said "girl" in the context of a help wanted ad, refers to a young person of the female sex.

Candidate Down The River For Publicity And Pollution

by DAVID MAHSMAN

"Remember, if it goes over, it floats." With that bit of advice, Clifford Leverage climbed into a kayak (with his life preserver on backwards) with an Ojibous Indian from Canada and began to paddle two miles down the Fox River at Elgin. Leverage is the Democratic candidate for the Illinois Senate from the Second Legislative District. He took the kayak trip down the river Friday to dramatize pollution in the river — and to get what he hopes will be a healthy chunk of publicity.

After wining and dining newsmen at Elgin's newest restaurant, Leverage took them by chartered bus to a spot in the flood-swollen Fox River underneath the I-90 bridge. His plan was to paddle two miles down the river, taking water samples every hundred feet to be used in a lawsuit he is filing against the State of Wisconsin.

Press releases explained Leverage would be going down the river with Fred Copenes, an Ojibous Indian who has participated in similar stunts in his native Canada. And the Indian was to be in full Indian regalia yet. Well, maybe the Ojibous costume is a pair of yellow wash pants with an orange shirt, topped off with a leather vest and a beaded headband.

NEWSMEN HAD more trouble than Leverage and his Indian friend in getting underway. Two girls seemed rather startled when a half-dozen cars pulled into their yard near the river. No, they told the media, they never heard of either Leverage or his kayak.

Finally, the candidate was found. The kayak was being put together, and everyone was ready to go. But Leverage, Indian, and fragile-looking craft were already a distance downstream before a power boat loaded with reporters and photographers could get free of a sandbar.

The rest of the trip was rougher for press than politician. The power boat skipper tore madly through the rough, murky waters, spray drenching the passengers in an unwanted shower. Leverage stayed close to shore, taking water samples and joking.

"What a sacrifice for my constituents," he laughed. The press didn't laugh.

Finally, the adventure came to an end. The power boat docked at the Elgin Marine Club, and the somewhat battered press corps jumped out. Leverage docked, holding up a jar of Fox River water for everyone to see, especially the photographers.

Next, a press conference. We'll probably never know how many of the newsmen came to see if Leverage would fall in the river, or how many stayed for the conference because the booze was free.

The show continued. Leverage introduced his attorney, Judson Baugh.

THE LAYWER WAS there because Leverage was to sign a lawsuit he is filing against the State of Wisconsin. He contends that our neighbor to the north is responsible for the pollution in the Fox River.

To support the suit, which is to be filed today in Federal District Court, Leverage has water samples taken in Canada, on the Illinois-Wisconsin border and, of course, at Elgin. He says the water is more and more polluted the farther downstream he goes.

But if Wisconsin — Racine and Kenosha Counties in particular — is to blame, why is the water more polluted at Elgin than at the state border? Leverage agrees that Illinois is not without fault. In fact, he said he would file suit against polluters in his own district — but with the election only weeks away, he probably won't get the chance before that. Wisconsin comes first, and he said he would carry through with the suit, even if he isn't elected.

"I will replace rhetoric with action," he said rhetorically.

UNDAUNTED BY POLLUTED water lapping within inches of his person, Clifford Leverage, Democratic candidate for state senator from the Second

Legislative District, paddles down the Fox River at Elgin to dramatize a lawsuit he is filing against the State of Wisconsin. With Leverage is Fred Copene, an Ojibous Indian from Canada who has participated in similar stunts there.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Jeff Rubens of New York has been a great bridge theorist for many years. He finally showed his ability as a player when his team won the Spingold Cup this year so that his new book 'The Secrets of Winning Bridge,' is rather timely."

Jim: "He is a duplicate player rather than a rubber bridge player. As would be expected, his section on duplicate is very good. His chapters on rubber bridge are not up to that standard."

Oswald: "East's three-club bid is a typical non-vulnerable match point preempt. Jeff recommends South's jump to four spades, as do we. You can't play your partner for a blank hand in these situations."

Jim: "Jeff neither recommends nor disapproves of West's five-club bid. This time it works well as North bids a doubtful five spades."

Oswald: "The important bit of advice comes next. Rubens points out that West expects to beat five spades, but there is no point in a double. If West does beat five spades he is sure of a mighty good score. A double would gain maybe half a match point."

Jim: "While it really does not change

any of Jeff's points, it turns out that four spades will be beaten if West leads a diamond when he gets in with the king of spades and the subsequent defense doesn't slip at all."

Delay Comptroller Office Battle

The court battle over control of the Cook County comptroller's office has been delayed until Nov. 9.

The suit, filed by State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan on behalf of Comptroller James Gaughan, has been assigned to Judge Robert Downing in the law division of county circuit court.

Thomas R. Mulroy, the attorney representing the Cook County board in its attempt to take over control of the comptroller's office, asked for the continuance.

An injunction issued last week by former Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan is keeping Gaughan in his post as comptroller until the battle is settled in court.

The fight began when the Cook County Board of Commissioners adopted an ordinance taking control of the comptroller's office away from County Clerk Edward Barrett and replacing Gaughan with Thomas Beck.

The county board moved to take over the office and replace Gaughan after a scandal broke involving the rehiring of a former comptroller as a consultant.

C. R. Hodgman, the former comptroller, was working as a $200-a-day consultant despite the fact that he had resigned from the comptroller's job under pressure.

The county board moved to replace Gaughan with Beck despite a legal opinion given last December by Hanrahan that the board could not override the duties and responsibilities of the county clerk as established by state statutes.

Hanrahan's prior opinion resulted in his office representing Barrett and Gaughan in the case while Mulroy, a private attorney, represents the county board and Beck.

Both Mulroy and Asst. State's Atty. Vincent Bentivenga said Friday they expected the case to come to trial on Nov. 9.

In olden times in Ireland and Scotland when the crops were all in and fall was in the air, the country people would gather at the nearest possible gathering point for a party to celebrate the good fortune of the harvest. The nearest gathering point for all obviously would be the crossroads, and party in Gaelic is "Ceili," hence; "Crossroads Ceili."

To celebrate our good fortune of the first six months we have been in operation, we want to have our own "Crossroads Ceili." Gather with us at the crossroads of Bothwell and Railroad St., in Palatine to make our first "Ceili" a complete success.

A two day affair with pipers, drummers, Irish step dances, Folksingers, Rock combo, parades, food and drink aplenty, fun, merriment, giggles and games on Saturday and Sunday, October 21st and 22nd.

Candidate Down The River For Publicity And Pollution

by DAVID MAHSMAN

"Remember, if it goes over, it floats."

With that bit of advice, Clifford Leverage climbed into a kayak (with his life preserver on backwards) with an Ojibous Indian from Canada and began to paddle two miles down the Fox River at Elgin.

Leverage is the Democratic candidate for the Illinois Senate from the Second Legislative District. He took the kayak trip down the river Friday to dramatize pollution in the river — and to get what he hopes will be a healthy chunk of publicity.

After wining and dining newsmen at Elgin's newest restaurant, Leverage took them by chartered bus to a spot in the flood-swollen Fox River underneath the I-90 bridge. His plan was to paddle two miles down the river, taking water samples every hundred feet to be used in a lawsuit he is filing against the State of Wisconsin.

Press releases explained Leverage would be going down the river with Fred Copene, an Ojibous Indian who has participated in similar stunts in his native Canada. And the Indian was to be in full Indian regalia yet. Well, maybe the Ojibous costume is a pair of yellow wash pants with an orange shirt, topped off with a leather vest and a beaded headband.

NEWSMEN HAD more trouble than Leverage and his Indian friend in getting underway. Two girls seemed rather startled when a half-dozen cars pulled into their yard near the river. No, they told the media, they never heard of either Leverage or his kayak.

Finally, the candidate was found. The kayak was being put together, and everyone was ready to go. But Leverage, Indian, and fragile-looking craft were already a distance downstream before a power boat loaded with reporters and photographers could get free of a sandbar.

The rest of the trip was rougher for press than politician. The power boat skipper tore madly through the rough, murky waters, spray drenching the passengers in an unwanted shower. Leverage stayed close to shore, taking water samples and joking.

"What a sacrifice for my constituents," he laughed.

The press didn't laugh.

Finally, the adventure came to an end. The power boat docked at the Elgin Marine Club, and the somewhat battered press corps jumped out. Leverage docked, holding up a jar of Fox River water for everyone to see, especially the photographers.

Next, a press conference. We'll probably never know how many of the newsmen came to see if Leverage would fall in the river, or how many stayed for the conference because the booze was free.

The show continued. Leverage introduced his attorney, Judson Baugh.

THE LAYWER WAS there because Leverage was to sign a lawsuit he is filing against the State of Wisconsin. He contends that our neighbor to the north is responsible for the pollution in the Fox River.

To support the suit, which is to be filed today in Federal District Court, Leverage has water samples taken in Canada, on the Illinois-Wisconsin border and, of course, at Elgin. He says the water is more and more polluted the farther downstream he goes.

But if Wisconsin — Racine and Kenosha Counties in particular — is to blame, why is the water more polluted at Elgin than at the state border? Leverage agrees that Illinois is not without fault. In fact, he said he would file suit against polluters in his own district — but with the election only weeks away, he probably won't get the chance before that. Wisconsin comes first, and he said he would carry through with the suit, even if he isn't elected.

"I will replace rhetoric with action," he said rhetorically.

UNDAUNTED BY POLLUTED water lapping within inches of his person, Clifford Leverage, Democratic candidate for state senator from the Second

Legislative District, paddles down the Fox River at Elgin to dramatize a lawsuit he is filing against the State of Wisconsin. With Leverage is Fred Copene, an Ojibous Indian from Canada who has participated in similar stunts there.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Jeff Rubens of New York has been a great bridge theorist for many years. He finally showed his ability as a player when his team won the Spingold Cup this year so that his new book 'The Secrets of Winning Bridge,' is rather timely."

Jim: "He is a duplicate player rather than a rubber bridge player. As would be expected, his section on duplicate is very good. His chapters on rubber bridge are not up to that standard."

Oswald: "East's three-club bid is a typical non-vulnerable match point preempt. Jeff recommends South's jump to four spades, as do we. You can't play your partner for a blank hand in these situations."

Jim: "Jeff neither recommends nor disapproves of West's five-club bid. This time it works well as North bids a doubtful five spades."

Oswald: "The important bit of advice comes next. Rubens points out that West expects to beat five spades, but there is no point in a double. If West does beat five spades he is sure of a mighty good score. A double would gain maybe half a match point."

Jim: "While it really does not change

any of Jeff's points, it turns out that four spades will be beaten if West leads a diamond when he gets in with the king of spades and the subsequent defense doesn't slip at all."

Delay Comptroller Office Battle

The court battle over control of the Cook County comptroller's office has been delayed until Nov. 9.

The suit, filed by State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan on behalf of Comptroller James Gaughan, has been assigned to Judge Robert Downing in the law division of county circuit court.

Thomas R. Mulroy, the attorney representing the Cook County board in its attempt to take over control of the comptroller's office, asked for the continuance.

An injunction issued last week by former Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan is keeping Gaughan in his post as comptroller until the battle is settled in court.

The fight began when the Cook County Board of Commissioners adopted an ordinance taking control of the comptroller's office away from County Clerk Edward Barrett and replacing Gaughan with Thomas Beck.

The county board moved to take over the office and replace Gaughan after a scandal broke involving the rehiring of a former comptroller as a consultant.

C. R. Hodgman, the former comptroller, was working as a $200-a-day consultant despite the fact that he had resigned from the comptroller's job under pressure.

The county board moved to replace Gaughan with Beck despite a legal opinion given last December by Hanrahan that the board could not override the duties and responsibilities of the county clerk as established by state statutes.

Hanrahan's prior opinion resulted in his office representing Barrett and Gaughan in the case while Mulroy, a private attorney, represents the county board and Beck.

Both Mulroy and Asst. State's Atty. Vincent Bentivenga said Friday they expected the case to come to trial on Nov. 9.

In olden times in Ireland and Scotland when the crops were all in and fall was in the air, the country people would gather at the nearest possible gathering point for a party to celebrate the good fortune of the harvest. The nearest gathering point for all obviously would be the crossroads, and party in Gaelic is "Ceili," hence; "Crossroads Ceili."

To celebrate our good fortune of the first six months we have been in operation, we want to have our own "Crossroads Ceili." Gather with us at the crossroads of Bothwell and Railroad St., in Palatine to make our first "Ceili" a complete success.

A two day affair with pipers, drummers, Irish step dances, Folksingers, Rock combo, parades, food and drink aplenty, fun, merriment, giggles and games on Saturday and Sunday, October 21st and 22nd.

Creative Annual Luncheon

Tri-Delts Cure Their Craft-itis

by ELEANOR RIVES

Clever women suburbanites stricken with arts and crafts fever in epidemic proportions these past few years are only too happy to hear of the latest — and most imaginative — in do-it-yourself pastimes.

Diane Ahlgrim, an alumna of Delta Delta Delta Sorority, fanned the fires of creativity for 75 other Tri-Delt alums Oct. 4 at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights. Endowed with an eye for beauty and an inexhaustible store of patience, she is as adept with broken glass, quilled paper and century flower petals as with needle and thread.

THE OCCASION was the annual benefit luncheon of the Northwest Suburban Chapter of Delta Delta Delta, chaired by Mrs. John Huizinga of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Rollyn Meyers of Des Plaines. They expressed their originality in a gourmet menu served in patchwork-decorated lunch boxes containing such goodies as vichyssoise, turkey salad, fruit compost, apricot-nut bread and cream cheese brownies.

Table decorations of dried weed arrangements carried out the creativity theme, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Donald Anderson of Arlington Heights, as did the display table of gift items handmade by individual Tri-Delt members.

Among these were a macrame belt, crewel pictures, a crocheted handbag, dried arrangements, long evening skirt, a smock, a handmade candle, a ceramic nut dish and tole pictures.

What could one add? Well, Diane, for instance. And Diane added a great many ideas and tips for the responsive audience.

"WHY THESE ARE called Century Flowers, I'll never know," said Diane as she explained how nimble fingers can produce a fair replica of enameled metal flowers in a much less expensive way. A brand new craft, the petal patterns for these paper flowers have only been on shop shelves the past few weeks. The use of gold leafing on petal backs, and subtly outlying petal edges, is the secret that imparts a metallic look to iris, zinnia or violet.

The medieval art of quilling, is enjoying a widespread revival, according to Mrs. Ahlgrim. Using cotton filler paper, she rolls 8-inch width strips, then glues them into basic designs or creates her own patterns to produce butterflies, religious symbols, decorations for wedding invitations, even Christmas ornaments with the addition of spray.

TO "TELL A BIG story in a very small space," Diane turns to miniature rooms. Whether vignette type, four inches deep, or true miniatures, eight inches deep, Diane's "room in a box," thoroughly researched in advance for authenticity, always creates the feeling of having just stepped in — or out — of it.

The hinged wooden box with glass front may be purchased in craft shops and finished by the craft artist. Floors, ceilings, back and side walls may be constructed from illustration board. All furnishings are constructed exactly to a scale of one inch to one foot, and balsa wood is the material most commonly used.

Many tiny objects may be incorporated into a room. To the imaginative eye, the top of a toothpaste tube becomes a fluted lampshade, a piece of an old leather wallet is transformed into a leather-bound volume of yesteryear, corrugated board becomes fireplace bricks or stone steps.

"DON'T EVER THROW anything away," advised Diane.

Paper tole, or vue d'optique, is another craft at which Diane is remarkably proficient. "Tole involves both cutting and sculpture," stated Diane. "Too often the sculpture part is overlooked. All pattern pieces must be contoured. Nothing is flat in nature."

Tipping off the audience on how to improve their paper tole technique, she advised them to use an unused curved manicure scissors or a decoupage scissors, holding them with the first and fourth fingers, and always moving the paper into the scissors, not the scissors into the paper. The finished picture is a build-up of glued layers of paper to produce a three-dimensional effect.

MRS. AHLGRIM HAS a host of delightfully odd friends called "Apple People" who draw smiles from all who view them. Their heads evolved from Golden Delicious apples, treated and dried over a period of at least a month, their features painstakingly coaxed into their final expression. Teeth of pearled rice or toothpick bits, eyes of colored pin heads, hands of apple quarters and an imaginative costume complete the capricious characters.

Most recent craft to capture Diane's fancy is creating pictures from broken fragments of stained glass. Her broken glass ship sails on a blue glass ocean; her glass butterflies and flowers sparkle with reflected light.

One particularly striking piece is a glass Christmas tree made of broken bottle glass glued to a triangular glass backing, the finished piece set upright on a stand and backed by the flickering light of a candle.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS idea displayed by Diane was a Christmas tree made of costume jewelry and beads within an outline of gold braiding against a green felt-covered board. The unique feature about it was that Diane had incorporated about three dozen tiny Italian lights into the tree, with cord and plug concealed behind the board.

In concluding her program, Diane invited the group to an informal showing and sale of her original handmade Christmas gifts and decorations at her home 1422 S. Fernandez in Arlington Heights on Monday, Oct. 23, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

You're invited too, whether for buying, browsing or just filling your head with clever plans for making this a most creative Christmas season. But beware of contagion. If arts and crafts fever hits you, you may even want to sign up for a few private lessons from Diane Ahlgrim in her home.

STRIKING UP immediate friendship with the 75 Tri-Delt alums at the annual benefit luncheon were Diane Ahlgrim's "Apple People" whose funny facial expressions were derived from slowly and carefully drying out apples.

PASSERSBY DO a double-take when Diane carries this vue-d'optique hand bag, the three-dimensional scene protected by plastic rather than glass. Diane's tip for paper tole: be sure to contour your pattern pieces.

Master Of The Mimeograph

I was a sitting duck for this one. Even if I tried to be paranoid about the whole thing, I couldn't blame anyone but myself because I volunteered to do the PTA newsletter.

I volunteered because I figured it would be an easy job, and as I began to assemble the articles for it, I knew I had a good deal. More than enough material was given to me by busy committees to fill the paper.

To top it off, I even had someone to type the master copies for me. All I had to do was run it off.

That was where the job's teeth were hidden, and I soon discovered it.

Although I had never run a mimeograph before, it looked simple enough as the school secretary showed me how it worked. The machine was new and automatic to the point that one could expect it to take the meat out of the freezer and defrost it for dinner, so the family would never know mother was devoting the day to PTA. The secretary put the first stencil on for me and set things going before she left. The machine automatically fed in paper, printed the page, counted and stacked the finished pieces.

Then it shut itself off. I could see that it was a cinch.

I WAS STILL telling myself it was a cinch when I was trying to take the used inky stencil from around my right forearm.

I won that battle through brute strength, tearing the stencil by little pieces from my arm. The incident made me darkly aware that I couldn't complete this job by being deferential to the machine. I had to take command and show it who was boss.

The next stencil went on like a dream and wrapped itself in place around the ink drum as though it knew what it was doing. It did. It turned out to be on backwards. I stopped the machine and began the chore of turning the wet stencil over, ever alert not to let it get in my hair or grab me by the ankle.

Just as I got it in place, two kids wandered in.

"Oh, wow! Do you know how to work that?" one asked admiringly.

"Would you show us how?" the other asked.

I TRIED TO SHOO the boys back to their rooms or to wherever they were supposed to be.

But before they left they saw what happened when I turned the mimeograph on. On the first revolution, a piece of paper stuck to the ink-soaked master. It went around a few times, flew off, and stuck to the far wall. Then the thing printed pages in solid black until the excess ink from my master turn-around was used up.

The boys were extremely impressed. "Boy when YOU do this, it's really exciting!" one said breathlessly.

"Yeah!" the other agreed. "When are you going to work in here again?" His eyes were wide with anticipation.

I left that day when the job was done, trying to salvage my ink-spattered dignity. The PTA members eventually got their newsletter, and I got the message.

Hearts Are Wedding Theme

Hearts — in all shapes and sizes — played an important role in the wedding of Cheryl Lee Jorgensen of Rolling Meadows and Ernest C. Purcelli III of Palatine.

Cheryl's engagement ring is a heart shaped diamond, her attendants wore heart shaped lockets with their wedding ensembles, the double rings were carried on a heart pillow, and even the wedding cake was a series of heart shaped cakes topped with a heart holding a bride and groom.

The couple have known each other since childhood. Their parents, the Alfred E. Jorgensens, 2701 Cardinal Drive, and the junior E. C. Purcellis, were neighbors in Rolling Meadows until the Purcellis moved to 660 Williams Drive, Palatine, and even then the families continued their friendship.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows Sept. 23 in the Community Church of Rolling Meadows at five in the afternoon. After the candlelight ceremony there was a reception for 175 guests at the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines.

Cheryl chose a Chantilly lace gown

with tiers of the ruffled lace falling over a hoop to the floor. The dress was designed with a sweetheart neckline trimmed in pearls and rhinestones and long sleeves ending in ruffled cuffs. Her triple veil was held by a triple tiara of crystals and pearls, each designed in an arrangement of small hearts.

As "something borrowed" the bride wore her maternal grandmother's diamond pendant. Her bouquet was composed of white orchids, pink Sweetheart roses and Stephanotis.

Cheryl's attendants also wore dresses that flowed in tiers of ruffles over a hoop skirt. They were in pale pink chiffon with hot pink velvet ribbon at the waist. Pale pink lace edged the ruffles and the neckline. The girls wore hot pink shoes and bows in their hair and carried hot pink and pale pink Sweetheart roses tied with hot pink ribbons.

CARLA PURCELLI, the groom's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Pamela Carter, Palatine, Cheryl's cousin; Candy Eggers, Sue Busch and Ann Gilliland, all of Mount Prospect; and Karyl Komay, Rolling Meadows.

Their escorts were Craig Jorgensen, the bride's brother who was also best man, and John Dempster, Tom Matsie, Ron McAlister, Kurt Smith and Greg Duffey, all of Palatine.

Jean Lipert, 3, of Chicago, cousin of the bride, was flower girl in a hot pink dress with lace bodice and sleeves and carrying a white basket of pink rose petals. Ring bearer was the groom's cousin, David Bartosz, 5, of Chicago.

CHERYL AND Ern are living in an apartment in Mount Prospect after a two-week honeymoon in Hawaii.

She is a graduate of Forest View High School and attended Illinois State University at Normal. Ern attended Palatine High, Harper College and Drake University, Des Moines. He now works for Gateway Printing in Schiller Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Purcelli III

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Has anything ever been done, after all the big talk, about making children's sleeping wear fire-retardant?

—Mrs. Bob Monroe

The federal government acted, but in a halfhearted way. Since late July all children's sleepwear through size 6x has to either be flame-resistant or labeled to show that it isn't. In other words, the burden is on the purchaser to be alert. You'd think one of these days the federal authorities would show some courageous interest in this really serious problem.

Dear Dorothy: For the first time since I've been using glass baking dishes, a clean-up stymied me. Tried a new recipe with chicken and milk and the resultant burned on goop was as obstinate as if it came with the dish. After all the other dishes were cleaned and put away, I filled the sink with enough water and detergent to soak the dish, in case it might work. Then the thought passed my mind that a little household ammonia might help this dismal looking mess. When I came back an hour later, a touch of the dishcloth and the whole thing came out as clean as if it were new.

—Ellen Munter

Dear Dorothy: A friend and I are both on diets. When I complained that I was having difficulty, even being on the same list of foods she was on, she said it probably was because I was chewing regular gum while she was using the sugarless — which has no calories. Can this make a difference.

—Lila H.

Nope. Regular chewing gum, which usually consists of sugar, corn syrup and gum-base chicle, is eight calories per stick and you sure would have to chew a lot of gum to make your intake go up much. Sugarless gum contains an entirely different set of materials (no sugar) — and counts up to five calories per stick.

Series Begins Tuesday For Family Living

Mrs. Harry Dickelman

All women of the northwest suburbs are invited to a Family Living series given by Mrs. Harry Dickelman of Campus Crusade for Christ, which begins Tuesday and continues for six weeks.

She will speak each Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 2:30 at the William Bufton home, 1910 Kiowa Lane, Mount Prospect. Each presentation will cover a particular topic involved with Christian family life today.

LAAVING A successful business career in Chicago three years ago, Mr. Dickelman and his wife Gladys joined the lay staff of Campus Crusade for Christ. He is now regional director of a nine-state area for this ministry. The family, including a son and daughter, lives in Barrington Hills.

Further information on the Tuesday afternoon series can be obtained from Mrs. Bufton, 297-3565. Babysitting will be available each week.

Planned Neatness

Redecorating a child's room? Let child help. The more a child has to do with the way his or her room looks, the better care he will take of it.

When everything is finished, and the child moves into a brightly-decorated room, take advantage. Post a cleaning schedule, explaining that he can keep the room clean by himself with just a little help. On the schedule list daily chores, such as bedmaking and clutter-cleaning. For Saturday morning, put down dusting and vacuuming. Then — cross your fingers and hope the new system works. (UPI)

Growing Suburbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most Americans are suburbanites. And, according to the 1970 census, suburbs are the fastest growing communities in America. For all practical purposes, the growth of most suburbs over the last few decades has been unplanned.

A study of Fairfax County, a fast-growing suburb of Washington, D.C., shows that one of the major forces determining where growth and subdivision will take place is the laying of sewer lines. "Once you lay down that sewer," says the Population Bulletin, "sit back and watch the bulldozers come roaring in."

Let 'Em Face It

Parents should not protect their children from the concept of death, according to an article in the National Association of Mental Health Reporter.

Quoting Rabbi Earl A. Crollman of Beth El Temple Center in Belmont, Mass., the report advises: "At the time of a death the child should not be shut away or abandoned, but should share the experience, be given realistic answers and even the option of whether or not to attend the funeral." (UPI)

Some of our best Real Estate salesmen are women.

It's been that way from the first day we went into business.

And since then, hundreds of women just like you have discovered that they had the time and the talent to be successful at selling real estate. They've started with us as a second career, as a part-time thing, or as a way of doing something on their own.

They've stayed with us because they had fun (success is always fun), because they met new people and — for some of them — because they discovered a full-time, professional career.

Maybe you're the next success we're looking for. You can find out easy enough. Come have coffee with us. We're buying. Ladies only, please. Tell your husband you were out shopping. For yourself.

Come To Coffee.

Hearts Are Wedding Theme

Hearts — in all shapes and sizes — played an important role in the wedding of Cheryl Lee Jorgensen of Rolling Meadows and Ernest C. Purcelli III of Palatine.

Cheryl's engagement ring is a heart shaped diamond, her attendants wore heart shaped lockets with their wedding ensembles, the double rings were carried on a heart pillow, and even the wedding cake was a series of heart shaped cakes topped with a heart holding a bride and groom.

The couple have known each other since childhood. Their parents, the Alfred E. Jorgensens, 2701 Cardinal Drive, and the junior E. C. Purcellis, were neighbors in Rolling Meadows until the Purcellis moved to 660 Williams Drive, Palatine, and even then the families continued their friendship.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows Sept. 23 in the Community Church of Rolling Meadows at five in the afternoon. After the candlelight ceremony there was a reception for 175 guests at the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines.

Cheryl chose a Chantilly lace gown

with tiers of the ruffled lace falling over a hoop to the floor. The dress was designed with a sweetheart neckline trimmed in pearls and rhinestones and long sleeves ending in ruffled cuffs. Her triple veil was held by a triple tiara of crystals and pearls, each designed in an arrangement of small hearts.

As "something borrowed" the bride wore her maternal grandmother's diamond pendant. Her bouquet was composed of white orchids, pink Sweetheart roses and Stephanotis.

Cheryl's attendants also wore dresses that flowed in tiers of ruffles over a hoop skirt. They were in pale pink chiffon with hot pink velvet ribbon at the waist. Pale pink lace edged the ruffles and the neckline. The girls wore hot pink shoes and bows in their hair and carried hot pink and pale pink Sweetheart roses tied with hot pink ribbons.

CARLA PURCELLI, the groom's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Pamela Carter, Palatine, Cheryl's cousin; Candy Eggers, Sue Busch and Ann Gilliland, all of Mount Prospect; and Karyl Komay, Rolling Meadows.

Their escorts were Craig Jorgensen, the bride's brother who was also best man, and John Dempster, Tom Matsie, Ron McAlister, Kurt Smith and Greg Duffey, all of Palatine.

Jean Lipetri, 3, of Chicago, cousin of the bride, was flower girl in a hot pink dress with lace bodice and sleeves and carrying a white basket of pink rose petals. Ring bearer was the groom's cousin, David Bartosz, 5, of Chicago.

CHERYL AND Ern are living in an apartment in Mount Prospect after a two-week honeymoon in Hawaii.

She is a graduate of Forest View High School and attended Illinois State University at Normal. Ern attended Palatine High, Harper College and Drake University, Des Moines. He now works for Gateway Printing in Schiller Park.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Has anything ever been done, after all the big talk, about making children's sleeping wear fire-retardant?

—Mrs. Bob Monroe

The federal government acted, but in a halfhearted way. Since late July all children's sleepwear through size 6x has to either be flame-resistant or labeled to show that it isn't. In other words, the burden is on the purchaser to be alert. You'd think one of these days the federal authorities would show some courageous interest in this really serious problem.

Dear Dorothy: For the first time since I've been using glass baking dishes, a clean-up stymied me. Tried a new recipe with chicken and milk and the resultant burned on goop was as obstinate as if it came with the dish. After all the other dishes were cleaned and put away, I filled the sink with enough water and detergent to soak the dish, in case it might work. Then the thought passed my mind that a little household ammonia might help this dismal looking mess. When I came back an hour later, a touch of the dishcloth and the whole thing came out as clean as if it were new.

—Ellen Munter

Dear Dorothy: A friend and I are both on diets. When I complained that I was having difficulty, even being on the same list of foods she was on, she said it probably was because I was chewing regular gum while she was using the sugarless — which has no calories. Can this make a difference.

—Lila H.

Nope. Regular chewing gum, which usually consists of sugar, corn syrup and gum-base chicle, is eight calories per stick and you sure would have to chew a lot of gum to make your intake go up much. Sugarless gum contains an entirely different set of materials (no sugar

ARLINGTON WSCS

"Circles in Mission" is the topic for Tuesday's meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service, First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights.

A festival atmosphere will greet those who come to learn about various mission projects in which the WSCS circles are active. There will be five eight-minute talks to present information about individual agencies, to tell what each circle has done and what can be done in the way of mission projects in this community.

At 9:30 a.m., preceding the program, there will be a brief business meeting and coffee served by Betty Cole Circle and Sharon Lauber and Lorraine Enright Circles. A nursery will be provided.

PRAIRIE VIOLET.

CLARINDA CADY

Two chapters of Questers, Prairie Violet and Clarinda Cady, will meet jointly Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. to hear a lecture on the history of silver. Guests are welcome.

The program takes place in the Dunton Room of Arlington Heights Library.

PALATINE JUNIORS

The Junior Woman's Club of Palatine announces a change in location for regular meetings. The club will hold all remaining meetings this club year at Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlwing Road, Palatine. Members will park behind the church and enter at the south-east door. The church is half a block south of Palatine Road.

The first meeting in the new facility will be Tuesday at 8 p.m. Mrs. Owen Doss, a member of Inverness Garden Club, will present a program demonstrating "The Art of Drying Flowers." Mrs. Doss says her interest in drying flowers began as a ways and means project for the garden club, but it has now become a hobby. She will explain the process, what is needed for drying flowers, and the kinds of flowers to be planted next year for dried arrangements.

Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. George Plummer, Mrs. Richard Boell, Mrs. Stephen Massie, Mrs. Kenneth Fobes, Mrs. Andrew Hary, Mrs. Thomas Roth and Mrs. Herbert Hetzel.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Northwest Suburban Alpha Xi Delta alums will hold their next meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. Mrs. John Greene of Mount Prospect will be hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Henrikson of Arlington Heights.

Honor The Boss

The National Secretaries Association is joining in the observance today of National Boss Day, according to Mrs. Dorothy Mydlach, president of Park-Plaines Chapter of NSA.

"Chapter members will honor their individual employers by renewed dedication to their contribution to the smooth running of the management team," said Mrs. Mydlach.

A speaker from the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc., will give a program entitled "Invest Your Mind in the Riddle of Stocks, Bonds, and Mutual Funds." Questions may be asked following the program.

All alums in the area are welcome.

AMERICANA HUNTERS

Americana Hunters Chapter of Questers will hold the October meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert Bretelle, 1714 Stratford Road, Arlington Heights. Starting time is 9:30 a.m. Co-hostess is Mrs. Charles Jenks.

After the meeting Mrs. Robert Robinson, Arlington Heights, will demonstrate how to make corn husk dolls.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Kappa Alpha Theta meets Thursday at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Latta, 1201 W. Sunset, Mount Prospect. Co-hostesses are Mrs. Cooper Roberts and Mrs. Frank A. Svoboda. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Latta at 439-3429.

Theta member Mrs. Robert Schleif will present a program entitled "Prints, Framing 'N' Things." New Thetas in the area may call Mrs. F. Robert Modlin, 537-8069, if interested.

Come For Coffee With The Juniors

Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club has planned two informal coffees to acquaint new and prospective members with various projects the club supports. Mrs. Gilbert Spencer, president, and Mrs. William Gastineau, first vice president, will speak briefly at each event about the purpose of the club.

The first coffee is Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Paoletta and the second at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. Richard Patchin.

Mount Prospect Juniors meet the second Wednesday of each month at 8:15 at the local community center. Mrs. Charles Whittemore, 394-3294, has further information.

Can't Block Lightning

You've heard: stay away from open doors and windows in an electric storm? Well, the National Safety Council magazine, Family Safety, carries a report saying it really doesn't make any difference.

"Lightning can enter a building whether the window or door is open, closed or nonexistent," according to the report. "A bolt, flashing a half mile or so through highly resistant air, isn't likely to have its path altered by a window pane or wall." (UPI)

A GARDEN FOR THE BLIND and handicapped will be created at the Samuel A. Kirk School in Palatine with proceeds from Arlington Heights Woman's Club's Antique Show and Kandy Korner. The benefit will be held at the Brass Rail, Arlington Heights, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 24-25. Club members will sell the purchased candy and 20 antique dealers will be offering antiques from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday. Mrs. John Frieberg Jr., 255 0688, is ticket chairman. Gardeners are Kirk students Joe Weyer, David Zoellner and Mike Cassidy with Mrs. C. M. Michalski, show chairman.

BEER, BRAT AND good fellowship in huge quantities will be the fare Friday evening when Our Lady of the Wayside Woman's Club holds its first Oktoberfest. Mrs. Gregory Cud-zilo, Mrs. Raymond Krutwig, Mrs. Paul Wills and Mrs. John Okon, seated, are committee members planning the fest which will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Junior High Auditorium, Arlington Heights. Mike Drost's authentic German band will entertain for dancing and a sing-along. Tickets, 394-1347.

A NEW WOMEN'S apparel store in Wheeling, Fashion World of Tomorrow, is operated by two housewives, Mrs. Evelyn Housman and Mrs. Syd

Syd Sadowsky and Evelyn Housman, two housewives who have been friends for some time, were in the habit of going clothes shopping together. That is until the rising price tags began to depress them.

"You either are forced to pay a lot for a garment or settle for something inferior," said Mrs. Housman. And so that's how the idea first came up... why not open their own shop?

It would have to be a women's apparel shop that sold quality merchandise at a price the average woman could afford. It was something, they felt, that was sorely needed in the area.

The two women were not completely ignorant of the business since both of their husbands are salesmen in the women's and children's clothing industry. The men would make the arrangements. The wives would run it.

THE IDEA WAS first hatched three years ago. A week and a half ago Fashion World of Tomorrow opened in the new Lynn Shopping Plaza in Wheeling.

Mrs. Housman and Mrs. Sadowsky have stuck by their promise. The clothes are fashionable and nicely constructed. Body shirts and other tops run between $5 and $10. Dresses and pants suits (many distinguished labels among them) begin at $15. The majority retail for under $25. And so do the long evening dresses.

Against one wall of the back room is the "crazy corner" where dresses have been marked down to as low as $8.

Jerry Housman, who laughed and said, "This is what happens after your wife nags you for a year," actually is very optimistic about putting his wife into business and plans to open four more shops in the northwest and western suburbs.

THE BRIGHT PLUM colored decor that carries over into the deep piled shag carpeting is borrowed from California, where much of the stock in the store originates.

The Housmans in the last six months have traveled throughout the U.S. and Europe selecting suitable lines of clothing and having various manufacturers in New York and California copy some of their more expensive choices to bring down the price.

Fonda Puts Rumors Of Family To Rest

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Henry Fonda put to rest the angry rumor that he disapproves of daughter Jane's behavior or the life-style of son Peter.

To the contrary. He is proud of them both. He loves them.

At the same time it never occurred to Henry that he would be the founding father of what may eventually become an acting family dynasty.

"I'm proud of both their accomplishments," said Henry, sunning himself during a long lunch break at Goldwyn studios. "I was tickled to death when Jane won the Oscar this year. She deserved it."

"She was concerned that politics might keep her from winning. But I told her to forget it. She was clearly the best actress in the running. Peter is very excited about his own new production, 'Idaho Transfer.' So am I."

"I KNEW JANE was a good actress before she committed herself to acting. She did two plays with me — on Cape Cod and in Omaha. Her first movie, 'Tall Story,' was nothing you'd put in a time capsule. But she kept improving, surviving more bad films than most actresses do in a lifetime."

Fonda doesn't look his 67 years. There is a Gary Cooper-like charm and self-consciousness about him.

He is generally given to understatement, rare in an actor. He is ill at ease when discussing himself. But he will when pushed.

"I didn't want to be an actor," he said. "I was painfully aware of being well, shy isn't quite the word. Maybe introverted. Still am. I hate to go to big parties. I have no small talk."

"My acting probably reflects this. I perform as naturally as I can. I won't call it underplaying. I'm careful not to overplay. If I ever made a rule for myself it is: 'Don't ever let them catch you acting.'"

"Dorothy Brando — Marlon's mother — pushed me into acting in Omaha. They cast me as a juvenile in a local play when I dropped out of the University of Minnesota where I was studying journalism."

"I DIDN'T KNOW what I was getting into. But acting became therapy for me. I'm not self-conscious when I'm playing a character. I can walk on stage before an audience of 8,000 — and I have — and not be uptight. But I'm terrified about being myself and entering a room with eight strangers."

"As long as I can play someone else I feel confident."

Fonda brushed aside the possibility of doing a movie with his offspring. He said it would only be a gimmick.

Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/4% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/4%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Elk Grove Awesome In 40-7 Rout Of Falcons

by LARRY EVERHART

Many fans last week were predicting that the eagerly-awaited "Kansas tiebreaker" system would be unveiled in what was expected to be a super clash between arch-rival powers Elk Grove and Forest View at the Grenadiers' field Friday night.

That prediction turned out to be like saying in 1938 the Edsel would flourish or in 1938 that Hitler would not make any territorial demands.

Awsome Elk Grove, slugging the guest Falcons with two lightning-quick scores and then continuing to hammer away, destroyed the Falcons 40-7 in what had been figured as a toss-up.

It was probably as close to a perfect game as you'll ever see a high school team play. The statistics tell the story.

Just as they had been in the first four Grenadier victories this fall, the brilliant J.S. & J.S. kids did it again for Elk Grove. They're getting to be as dominant as the New York Yankees' M & M boys of 1961.

The names are Jeffrey in each case — Schroeder and Stewart. Both piling up yardage at a torrid clip in all five victories thus far, Schroeder this night churned away for 187 yards in 26 carries, a 7.1 average, and three touchdowns. Stewart trooped 94 yards on the ground in 16 tries (5.8 average) and tossed in six completions in eight passes for another 109 yards and three touchdowns.

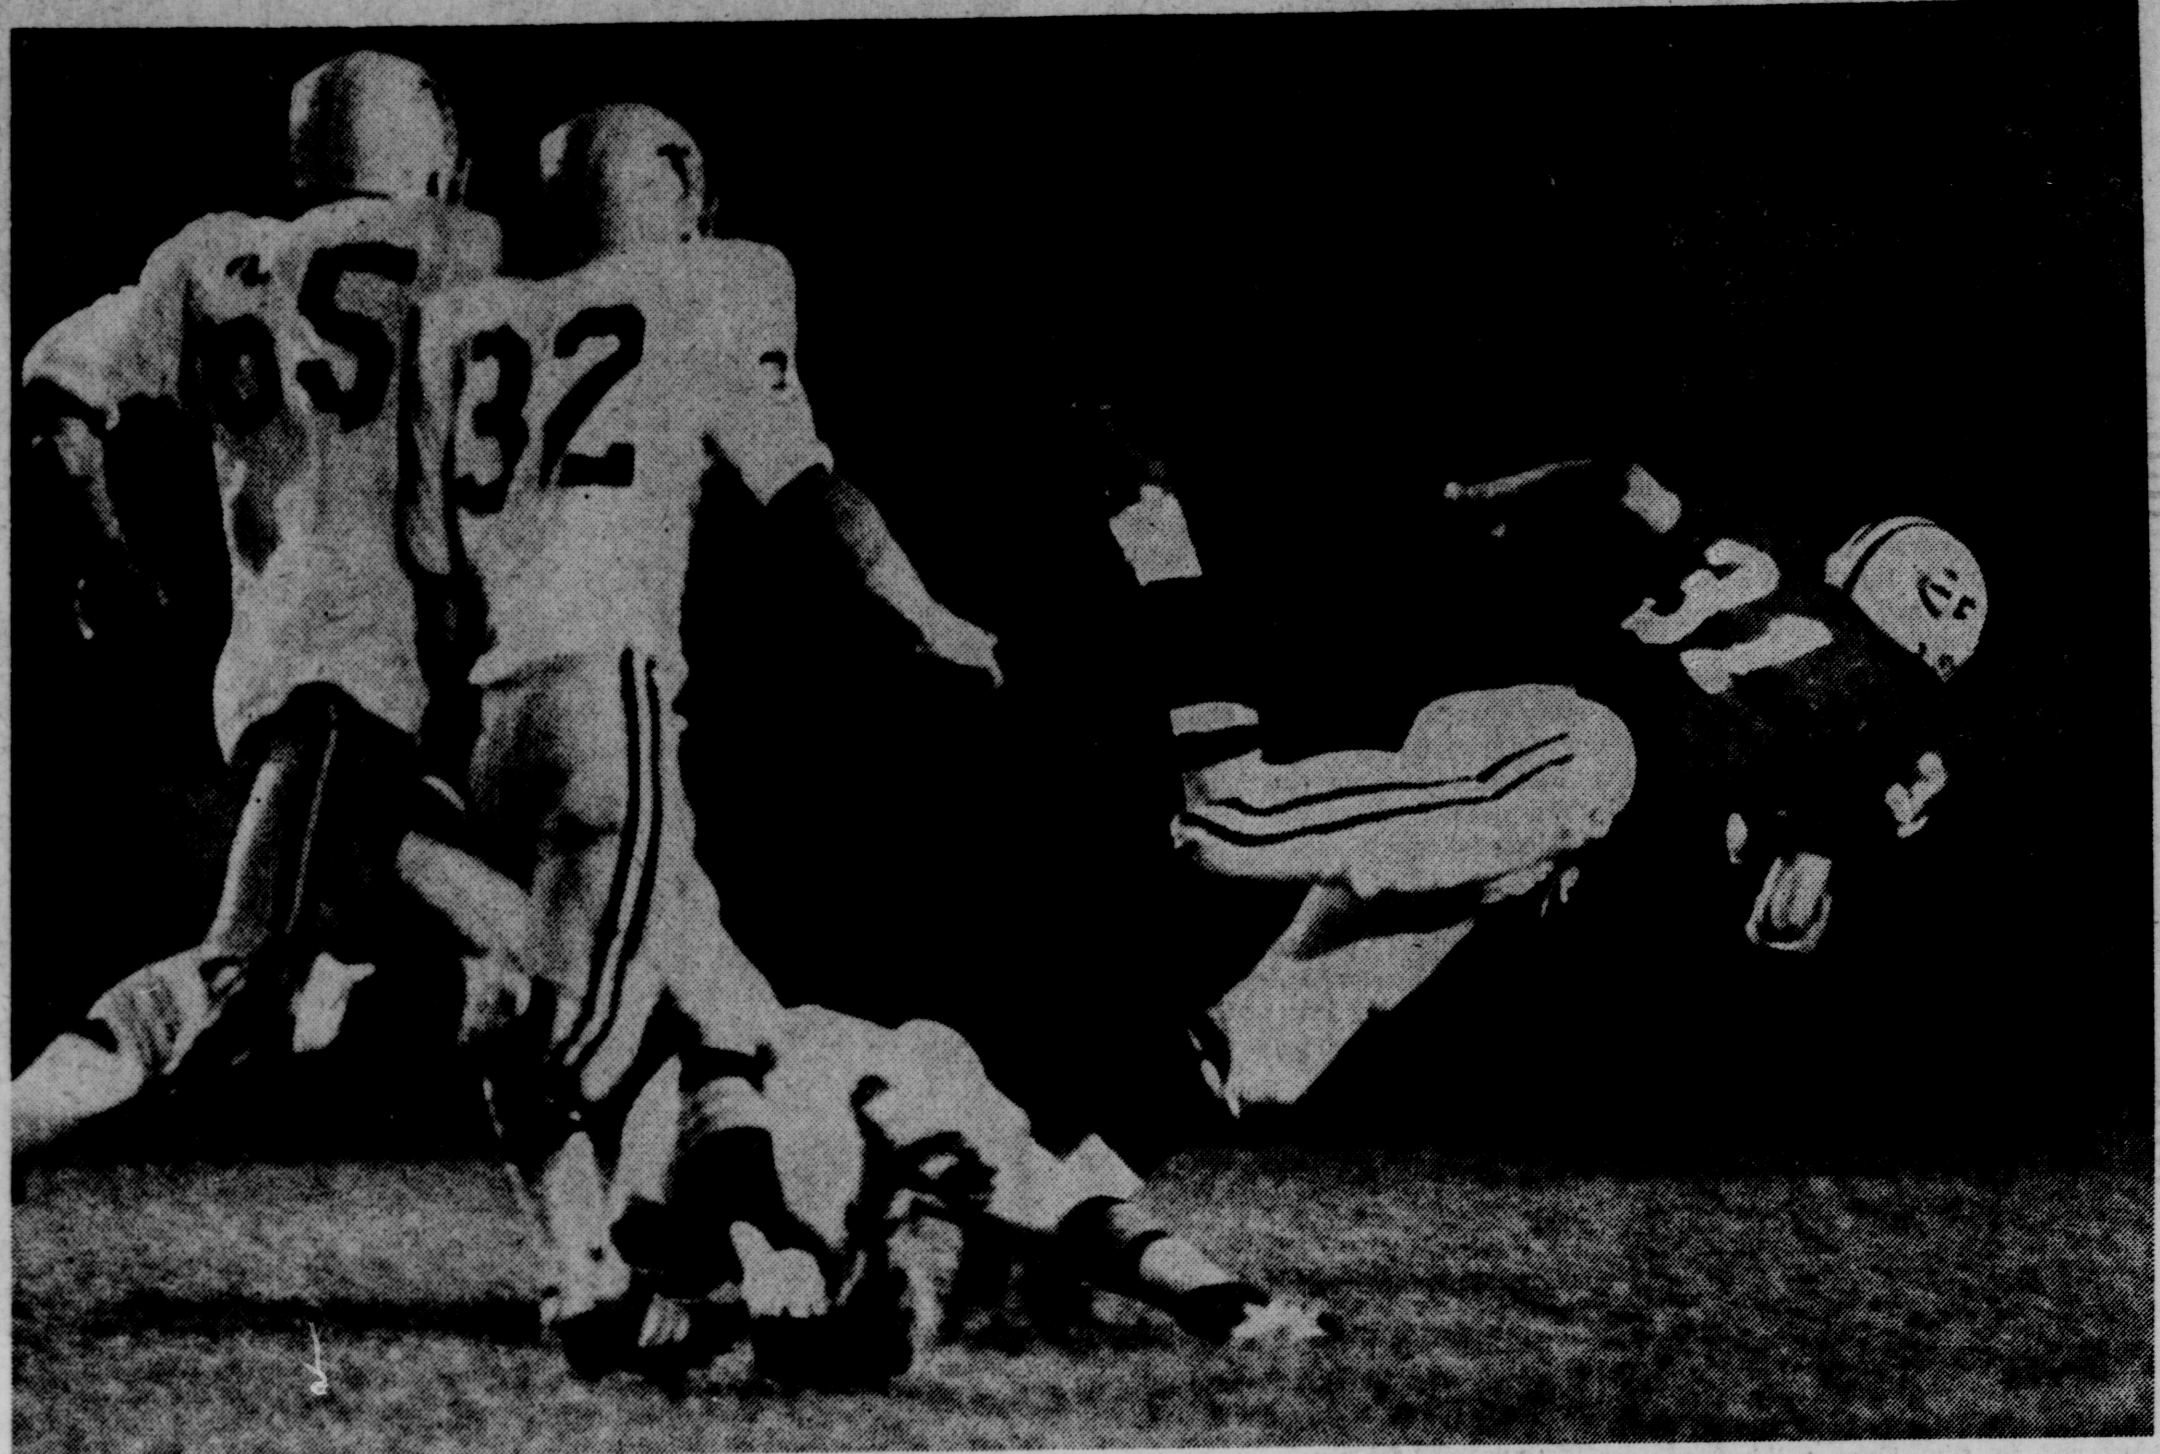

Since Elk Grove coach Don Schnake by his own admission hates to pass — and this fact is not exactly top secret around the league — it was Stewart's three TD throws in the first half that completely caught Forest View by surprise and left them down 27-0 by halftime.

"We were shocked by those two quick passing touchdowns," admitted dejected Forest View coach Paul Jordan. "That really took our confidence away. But then, if they had continued outthitting us the rest of the way like they did, I suppose those early scores wouldn't have mattered anyway."

The Falcons now 3-1-1, had been figured as Elk Grove's only genuine threat the the South Division title. Since the Grens are 5-0 (no foe has come closer than 11 points to them) and since their schedule now contains only teams with losing records the rest of the way, you can bet your mortgage that the Grens will be in the championship game.

3 Teams Now Share Division Lead

Palatine Stops Arlington In North Feature

by DWIGHT B. ESAU

Okay, all you Mid-Suburban League football fans, Palatine is for real this year, and let's not hear any more of that "darkhorse" bit.

Pirate Coach Arv Herstedt didn't say that Friday night, but he probably was thinking it as he savored his upstart club's 17-13 "upset" of Arlington. And on the Cardinal field yet.

It was a wide open contest, this battle for top honors in the league's North Division. Forty-four passes were thrown and multiple formations used as the teams sometimes resembled pro teams (in form, at least) as they tried desperately to pull off the big play.

Yet the story of the game was two first-half Cardinal fumbles. The Pirates, quick to take advantage of such generosity, quickly punched across touchdowns after each bobble and the Cardinals' stirring passing show and second-half rally never caught up.

Thirty times Cardinal signal-caller Ward Schell put the ball in the air after the Pirates took that 14-0 lead. He hit his target 16 times, but all he can show for it is a lot of yardage. The Pirate defense, beautifully prepared for this game, bent frequently but never broke.

True, the Pirates got some breaks. In the second quarter, John Norton took a screen pass and, with an escort of blockers in front of him on the Palatine 30, slipped and fell. Two other times, open Cardinal receivers dropped good passes. And, in the third quarter came the cruellest blow of all.

After Tim Lane's 25-yard field goal made it 17-7 midway in the fourth quarter, Cardinal speedster Bob Harth took the kickoff and went 70 yards down the west sidelines for a score that would have put the Cardinals back in the game with lots of time left. But a clip was spotted near midfield and Arlington found itself back on its own 12.

Schell, not discouraged at all, promptly hit Norton for a 34-yard screen pass which got a 15-yard bonus when Palatine piled on. Schell then hit Dave Sherrow up the middle to the 25, kept on the next play to the 20, and then Norton took over. He got a first down on the 8, then took it in from two yards out two plays later, and it was 17-13.

Jeff Cleveland's kick was low, however, and there were only three minutes left.

The Cardinals tried an onside kick which went only four yards to the Cardinal 44. The Pirates couldn't gain, however, and Andy Knotek managed only a nine-yard punt to the Card 35.

Once again Schell led his people downfield, mostly by the airways. A flat pass to Sherrow was good to the 42, then Harth got loose to take another aerial to the Pirate 46. Pirate Bob Tansey then was spotted interfering with Sherrow on the 35. But time ran out before the Cards could get enough yards.

"We had the desire tonight," said Herstedt, who said he was proud especially of his quarterback, Jim Sobczynski, who started the season as an end. "He really matured tonight, so did the whole team."

"I was surprised they passed so much, they scared me with all those bombs. When that guy was running that kickoff back I kept thinking how we really had to play defense now. But we got some good breaks."

"I thought we had a good team before the season, and we just as easily could be 4-1 now instead of 3-2. We had a touchdown called back in one game which beat us."

The first quarter of this game was a fairly dull, "let's feel them out" affair. But the second quarter was Arlington's nightmare and Palatine's heaven. On first down, on his 29, Norton dropped the ball when hit and Pirate tackle Mark Boyke fell on it. Knotek, who got 72 yards in 13 carries, took a pitchout to the St. Viator Strikes Early, Topples Holy Cross, 14-9!

by PAUL LOGAN

St. Viator struck early against hosting Holy Cross and then held on for a crucial 14-9 Eastern Division victory in a Suburban Catholic Conference battle of the unbeaten Sunday at River Grove.

The Lions, doing what no other team had done the past two years against the Crusaders, pushed across a pair of short touchdown runs in the first half. Then the highly rated Arlington Heights school played super defense the rest of the way to preserve its 5-0 record.

Coach Jim Lyne watched with pleasure as the Crusaders' poor punting game set up the only two Lion scores. An off-the-side-of-the-foot 20-yard boot gave the Lions fantastic field position at the Holy Cross 30 midway in the first quarter.

The Lions needed just five plays to end the Crusaders' two-year shutout streak for rushing TDs. Frank Cliggett started and finished the drive. The husky fullback ran for two and quarterback Stan Bobowski took it on the option around left end for 14.

After a one-yard loss, Bobowski hit Mike Cook on the sidelines for eight yards. Then Cliggett ripped through a hole opened up on the left side of the line by tackle Ken Smith and guard Jim Peifer for the seven-yard touchdown.

Cliggett followed this thrust with an extra point kick, his first of two, and the Lions erupted with confidence.

St. Viator's defense continued to dominate the Crusaders' vaunted (129 points, 400-yard average) offense through the second quarter, limiting the hosts to just two first downs. A hard rush early in the second quarter forced the Holy Cross punter to almost miss the ball — a six-yard boot!

Starting from the Crusader's 47, Bobowski launched his team's final scoring match with a 12-yard pass to Cook again. A 16-yard run by Tom Maher, a 13-yard by Stan and another pass to brother Steve of seven yards left St. Viator with third down on the Crusader two.

Lyne called time out, but the play sent in went for no gain. Again time was called. This time Bobowski returned with a call for Maher on fourth down.

Maher took the pitch from Bobowski, received a very helpful block from backfield teammate Cliggett, and just barely made it inside the end zone marker.

St. Viator had one more drive that ended when a field goal attempt came up short from 45 yards out.

Seemingly content with playing conservatively in the second half, the Holy Cross defense — namely 6-4, 220-pound tackle Dave Hettinger — nearly surprised the Lions.

Waiting for his teammates to get down field on a punt attempt, Lion punter Bob Foster had his boot blocked by the huge Crusader. Then came possibly the game-saving play as Cliggett covered the mis-cue in the end zone. Net result — a two-point safety. It could have been seven or eight points.

Cliggett's recovery paid off five minutes later when potential all-star Bobowski was blindsided by Mike Benacka. Hettinger scooped up the ball and lumbered 45 yards for the score. The kick made it 14-9.

However, the St. Viator defense — unscored upon in the game by the potent Crusaders — was up to the fourth quarter test. After an important 27-yard punt by Foster left Holy Cross on its 11, the tough Lion eleven (Joe Peifer, Andy Michuda, Ken Smith, Terry Lange, John Andejeski, Matt Griffin, Ralph Bosch, Dan Andejeski, Rick O'Donnell, Jim Bristol and Jim Bucaro) continued its domination.

The Lion defenders only allowed one first down in that mini drive and none in the last one. The latter ending after the second play on an interception by O'Donnell — only the second turnover of the game.

Steve Bobowski (87 yards) and Maher (69), paced the offensive attack for the Lions as they ended the Crusaders' 10-game winning streak.

The Lion defense held the highly touted Crusaders to just 64 total yards and three first downs. Meanwhile, St. Viator was rolling up 237 yards.

Homecoming No Boost; Hawks Stumble, 26-7

by DWIGHT B. ESAU
Surprise! Surprise!
"Goliath" Harper College threw a little football party Saturday night, expecting to have some fun with little Concordia of Milwaukee and add some more luster to a (until then) successful season.

But the surprising Falcons rudely turned on their hosts and ruined the Hawks' second homecoming, 26-7. The discourteous visitors even added insult to the whole affair when they stole the ball from a frustrated Hawk ball carrier in the third quarter and ran to the clinching touchdown.

"We still can't find that consistency on offense which we need," was the way Coach John Eliasik explained it. "We made some adjustments in the second half and got some more yardage but we just couldn't sustain a drive. Something always happens."

The Hawk defense played reasonably well against a surprisingly well-coordinated Falcon offense, but the offense couldn't give them much help.

Eliasik tried an "audible" system, he said, in which plays for the most part were called at the line of scrimmage depending on what defense the Falcons were in. "They were changing defensive formations on us, and so we thought we could run on them by adjusting our play selection at the last minute according to what formation they presented to us. It worked somewhat, but our execution broke down and mistakes hurt us bad."

"We figured we could beat these guys, but they made far fewer mistakes and deserved to win. Take nothing away from them," he concluded.

The "mistakes" mainly were 14 penalties for an incredible 147 yards assessed the Hawks, plus a key lost fumble, and three interceptions. Also, quarterbacks Bob Jorgensen and Ken Leonard, who alternated signal-calling this night, frequently couldn't find open receivers as they desperately tried to avoid an extremely hard rush by the hustling Falcons.

To show you how frustrating it was, the Hawks, getting it together a bit in the second half, ran off 50 plays in the final two quarters to only 10 for Concordia. They outgained the conservative Falcons by the astounding total of 225 yards to 7, yet couldn't score and make the game interesting.

Here's the way things went:
Jorgensen's first pass was intercepted by Concordia end Luther Burnette and the Falcons, using slants and traps, went 63 yards in eight plays. Rice hit Gary Moilanen in the end zone for the final 18 yards when the Falcons flooded a zone and got a man open.

On the next series, Ken Memken fumbled on the Harper 45 and Falcon Rich Shellhamer returned it to the Hawk 16. On the first play, Frank Penza, the leading ball carrier in the game with 137 yards, found a hole as wide as an ex-

The Hawks got their only score in the second quarter after Phil Steffek intercepted a Rice pass on the Concordia 42. On the nine 8 plays later, Jorgensen hit Tom Rambo in the end zone and Hawk fans had visions of a comeback.

Rambo didn't encourage them, however, when he slammed the ball into the turf after his TD catch and the Hawks had to kick the ensuing kickoff from their 25. The Falcons, turned opportunists again, got the ball on the Hawk 45 and took it in with three plays. Rice hit Mark Herzog, who grabbed the pass away from a lunging Bob Kruse, for a pretty 31-yard play.

The Hawks came out rolling in the third quarter, driving 57 yards to the 'Falcon 11, only to see Jorgensen sacked on a fourth down pass play. Later in the half, the Hawks were stopped on the Falcon 7 yard line three times as pass plays failed. Once Concordia defenders tossed Leonard for a big loss and twice they intercepted Jorgensen passes.

Only one consolation: The Hawks out-gained the Falcons 319 to 234 and out-passed them 160 to 69. Jeff Johnson led Hawk ball carriers with 60 yards, and Jorgensen rolled up 93 yards passing. But those penalties, interceptions, and broken plays hurt, especially since they must be eliminated in catch-up football.

This Saturday it's Illinois Valley College at Rolling Meadows High School as the Hawks try to stay on the winning side. They now are 3-2.

'ON TARGET. Arlington's Ward Schell fires to Jeff Cleveland (95) with good help from his blockers in Mid-Suburban action Friday evening. Schell completed 16 passes for 129 yards but it wasn't second period and added a fourth period field goal in a 17-13 win.

Smith Leads 26-6 Charge Past Saxons

Slump Ends, Fun Begins For Knight Eleven

by JIM COOK

To say that Prospect broke out of a slump Saturday afternoon would be an understatement.

When a team puts four times as many points on the board as they had in three previous games, more than equals its rushing yardage during that dry spell and completely annihilates the opposition instead of absorbing the short end of the victory stick, you know you're out of a slump.

Prospect coach Don Williams remained a believer in his kids throughout the humiliation of a three-game, offensive-deficient losing streak. He wasn't surprised to see his Knights frustrate a homecoming Schaumburg contingent 26-6.

"We finally got things going our way," a satisfied Williams said after the morale-boosting triumph. "We needed one like this to restore our confidence, both in ourselves and in the rest of the league. These kids know what they can do now."

Knight tri-captain Norm Smith knew what he was doing all along — nearly single-handedly shunning Schaumburg on defense and rupturing the endzone on offense.

"He really had quite a day, didn't he?" Williams mildly asked. "He ran like I've never seen him before. The way he cut back across the grain a couple of times and broke tackles . . . he was just a pleasure to watch operate out there."

Smith, a 48-minute competitor on the field, rushed 15 times for 89 yards, tallied two of Prospect's touchdowns, intercepted a pair of Schaumburg passes and added four tackles and two assists from the Knight secondary.

Smith combined with linebackers Mark Luciani (9 tackles and 6 assists) and Phil Audet (6 tackles and 4 assists) and tackle Randy DiVito (8 tackles and 2 assists) to thwart Schaumburg's first serious threat of the game.

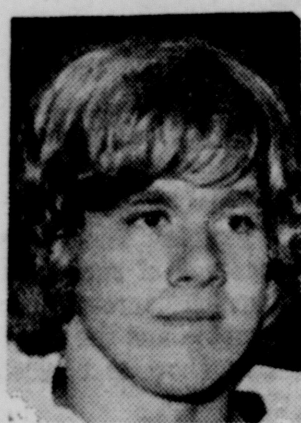

After Mike Croll had recovered a fumble, the Saxons owned super field position at the Prospect 25. Bob Nomellini ripped off a 15-yard gain down to the Knight 10, but Prospect dug in and forced Schaumburg out of downs with no damage done.

The first quarter proved fruitless for both sides, but the opportunistic Knights took advantage of a Saxon miscue to launch their first scoring drive.

Knight Tom Houchins pounced on a loose ball at the Schaumburg 15 and quarterback Scott Grear, whom Williams later said called all but two plays in the game, was in business.

Grear called on Smith who was hit behind the line, but danced, wiggled and slipped out of the grasp of six different Saxons on a six-yard gain to the nine.

Val Graffiti and Ray Nee punched for four yards apiece to set up Grear's plunge from the one for a 6-0 Prospect advantage. The margin stood up at the half, but a rash of turnovers following the intermission gave the Knights fresh adrenalin.

A fumble and two interceptions by Smith ended either side's thought of a sustained drive in the third quarter, but the Knights got a break when Schaumburg, playing in the shadow of its own goal posts, got off a weak punt that netted just 12 yards.

Setting up camp at the Saxon 24, Grear handed to Smith for seven and Nee for five more before his own quarterback sneak earned the Knights a fresh set of downs at the two. Smith got the deserved call and Nee added the conversion to up the Prospect one. After two unsuccessful dives over the heart of the stubborn Knight defensive line, Hill rolled out and found the endzone untouched.

Asked why Prospect punted the ball away on first down following the Schaumburg kickoff, Williams said, "We wanted to get as many kids into the game as we could. By getting the ball out of danger, everyone of our players got into the game. This has been our only opportunity to do it and I wanted everyone to take part. It was my way of telling them that they had finally broken out of a slump."

Knight Greg Meyerhoff picked the ball off and returned to the Saxon 46 where Grear needed only about four seconds worth of pass protection to thread the needle to streaking Steve Wolski who collapsed at the one.

Smith wasn't to be denied as he barreled over and when Mike Fisher added the Knights' 26th point, the Prospect bench emptied.

The Saxons weren't about to beam shout victims before a homecoming crowd. Following the kickoff, Hill dashed 11 yards to the Schaumburg 46 on an option keeper and five-yard spurts by halfbacks Wayne Morgan and Andy Jones gave the Saxons a first and 10 at the Knight 22.

That's the occasion when Hill clicked for his first completion of the day—a 21-yard spiral to Bob Cummings down to

Raiders Blank Elmhurst, 12-0

Despite last week's loss to St. Joseph, the Queen of the Rosary Raiders put it all together Sunday with a 12-0 victory over Visitation of Elmhurst. The first 3 stanzas went scoreless despite good field position for both teams.

In fourth quarter action the first touchdown of the game was scored when Gene Lopez picked off a lateral pass by Visitation and scampered in for the score. The extra point conversion was blocked. In the closing minutes of the fourth quarter, Mike Mielenz went in for a touchdown ending the scoring at 12-0.

A strong defense sparked by Gene Lopez, Dave Nickelau, Dan Streich and Mark Zetzel prevented Visitation from scoring. Fumble recoveries by Chris Selvig and Chris Inzerello also helped the cause.

Homecoming No Boost; Hawks Stumble, 26-7

by DWIGHT B. ESAU
Surprise! Surprise!
"Goliath" Harper College threw a little football party Saturday night, expecting to have some fun with little Concordia of Milwaukee and add some more luster to a (until then) successful season.
But the surprising Falcons rudely turned on their hosts and ruined the Hawks' second homecoming, 26-7. The discourteous visitors even added insult to the whole affair when they stole the ball from a frustrated Hawk ball carrier in the third quarter and ran to the clinching touchdown.

"We still can't find that consistency on offense which we need," was the way Coach John Eliasik explained it. "We made some adjustments in the second half and got some more yardage but we just couldn't sustain a drive. Something always happens."

The Hawk defense played reasonably well against a surprisingly well-coordinated Falcon offense, but the offense couldn't give them much help.

Eliasik tried an "audible" system, he said, in which plays for the most part were called at the line of scrimmage depending on what defense the Falcons were in. "They were changing defensive formations on us, and so we thought we could run on them by adjusting our play selection at the last minute according to what formation they presented to us. It worked somewhat, but our execution broke down and mistakes hurt us bad."

"We figured we could beat these guys, but they made far fewer mistakes and deserved to win. Take nothing away from them," he concluded.

The "mistakes" mainly were 14 penalties for an incredible 147 yards assessed the Hawks, plus a key lost fumble, and three interceptions. Also, quarterbacks Bob Jorgensen and Ken Leonard, who alternated signal-calling this night, frequently couldn't find open receivers as they desperately tried to avoid an extremely hard rush by the hustling Falcons.

To show you how frustrating it was, the Hawks, getting it together a bit in the second half, ran off 50 plays in the final two quarters to only 10 for Concordia. They outgained the conservative Falcons by the astounding total of 225 yards to 7, yet couldn't score and make the game interesting.

Here's the way things went:
Jorgensen's first pass was intercepted by Concordia end Luther Burnette and the Falcons, using slants and traps, went 63 yards in eight plays. Rice hit Gary Moilanen in the end zone for the final 18 yards when the Falcons flooded a zone and got a man open.

On the next series, Ken Memken fumbled on the Harper 45 and Falcon Rich Shellhamer returned it to the Hawk 16. On the first play, Frank Penza, the leading ball carrier in the game with 137 yards, found a hole as wide as an expressway and ran untouched over center and suddenly it was 13-0.

The Hawks got their only score in the second quarter after Phil Steffek intercepted a Rice pass on the Concordia 42. On the nine 8 plays later, Jorgensen hit Tom Rambo in the end zone and Hawk fans had visions of a comeback.

Rambo didn't encourage them, however, when he slammed the ball into the turf after his TD catch and the Hawks had to kick the ensuing kickoff from their 25. The Falcons, turned opportunists again, got the ball on the Hawk 45 and took it in with three plays. Rice hit Mark Herzog, who grabbed the pass away from a lunging Bob Kruse, for a pretty 31-yard play.

The Hawks came out rolling in the third quarter, driving 57 yards to the Falcon 11, only to see Jorgensen sacked on a fourth down pass play. Later in the half, the Hawks were stopped on the Falcon 7 yard line three times as pass plays failed. Once Concordia defenders tossed Leonard for a big loss and twice they intercepted Jorgensen passes.

Only one consolation: The Hawks outgained the Falcons 319 to 234 and outpassed them 160 to 69. Jeff Johnson led Hawk ball carriers with 60 yards, and Jorgensen rolled up 93 yards passing. But those penalties, interceptions, and broken plays hurt, especially since they must be eliminated in catch-up football.

This Saturday it's Illinois Valley College at Rolling Meadows High School as the Hawks try to stay on the winning side. They now are 3-2.

Smith Leads 26-6 Charge Past Saxons

Slump Ends, Fun Begins For Knight Eleven

by JIM COOK

To say that Prospect broke out of a slump Saturday afternoon would be an understatement.

When a team puts four times as many points on the board as they had in three previous games, more than equals its rushing yardage during that dry spell and completely annihilates the opposition instead of absorbing the short end of the victory stick, you know you're out of a slump.

Meadows Wins In Closing Seconds

by JIM COOK

"I never had any doubt that he'd make it," Rolling Meadows head coach Angelo Barro stated matter-of-factly.

"I just didn't want to see this one so I turned around and watched for the reaction of our athletic director Tom O'Driscoll. When I saw his arms go up . . ."

The occasion came with :44 showing on the Rolling Meadows clock and before a boisterous, overflow homecoming crowd. The reason O'Driscoll's arms went up was to signal that Mustang placekicker Stan Hilty had just split the uprights from 26 yards away to give Rolling Meadows a thrilling 10-7 verdict over Wheeling.

"I guess I watched the one at Palatine (that one missed and the Mustangs lost 14-13) and I didn't want the same thing to happen again," Barro explained. His superstition blended right in with the Friday the 13th atmosphere.

Nothing jinxed Hilty, though.

"I just paced up and down the sidelines," the San Francisco native said. "I was scared stiff to be perfectly honest. I just kept telling myself to get a good piece of the ball and try as best I could."

With all the grace of a conventional right-footed veteran, Hilty, his toe curled by a taut shoelace, cleared the 26 yards with perhaps 20 to spare as the pigskin glided between the goal posts.

Actually, the outcome came as a bit of a surprise. With a little over two minutes left, Rolling Meadows was way out of range back at its own 31. Almost everyone presumed that he was in store for the first Mid-Suburban League overtime tie-breaker.

"I had all the rules ready right here in my pocket," O'Driscoll said as he unfolded the Kansas Plan. "I'm just glad we didn't have to use it."

Mustang quarterback Bill Geegan, a victim of an ear infection and a bout with a sore throat that kept him out of practice both Tuesday and Wednesday, methodically guided his purple offensive unit down the field with the coolness of a Johnny Unitas.

Geegan took matters in his own hands by picking up 11 yards on successive carries out to the Mustang 42. From there he hooked up with halfback Joe Brightwell (who had scored the Meadows' touchdown earlier) for 16 yards to the Wheeling 42.

Fullback Larry Pressl then drove off tackle for six yards, Brightwell added six more and Pressl came back with a sprint of 15 stripes down to the Wheeling 15.

Just one minute remained when Geegan tried to reach the endzone of two quarterback keepers, but a rugged Wildcat defense yielded just a half-dozen yards.

Stan Hilty

With a fourth and three situation and just :44 remaining, Hilty was summoned and within five seconds, shockingly shattered everyone's overtime anticipation.

Prior to the last-second Hilty heroics, the North Division clash was a titanic defensive struggle between Meadows' Apache 11 and an immovable Wildcat unit. Ferocious hitting was directly responsible for no less than eight fumbles in the game.

The scoreless first half was highlighted by five fumbles and two interceptions off the aerials of Wheeling's talented signal-caller Jim Stoik. The rifle-armed slinger hit on 11 of 23 attempts for 93 yards and nearly bailed out the decision for the Wildcats in the waning moments of the contest.

Wildcats Jeff Paulson and Miller saving a touchdown.

The Wheeling duo only delayed the score as Geegan kept for seven down to the Wheeling eight and Brightwell breezed through a gaping hole over tackle the remaining distance for a 7-0 Rolling Meadows margin.

Wheeling waited until the final period to counter the tally and was aided immensely when a fumble by the Mustangs within their own five yard line gave the Wildcats a golden opportunity.

It took the visitors three plays and a half-the-distance penalty, but Stoik tucked the ball away and plunged in from the one to knot the score and set up the climactic conclusion.

"I thought our defense played a whale of a game," an understandably disconsolate Wheeling coach Jack Liljeberg said. "We came close last week against Fremd, too, but we just can't put the ball in the endzone. It's the most frustrating

Streaking Hersey Holds Off Final Fremd Charge, Wins Crucial Test

by KEITH REINHARD

"Hersey — The Great American Chocolate Bar," is the way Fremd's student body billed their opponents for Homecoming festivities.

It turned out the Vikings bit off more than they could chew Friday evening however. Coming on like a powerhouse in the first half, it was the Huskies who wound up savoring the sweet taste of success . . . and the last chuckle . . . with a 14-7 triumph in the crucial Mid-Suburban League North Division encounter.

Coach Joe Gliwa's visiting gang blitzed Fremd with a nifty passing attack during the first couple of periods and then protected a two-touchdown advantage in the second half despite a couple of strong rallies by the hosts. The result was Hersey's third straight victory of the season to remain in top contention for the North loop prize.

"It was a costly win, but an awfully nice one to pick up," Gliwa shrugged. "This is one of the hardest hitting teams I've ever faced and I've got a wounded list a foot long to prove it."

Indeed the Husky mentor made more than his share of trips out onto the field to help off his maimed charges. But the injuries failed to deter his club from staving off a last-minute Viking surge that might have sent the game into overtime.

Al Ratcliff's homestanding crew, after falling behind 14-0 at intermission and looking like anything but a league leader, put together a bone-crushing march to kick off the third stanza and cut the lead in half.

Then, with time running out, they advanced nearly 60 yards on a final thrust before an interception sidetracked them.

"We came out flat and never were able to catch up," Ratcliff sighed when it was over. They didn't do anything we weren't expecting. Our own breakdowns on fundamentals hurt us more than anything."

Zakula later connected with end Marty Friel for a pair of completions to put the frosting on the candy bar. One, in the last seconds of the first half, allowed the guests their second TD of the night.

The second completion, near the end of the fourth quarter, lifted Hersey out of a hole and subsequently had Fremd initiating their final frenzied rally 90 yards away from paydirt.

"Marty played a tremendous game for us both ways," Gliwa reiterated. "Both of those passes were clutch plays and he had to pick the scoring one out of a crowd."

Friel leaped between a pair of defenders to snare the TD aerial and there were 17 seconds showing on the clock when he hauled it in. Just a few moments earlier the Vikings thought they had nipped this scoring opportunity in the bud after Dave Dudziak intercepted for the hosts on the two-yard stripe.

Fremd was down only 7-0 at the time and with less than a minute to go deep in their own territory the last thing they needed was a miscue. But two plays after gaining control, they lost it again — on a fumbled handoff at the four.

Hersey was penalized back to the eight-yard line but Zakula hit Friel in the right corner from there on a third down play.

Five of Zakula's six completions in the opening half were, in fact, on third down plays. On Hersey's earlier scoring drive Mark Krause picked up seven yards and a first down on one screen pass, Mark Conard hauled in a 30-yard gainer on another third-down pass, Krause gained 22 yards down the left sidelines on another third-down screen and finally Conard gathered a 12-yarder in beyond the goal line on still one more screen pass on the left side on third down.

The whole march moved 84 yards in 14 plays with Dan Damato toeing over the conversion.

After the mid-game break, the Vikes came on like gangbusters. Without going to the air once, they rolled 66 yards in 14 plays to get on the scoreboard. Joe Alden, Tom Bullen and Butch Graf carried the mail and quarterback Mark Pettit faked a handoff and skirted off left tackle to apply the clincher from the two.

Hersey's defense anchored down after that on three more Fremd tries with the ball spreading over the third and fourth quarters.

A couple of breaks equalized each other over than span, the visitors blocking a punt first to set up shop on the Fremd 22 and Dave Sharpe spearing a Hersey pass at his own ten-yard line three plays later to thwart any further Huskie scoring ideas.

In the dwindling moments of period four when the hosts had scoring ideas of their own, Pettit moved his team out of the hole with three quick jaunts and then started firing. Steve Dwyer hauled in a pair of passes while the seconds ticked away but finally Husky Rick Voeks grabbed one of Pettit's throws to end the threat and the game.

"I never had any doubt that he'd make it," Rolling Meadows head coach Angelo Barro stated matter-of-factly.

"I just didn't want to see this one so I turned around and watched for the reaction of our athletic director Tom O'Driscoll. When I saw his arms go up . . ."

The occasion came with :44 showing on the Rolling Meadows clock and before a boisterous, overflow homecoming crowd. The reason O'Driscoll's arms went up was to signal that Mustang placekicker Stan Hilty had just split the uprights from 26 yards away to give Rolling Meadows a thrilling 10-7 verdict over Wheeling.

"I guess I watched the one at Palatine (that one missed and the Mustangs lost 14-13) and I didn't want the same thing to happen again," Barro explained. His superstition blended right in with the Friday the 13th atmosphere.

Nothing jinxed Hilty, though. "I just paced up and down the sidelines," the San Francisco native said. "I was scared stiff to be perfectly honest. I just kept telling myself to get a good piece of the ball and try as best I could."

With all the grace of a conventional right-footed veteran, Hilty, his toe curled by a taut shoelace, cleared the 26 yards with perhaps 20 to spare as the pigskin glided between the goal posts.

Actually, the outcome came as a bit of a surprise. With a little over two minutes left, Rolling Meadows was way out of range back at its own 31. Almost everyone presumed that he was in store for the first Mid-Suburban League overtime tie-breaker.

"I had all the rules ready right here in my pocket," O'Driscoll said as he unfolded the Kansas Plan. "I'm just glad we didn't have to use it."

Mustang quarterback Bill Geegan, a victim of an ear infection and a bout with a sore throat that kept him out of practice both Tuesday and Wednesday, methodically guided his purple offensive unit down the field with the coolness of a Johnny Unitas.

Geegan took matters in his own hands by picking up 11 yards on successive carries out to the Mustang 42. From there he hooked up with halfback Joe Brightwell (who had scored the Meadows' touchdown earlier) for 16 yards to the Wheeling 42.

Fullback Larry Pressl then drove off tackle for six yards, Brightwell added six more and Pressl came back with a sprint of 15 stripes down to the Wheeling 15.

Just one minute remained when Geegan tried to reach the endzone of two quarterback keepers, but a rugged Wildcat defense yielded just a half-dozen yards.

Stan Hilty

With a fourth and three situation and just :44 remaining, Hilty was summoned and within five seconds, shockingly shattered everyone's overtime anticipation.

Prior to the last-second Hilty heroics, the North Division clash was a titanic defensive struggle between Meadows' Apache 11 and an immovable Wildcat unit. Ferocious hitting was directly responsible for no less than eight fumbles in the game.

The scoreless first half was highlighted by five fumbles and two interceptions off the aerials of Wheeling's talented signal-caller Jim Stoik. The rifle-armed slinger hit on 11 of 23 attempts for 93 yards and nearly bailed out the decision for the Wildcats in the waning moments of the contest.

Both teams came out hungry after the intermission and Wheeling appeared headed for the game's initial score when kicker John Bernard pounced on a fumble during the second-half kickoff.

Stoik threaded the needle to prime receiver Doug Groot for 12 yards and fullback Steve Miller lugged for six more on a draw play. Penalties, which hampered a serious scoring threat for the Wildcats in the first half, continued to thwart their attack as a holding call pushed them out of striking range at the 38.

Meadows took over on a punt and after Pressl rammed for five, Geegan popped loose from his scrambling pocket for an electrifying 60-yard scamper that found

Wildcats Jeff Paulson and Miller saving a touchdown.

The Wheeling duo only delayed the score as Geegan kept for seven down to the Wheeling eight and Brightwell breezed through a gaping hole over tackle the remaining distance for a 7-0 Rolling Meadows margin.

Wheeling waited until the final period to counter the tally and was aided immensely when a fumble by the Mustangs within their own five yard line gave the Wildcats a golden opportunity.

It took the visitors three plays and a half-the-distance penalty, but Stoik tucked the ball away and plunged in from the one to knot the score and set up the climactic conclusion.

"I thought our defense played a whale of a game," an understandably disconsolate Wheeling coach Jack Liljeberg said. "We came close last week against Fremd, too, but we just can't put the ball in the endzone. It's the most frustrating

by KEITH REINHARD

"Hersey — The Great American Chocolate Bar," is the way Fremd's student body billed their opponents for Homecoming festivities.

It turned out the Vikings bit off more than they could chew Friday evening however. Coming on like a powerhouse in the first half, it was the Huskies who wound up savoring the sweet taste of success . . . and the last chuckle . . . with a 14-7 triumph in the crucial Mid-Suburban League North Division encounter.

Coach Joe Gliwa's visiting gang blitzed Fremd with a nifty passing attack during the first couple of periods and then protected a two-touchdown advantage in the second half despite a couple of strong rallies by the hosts. The result was Hersey's third straight victory of the season to remain in top contention for the North loop prize.

"It was a costly win, but an awfully nice one to pick up," Gliwa shrugged. "This is one of the hardest hitting teams I've ever faced and I've got a wounded list a foot long to prove it."

Indeed the Husky mentor made more than his share of trips out onto the field to help off his maimed charges. But the injuries failed to deter his club from staving off a last-minute Viking surge that might have sent the game into overtime.

Al Ratcliff's homestanding crew, after falling behind 14-0 at intermission and looking like anything but a league leader, put together a bone-crushing march to kick off the third stanza and cut the lead in half.

Then, with time running out, they advanced nearly 60 yards on a final thrust before an interception sidetracked them.

"We came out flat and never were able to catch up," Ratcliff sighed when it was over. They can't do anything we weren't expecting. Our own breakdowns on fundamentals hurt us more than anything."

The pitching of Mark Zakula didn't help the hosts much either. Hersey's junior signal caller zeroed in on five straight passes in the first half and a trio of screen plays among them keyed the march which put the Huskies in the driver's seat to stay.

Zakula later connected with end Marty Friel for a pair of completions to put the frosting on the candy bar. One, in the last seconds of the first half, allowed the guests their second TD of the night.

The second completion, near the end of the fourth quarter, lifted Hersey out of a hole and subsequently had Fremd initiating their final frenzied rally 90 yards away from paydirt.

"Marty played a tremendous game for us both ways," Gliwa reiterated. "Both of those passes were clutch plays and he had to pick the scoring one out of a crowd."

Friel leaped between a pair of defenders to snare the TD aerial and there were 17 seconds showing on the clock when he hauled it in. Just a few moments earlier the Vikings thought they had nipped this scoring opportunity in the bud after Dave Dudziak intercepted for the hosts on the two-yard stripe.

Fremd was down only 7-0 at the time and with less than a minute to go deep in their own territory the last thing they needed was a miscue. But two plays after gaining control, they lost it again — one of those fundamental breakdowns — on a fumbled handoff at the four.

Hersey was penalized back to the eight-yard line but Zakula hit Friel in the right corner from there on a third down play.

Five of Zakula's six completions in the opening half were, in fact, on third down plays. On Hersey's earlier scoring drive Mark Krause picked up seven yards and a first down on one screen pass, Mark Conard hauled in a 30-yard gainer on another third-down pass, Krause gained 22 yards down the left sidelines on another third-down screen and finally Conard gathered a 12-yarder in beyond the goal line on still one more screen pass on the left side on third down.

The whole march moved 84 yards in 14 plays with Dan Damato toeing over the conversion.

After the mid-game break, the Vikes came on like gangbusters. Without going to the air once, they rolled 66 yards in 14 plays to get on the scoreboard. Joe Alden, Tom Bullen and Butch Graf carried the mail and quarterback Mark Pettit faked a handoff and skirted off left tackle to apply the clincher from the two.

Hersey's defense anchored down after that on three more Fremd tries with the ball spreading over the third and fourth quarters.

A couple of breaks equalized each other over than span, the visitors blocking a punt first to set up shop on the Fremd 22 and Dave Sharpe spearing a Hersey pass at his own ten-yard line three plays later to thwart any further Huskie scoring ideas.

In the dwindling moments of period four when the hosts had scoring ideas of their own, Pettit moved his team out of the hole with three quick jaunts and then started firing. Steve Dwyer hauled in a pair of passes while the seconds ticked away but finally Husky Rick Voeks grabbed one of Pettit's throws to end the threat and the game.

Elk Grove Grid Report

Although the EGVA football teams were not victorious, the Homecoming festivities were highly successful. The day started with a parade from Rupley school to Elk Grove High School at 12:30 noon with football players, cheerleaders, coaches, parents in a 25-car caravan.

At the beginning of each game, Homecoming queens were announced and honored. The Panther queen, Carol Halpeny, was presented flowers and crowned by head coach, Gael Kowalski. Runner-up Cindy Dix and Panther cheerleaders Ann Flahive, Laura Johnson, Beth Coll, Lorrie Pingel, Tamie Lawson, and Sandy Weiss were all presented with gold tipped carnations.

Cougar queen, Noreen Kennedy was crowned by head coach Norm Redinger and presented flowers by Don Krumwiede. Runner-up Sharon Syverson and Cougar cheerleaders Stephanie Kozler, Kathy Grzesik, Rhonda Macro, Lisa Durlak, Laurie Sanders and Suzanne Dubois were all presented gold-tipped carnations.

Saints queen, Kathy Herr, was presented with a floral bouquet and crowned by head coach, Al Hansen. Runner-up Cheryl James and Saints cheerleaders Sue Smith, Cathy Chapman, Lorrie Beaupre, Susie Sullivan, Debbie Holzkamp, Cheryl James, and Wendy Gilbert were also presented with gold-tipped carnations.

The Knights queen, Candy Gaines, was crowned by head coach Guy Kowalski and presented a bouquet of flowers. Runner-up Debbie Ryckaert and the Knights cheerleaders Angela Calkones, Diane Quinn, Lisa Valletti, Kathy Mullen, Pat Meyers, and Terry James were presented with gold-tipped carnations also.

All the cheerleaders were escorted by members of their respective teams and the boys presented the flowers. The girls performed at halftime and they should be complimented on their hard work, with thanks to their coaches, Marie Flahive, Vi Galloway, Dee Johnson, and Pat Gaines.

Mrs. Flo Tirtill and her hard working mothers did an outstanding job in hosting Homecoming.

PANTHERS STALKED

A stubborn Elk Grove defense held North Austin scoreless in the first half of the game. However, the lack of offense finally told the story as the Panthers bowed to North Austin 32-0. Outstanding defensive play by Mike Flahive, Kris Hansen, and Bob Beaupre just could not contain North Austin. The Panthers also missed the services of Keith Peterson and Ramero Cazares.

COUGARS CONFUSED

After a game cancellation last week, the Cougars just could not put an offense together and lost to Highland Park 16-0. Highland Park, leading the league right now, had their hands full with the Cougar defense such as Ron Core, Mike Kiler, Dave Coney. Sustained drives by the Cougars were constantly cancelled out by fumbles.

SAINTS CRUCIFIED

Playing in the 5:00 game in front of a big Homecoming crowd, the Saints were humbled by an awesome Downers Grove Team 56-0. Downers took the opening kickoff 53 yards in seven plays with the help of a 15 yard penalty to take an early 6-0 lead.

The Saints came right back after the kickoff and looked like they were going to show Downers they came to play, but a fumble snuffed out the threat and set the stage for the mistake-filled evening. Bobby Kees ended DG's threat with an interception, but on the Saints first play, Downers intercepted after the Saints receiver slipped and fell. Five plays later the score was 13-0 Downers.

Two more turnovers, one blocked punt, the other a 50 yard pass interception for a TD, made it 20-0 at halftime.

The second half started no better when a lineman couldn't corral a poor kickoff and Downers recovered. Two plays later the score was 31-0. After that another blocked punt and pass interceptions led to the final score of 58-0.

Standouts in the one-sided contest were Jack Walsh, Tony DiRocco, Jeff Curtin, Ralph Souder, Dave Hansen, Scott Kerstin, Marty Carbone, and Mike McGowan.

KNIGHTS NAILED

Elk Grove was the first to score on a team that has not been scored upon all season. However, the big tough team from Downers Grove came back with two quick TD's which shook the Knights for awhile.

Fumbles by Elk Grove were capitalized on by Downers and they continued their relentless attack on the ground and after a 35 yard pass set up their third TD on the Knights 3 yard line.

The Knights held for six plays, including a half the distance to the goal line penalty for face masking. An intercepted pass late in the 2nd quarter set up Downers 4th TD.

Early in the third quarter Downers ran an off tackle slant good for 76 yards and a TD. From that time on Elk Grove put it all together and completely stymied Downers, but time ran out.

Three times during the last quarter the Knights marched the ball to the 10 yard line, only to lose it on downs. Final score 33-4.

FALCONS FAIL

The Elk Grove Falcons could not handle the Park Ridge passing game, giving up three touchdowns in a 21-0 losing effort. The Falcon coaches agreed, "We were not outclassed — we were outried — too many of our boys were not giving that 100 per cent."

REDSKINS AMBUSHED

After a hard-hitting contest the Redskins were defeated 13-6. The Redskins' offensive team led by Mike Tednes, Dan Todd, John McAndrew, Bob Duffey, Dave Albert, Bill Callaghan, and Mike Nallor executed their blocking assignments perfectly, allowing the backfield to outgain West Chicago on the ground. The Redskins TD came when Tom Stringfellow went over on a 20 yard run. The defense held West Chicago to only one first down with Chris Roberts breaking through to stop their punting and linebacker and Bob Duffey getting his first interception of the season.

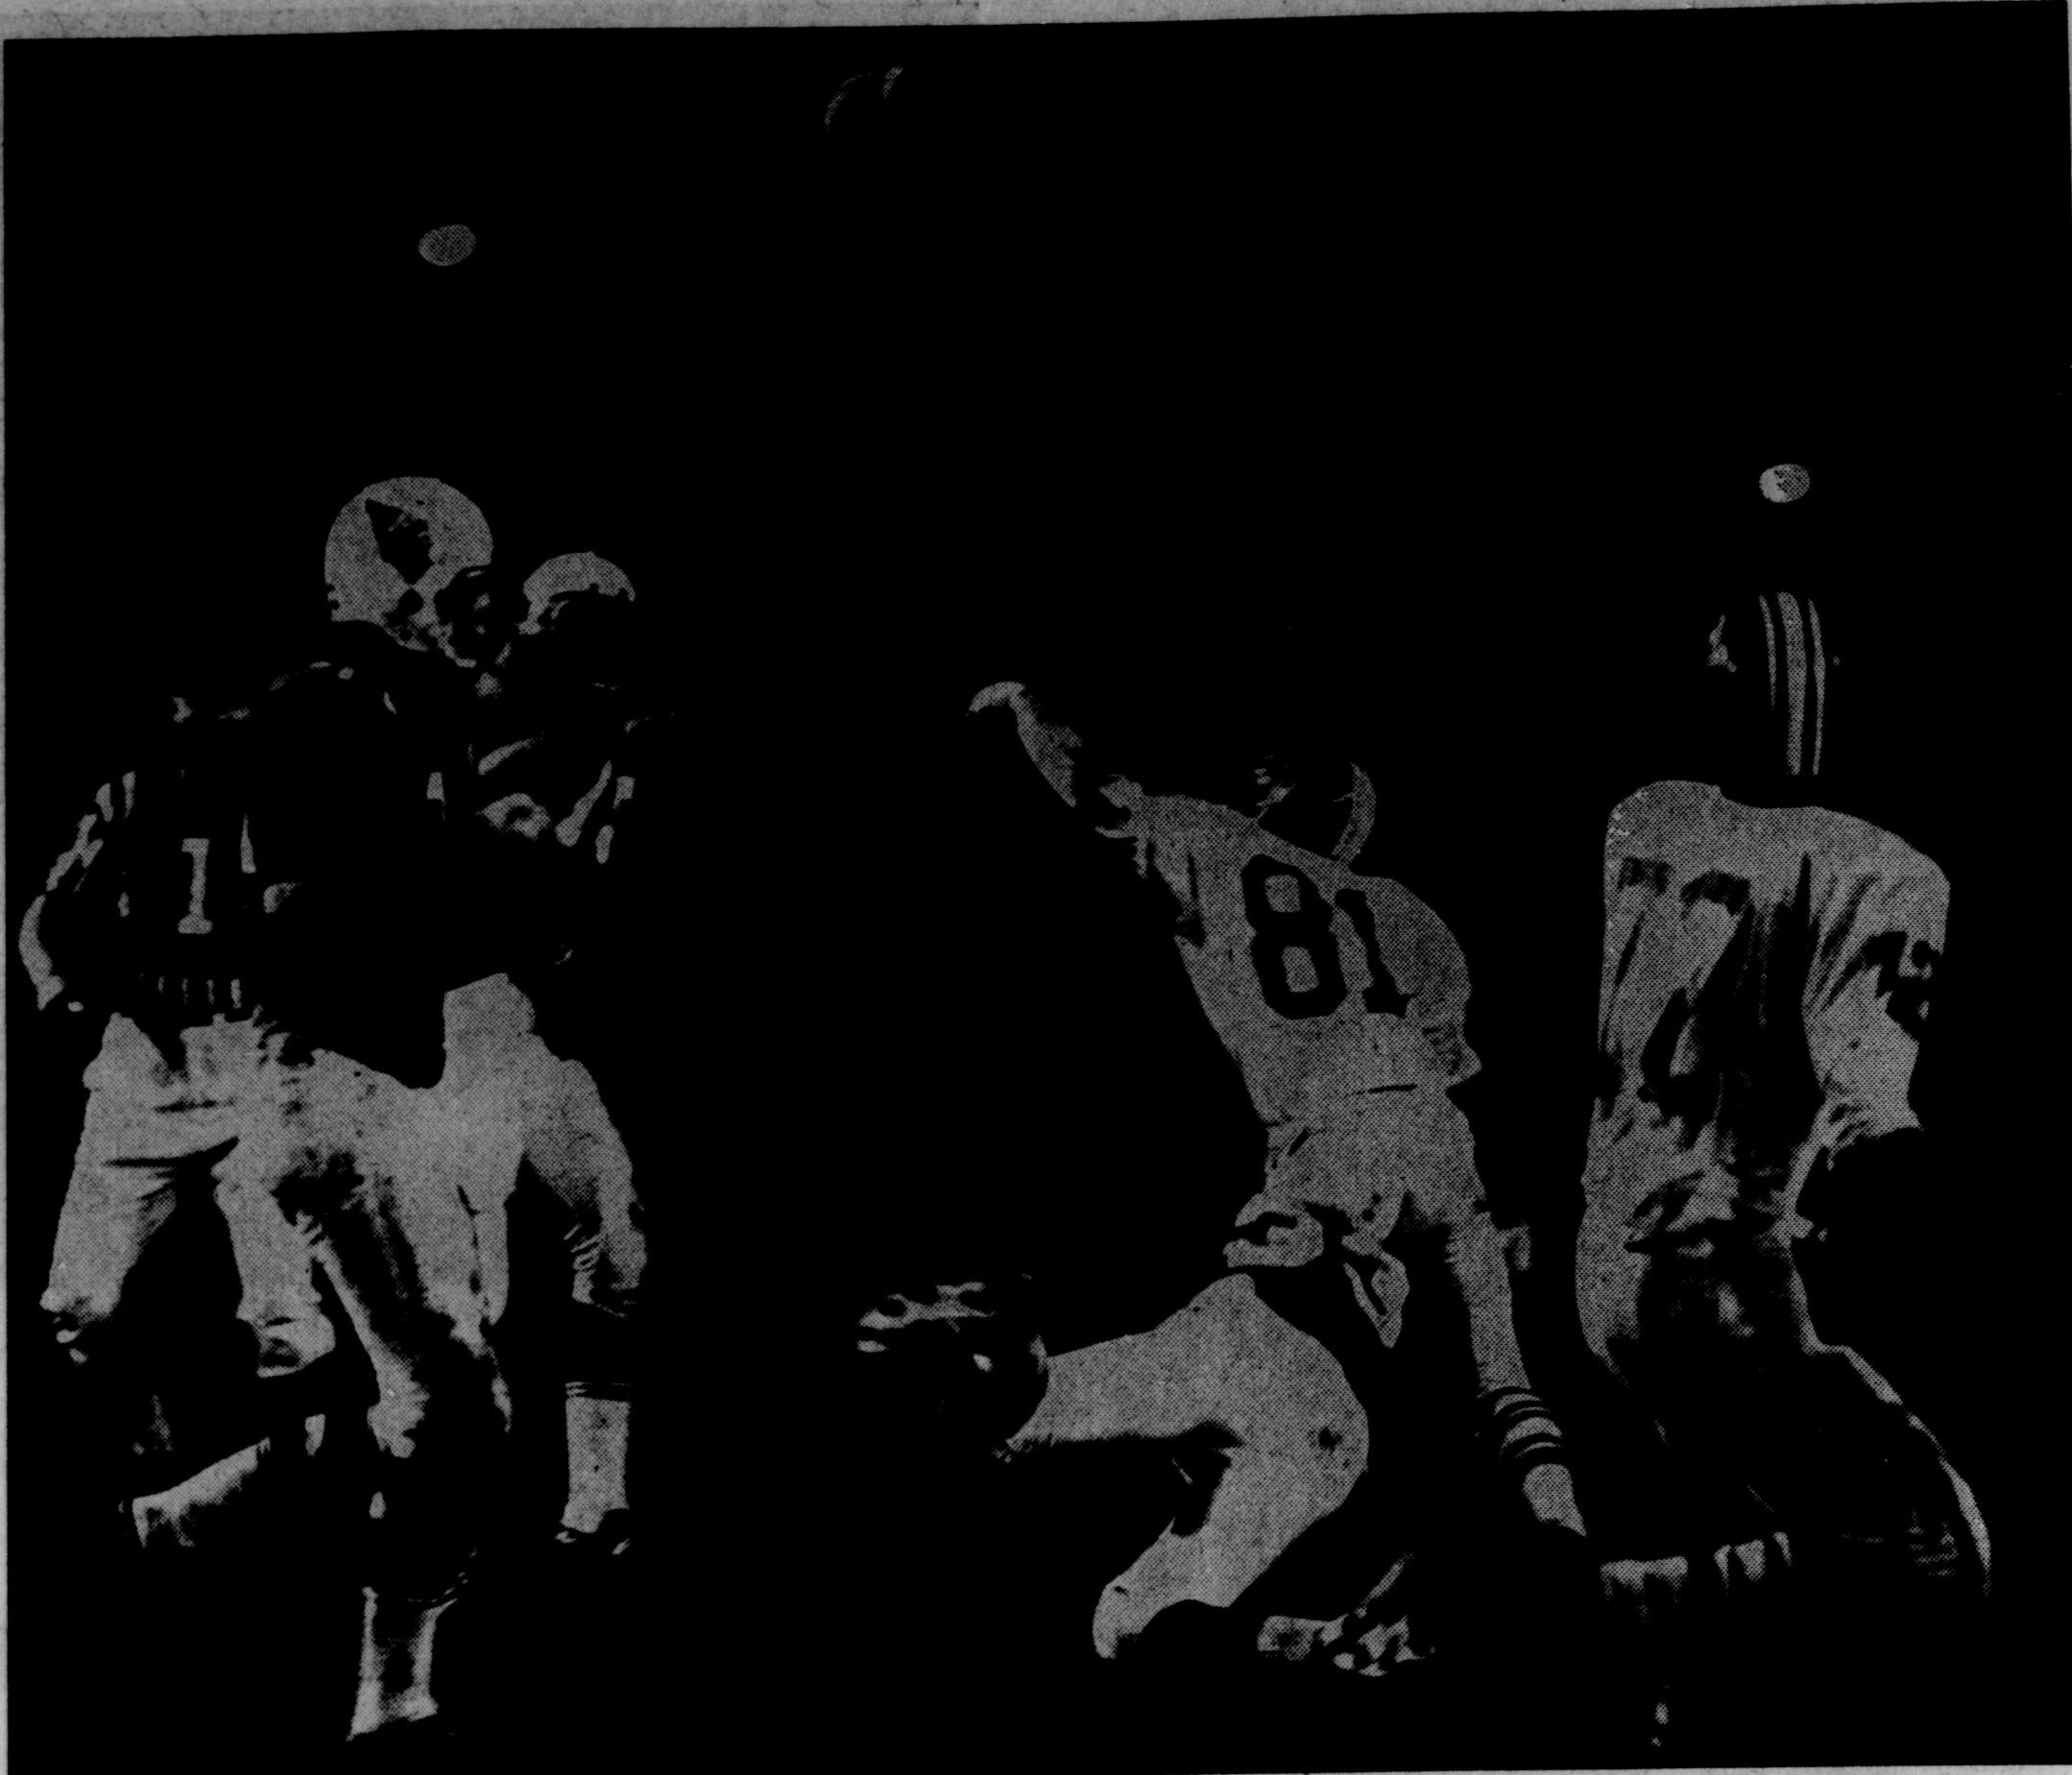

COLTS SAVE THE DAY

Not all was lost this weekend when the Colts took complete charge of Wheaton and won 37-0. The Colt defense dominated the ball game, allowing Wheaton only one first down.

The defense scored the first TD when the Colts turned the ball over on Wheaton third yard line. The left side of the Colt line, led by Bill Cumbo, Scott Wooley, and Scott Bloomstein, trapped the runner, causing a fumble, which right tackle Mike Hagen recovered for a TD.

Late in the second quarter, Mike Moeller laid a perfect pass in John Calkins hands for a 40 yard TD. The defense opened the scoring the second half when Calkins' booming kickoff resulted in the Wheaton runner being tackled on the fourth yard line. On the first play, a jarring tackle shook the ball loose, and Gary Steiger recovered for a TD.

The other Colt TD's were scored on a 45 yard pass play from Moeller to Calkins, and two fake pass and run plays covering 30 and 40 yards by Calkins. Other Colts turning in outstanding performances were Mike Adams, Carl Taucher, Matt Evans, Tom Kennedy, Bill Stone, Tim Kennedy, Marty Robinson, Steve Pohlman, Kevin Gard, Kevin Martin, and James Gore.

BOMBS AWAY. Arlington's Ward Schell fires one (81) and Mark Boyle (72) supply the defense in Palatine jumped out to a 14-0 halftime lead and held on for a 17-13 victory.

Grid Violence: Cure, Symptom, Disease?

by IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK (NEA) — It is autumn, the mellow time of year, when leaves turn many-hued, and wind picks up a nice nip and massive linemen crash into each other like furious rhinoceroses.

We have come to accept all this as ineluctable life. Thus we have glorified football in this country. We have placed it on a pedestal by the lever of symbolism. We have become convinced that it mirrors our violent times, is a metaphor for war and is evidence of man's genetic fate.

"I think the nature of man is to be aggressive and football is a violent game," said Vince Lombardi, the exalted late professional football coach.

Such amateur psychology has been part of the campaign, wittingly or otherwise, to excuse and rationalize the brutality of football. Lombardi's quote was taken from the book, "The First 50 Years: A Celebration of the National Football League in Its 50th Season." It was produced by the NFL.

of violence, quotes Konrad Lorenz, author of "On Aggression": "There is, in the modern community no legitimate outlet for aggressive behavior . . . (So) the main function of sport today lies in the cathartic discharge of aggressive urge."

Lately, it has been taken for granted that man is naturally pretty beastly and that in those rare instances when he is not pummeling his fellow man (or wishing to), it is only because he has momentarily been diverted by something equally primitive, such as sex or food or bowels.

Now so, says Alexander Alland Jr., associate professor of anthropology at Columbia University, in his recently published book, "The Human Imperative."

He flatly rejects biological determinism and with it the theory that man inherently thirsts for mayhem. He does not of course, deny that man is capable of aggressive responses but believes they are learned — like extending a pinky when drinking — and not instinctive.

Alland's work with isolated African tribes such as the Abnori and Semai provides him with his evidence. When a Semai is angry, for instance, he will throw his own property around much like a linebacker flinging his bulk on a quarterback. But the Semai is careful not to hurt anyone. "Even so, such behavior is frowned upon," writes Alland, "because it scares people."

Alland does not deny that violence is rampant nowadays. But he rejects theories that man is naturally warlike, thus needing violent games to mirror and reinforce the brutality of our world. Where one anthropologist called man the "weapon maker," Alland calls him the "symbol maker." "It is the symbolic process which allows man to first think of and then create tools, among them weapons," he writes.

If man will look at his social processes and the development of his individual personalities, then the "needs" for war and aggression — in modern times most usually caused by politico-economic factors — will dissolve, Alland argues.

Finally, he disputes football theorists like Paul Brown who say that football is a healthful release of our aggressions. Brown says in "The First 50 Years,"

"I've known women who thought football was worthless and brutal. But they just don't understand the nature of the male. . . The fact is that young men enjoy (the big collisions). Nothing is going to stop it. If we could just have a Super Bowl between Russia and the United States, instead of all those tanks and ballistic missiles, things would be a lot better."

Alland: "It has been suggested that play can be substituted for war through the institutionalization of aggressive games. Such a solution is likely to be unsuccessful."

"Games may, in fact, be used as an institutionalized means of preparing men for war (Gen. Douglas MacArthur said precisely that). There is no evidence that game playing lowers aggression in itself. In fact, there is contrary evidence. Participants and spectators of violent sports may feel a surge of aggression in themselves as a result of direct stimulation."

The defense scored the first TD when the Colts turned the ball over on Wheaton third yard line. The left side of the Colt line, led by Bill Cumbo, Scott Wooley, and Scott Bloomstein, trapped the runner, causing a fumble, which right tackle Mike Hagen recovered for a TD.

Late in the second quarter, Mike Moeller laid a perfect pass in John Calkins hands for a 40 yard TD. The defense opened the scoring the second half when Calkins' booming kickoff resulted in the Wheaton runner being tackled on the fourth yard line. On the first play, a jarring tackle shook the ball loose, and Gary Steiger recovered for a TD.

The other Colt TD's were scored on a 45 yard pass play from Moeller to Calkins, and two fake pass and run plays covering 30 and 40 yards by Calkins. Other Colts turning in outstanding performances were Mike Adams, Carl Taucher, Matt Evans, Tom Kennedy, Bill Stone, Tim Kennedy, Marty Robinson, Steve Pohlman, Kevin Gard, Kevin Martin, and James Gore.

BOMBS AWAY. Arlington's Ward Schell fires one (81) and Mark Boyle (72) supply the defense in Palatine jumped out to a 14-0 halftime lead and held on for a 17-13 victory.

by IRA BERKOW
NEW YORK (NEA) — It is autumn, the mellow time of year, when leaves turn many-hued, and wind picks up a nice nip and massive linemen crash into each other like furious rhinoceroses.

We have come to accept all this as ineluctable life. Thus we have glorified football in this country. We have placed it on a pedestal by the lever of symbolism. We have become convinced that it mirrors our violent times, is a metaphor for war and is evidence of man's genetic fate.

"I think the nature of man is to be aggressive and football is a violent game," said Vince Lombardi, the exalted late professional football coach.

Such amateur psychology has been part of the campaign, wittingly or otherwise, to excuse and rationalize the brutality of football. Lombardi's quote was taken from the book, "The First 50 Years: A Celebration of the National Football League In Its 50th Season." It was produced by the NFL.

The book, a typical football celebration

of violence, quotes Konrad Lorenz, author of "On Aggression": "There is, in the modern community no legitimate outlet for aggressive behavior . . . (So) the main function of sport today lies in the cathartic discharge of aggressive urge."

Lately, it has been taken for granted that man is naturally pretty beastly and that in those rare instances when he is not pummeling his fellow man (or wishing to), it is only because he has momentarily been diverted by something equally primitive, such as sex or food or bowels.

Now so, says Alexander Alland Jr., associate professor of anthropology at Columbia University, in his recently published book, "The Human Imperative."

He flatly rejects biological determinism and with it the theory that man inherently thirsts for mayhem. He does not of course, deny that man is capable of aggressive responses but believes they are learned — like extending a pinky when drinking — and not instinctive.

Alland's work with isolated African tribes such as the Abron and Semai provides him with his evidence. When a

Semai is angry, for instance, he will throw his own property around much like a linebacker flinging his bulk on a quarterback. But the Semai is careful not to hurt anyone. "Even so, such behavior is frowned upon," writes Alland, "because it scares people."

Alland does not deny that violence is rampant nowadays. But he rejects theories that man is naturally warlike, thus needing violent games to mirror and reinforce the brutality of our world. Where one anthropologist called man the "weapon maker," Alland calls him the "symbol maker." "It is the symbolic process which allows man to first think of and then create tools, among them weapons," he writes.

If man will look at his social processes and the development of his individual personalities, then the "needs" for war and aggression — in modern times most usually caused by politico-economic factors — will dissolve, Alland argues.

Finally, he disputes football theorists like Paul Brown who say that football is a healthful release of our aggressions. Brown says in "The First 50 Years,"

"I've known women who thought football was worthless and brutal. But they just don't understand the nature of the male. . . The fact is that young men enjoy (the big collisions). Nothing is going to stop it. If we could just have a Super Bowl between Russia and the United States, instead of all those tanks and ballistic missiles, things would be a lot better."

Alland: "It has been suggested that play can be substituted for war through the institutionalization of aggressive games. Such a solution is likely to be unsuccessful."

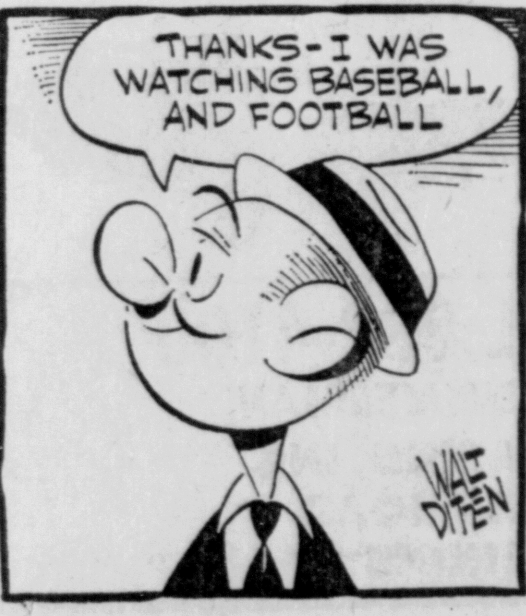

"Games may, in fact, be used as an institutionalized means of preparing men for war (Gen. Douglas MacArthur said precisely that). There is no evidence that game playing lowers aggression in itself. In fact, there is contrary evidence. Participants and spectators of violent sports may feel a surge of aggression in themselves as a result of direct stimulation."

"The belief that one can offer psychological cures for social problems is a delusion; perhaps it even diverts attention from the real causes of war." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Misfortune Hits Cougars
In Many Ways At Glenbard

by KEITH REINHARD
Fans poured out onto the field. The band marched back out on to the playing area and struck up their school song. Meanwhile, the coach and half a dozen players were hoisted onto seas of shoulders and carried out of the stadium.
No, it wasn't a Super Bowl championship. It wasn't even a divisional crown wrapup. As a matter of fact, it was just a simple win.
In Glenbard North country, a victory is tantamount to a World Series crown however. And so there was pandemonium Saturday afternoon when they turned back Conant 26-6 for their first football victory of the season.
The conquest was, in fact, the first for the Panthers since they last met up with the Cougars a year ago, a span of nine contests. Hosting GBN tallied in every quarter in making this year's clash a walkaway and now both clubs own 1-4 marks on the season.
"It was just one of those days," sighed Conant pilot Ralph Losee. "We had an inkling it was going to be a rough afternoon before we even came over and things seemed to go from bad to worse after we arrived."
What had the Cougar coach concerned beforehand was a noticeably thin roster of just 21 men including several spanking new to their positions. "Illness, injuries, suspensions, you name it," he said, adding, "As an example, when our regular fullback pulled up with a swollen arm we moved another kid into the position this past week and Friday the substitute went to the hospital for an appendectomy."
So Losee had a junior guard going at the fullback slot among other things. His regular punter was also sidelined and the substitute kicker suffered some trying moments with practically gale force winds in his face for half of the game.

"Don't take anything away from Glenbard though. They were charged up, with homecoming and all, and they were right there to capitalize on our mistakes. Their passing game seemed to hurt us most of all."
The GBN aerial attack accounted for both of their second half TDs and directly set up another score. And it was yet another pass, of the Conant variety, that provided the hosts with the initial spark late in the first quarter.
It was actually the last play of the first stanza and the Cougars, with the wind at their backs, were hurriedly going to the airways to move the ball before changing direction. A heave by Mike Atkocaitis was speared by Panther safety Steve Walter and he skirted over to the left sidelines and sauntered 70 yards to paydirt.
Late in the second period Glenbard quarterback Daryl Feltes zeroed in on his favorite receiver, lanky Marlon Brooks, for a leaping 12-yard gainer to set up shop on the one-yard stripe. Dennis Hardt bulled up the middle from there and the home team took a 12-0 advantage into the dressing room.
While Feltes remained fairly selective in his passing, going on to complete seven of eleven mostly in critical situations, Atkocaitis came back in the second half throwing to catch up. Mike eventually tied a Mid-Suburban League record owned by former Cougar John Macdonald in launching a total of 37 passes during the course of the game.

Still, it was Feltes who struck paydirt first in the third period. With the help of a 43-yard dash by Steve Schmitt, the Panthers advanced 72 yards in nine plays and Brooks gathered in the clincher from 27 yards out.
After that Atkocaitis connected with Tom Black three times during a Conant drive of 57 yards. At the nine, Paul Gebhardt capped this rally by stretching high to gather in another Atkocaitis aerial.
Going into the final quarter trailing 18-6 the guests still had hopes of catching up but they dwindled when one series went nowhere and another, after Steve Kaminski's fumble recovery, was discouraged by a penalty. The Panthers took over at the enemy 49 and Feltes sandwiched a 40-yard shot to Vic Caricato between a couple of five yard assessments.
Then Brooks went back into action again, snaring another TD pass from 12 yards away and GN had the second most points scored in a game since the school opened in 1968.
Conant had another couple cracks at offense, one of the opportunities coming after standout two-way lineman Bill Koppari came up with his second fumble recovery of the afternoon.
But too many throws by Atkocaitis dropped off brittle fingertips and the Cougars found themselves sharing third place in the Mid-Suburban League South Division with three other teams after the game was over.

18 Girls Qualify For State Meet

The Mid-Suburban Conference will be well represented at next weekend's inaugural state tennis tournament for girls as 18 players qualified in Saturday districts.
Palatine High School paced the six other MSC schools with double victories in both singles and doubles at its own district.
Arlington and Wheeling qualified three each, Fremd and Conant with two each, and Prospect and Schaumburg with one each. They all advance to the Arlington hosted finals on Friday and Saturday.
Palatine had singles victors in Beth Bals and Rita Sorrenti. Beth's wins came over Conant and Elgin Larkin; Rita's came over Elgin and Larkin.

Leslie Winters and Colleen Clery beat Elgin and Barrington for one doubles berth. Carrie Carr and Cathy Aldana stopped Conant and Larkin.
Rounding out the Palatine District were these winners:
Fremd — Andy Laffey over Barrington and Dundee for one singles berth and Sue Whiting by a bye and a win over Barrington.
Conant — the doubles team of Esther Kaplan and Audrey Schmidt winning by default and a match over Dundee.
Rolling Meadows failed to qualify anyone.
Playing in possibly the toughest district in the state at Prospect, Arlington managed to post singles and a double wins. Clare Gates stopped Forest View and Glenbrook South opponents for her free ticket. Mary Baines and Dianne Dewitt joined her by defeating Niles North and Prospect.

Robin Heileman of Prospect was the only other qualifier from her team's hosted meet. She stopped Glenbrook South and New Trier East.
Hersey and Forest View did not qualify.
Wheeling, the only MSC team in the Waukegan District, also had success in both categories. Sue Ingram and Debbie Smart won berths on a bye and a win over Waukegan and singles player Kim Luhrs defeated Glenbrook North and Deerfield.

Playing at the Addison Trail District, only Schaumburg had any good fortune. Peg Kennedy received a bye in her first round and then went on to beat Lake Park.
Elk Grove failed to qualify at the Addison site.
Winners from the 16 districts in the state will now converge on Arlington Heights later this week.

Girls Archery, Tennis Champs To Be Crowned

The Mid-Suburban Conference tennis and archery competition for girls has reached the important part in the season.
The conference champions will be determined on Tuesday, Oct. 17 at the divisional play-offs where the North Division Champions will meet the South Division Champions at the home of the South school.
In archery competition, each school competes with a team of ten girls. Each team shoots two rounds of arrows consisting of 36 arrows at 30 yards and 36 arrows at 20 yards. One team point is awarded for each round won by each of the ten girls to attain a winner of the meet.
Conference standings at mid-season were:

Grove Awesome In Win

yards to 197 for the Falcons, had a commanding 300-65 edge on the ground, lost only one turnover and had things their own way almost all night. They also sacked Forest View's fine quarterback Bill Millner six times for 48 yards in losses after the Falcons fell far behind and everyone knew they were going to pass. To Millner's credit, he threw only one interception.

Momentum was as fickle as you'll ever see it in the first quarter. You'd never have guessed after the opening moments that the final score would be close to what it was.

Forest View took the opening kickoff and briskly drove 72 yards in 12 plays, with Kronforst doing most of the work (consecutive runs of 16 and 15 yards) only to fail on fourth and goal on the Elk Grove four-yard line. A pass attempt was incomplete in the end zone after the hosts stiffened up and allowed Kronforst just two yards in three carries.

That's when the J.S. pair took over.

On Elk Grove's second possession, Stewart stunned the visitors with pass completions of 10 and 20 yards to Bill Butler and a 35-yarder to Frank Bavarro for the first score. Gary Adams kicked the first of four conversions.

The second of what might have been called turning points — the first having been the Grens' stopping the Falcons' opening drive — followed on the first play after the ensuing kickoff when Don Weadley made a leaping interception at his own 35 and returned 42 yards to the Forest View 23. A 16-yard payoff aerial found Bavarro again and it was 14-0 after one period.

The hosts recovered a fumble on the Forest View 14 midway through the second quarter and Schroeder smashed for 13 yards, then plunged over for 20-0. It was 27-0 by intermission after Butler snared a 14-yard scoring pass with 1:14 left.

Schroeder was even more punishing in the second half, scoring twice more on runs of five and one yards and a lot of other profitable ventures in between. The same went for Stewart and the home bench was cleared in the fourth quarter.

Forest View's only consolation was a four-yard end-around score by promising sophomore Dave Matzl, who made a similar run for 14 yards and caught two passes for 52 yards in his varsity debut. Millner also did a good job throwing to Tom Mueller and Dale Schoenbeck under pressure, but it was much too late.

Schnake was graciously quiet after the big win, saying, "Forest View is not that bad."

Jordan said, "I never felt more confident going into a game. I thought we were completely prepared, but obviously we weren't. When you get outthit like we did, you look worse than you are. They (the Grenadiers) were quicker. They came off the ball faster."

Elk Grove defensive coach Brendan Flynn had nothing but praise for his charges.

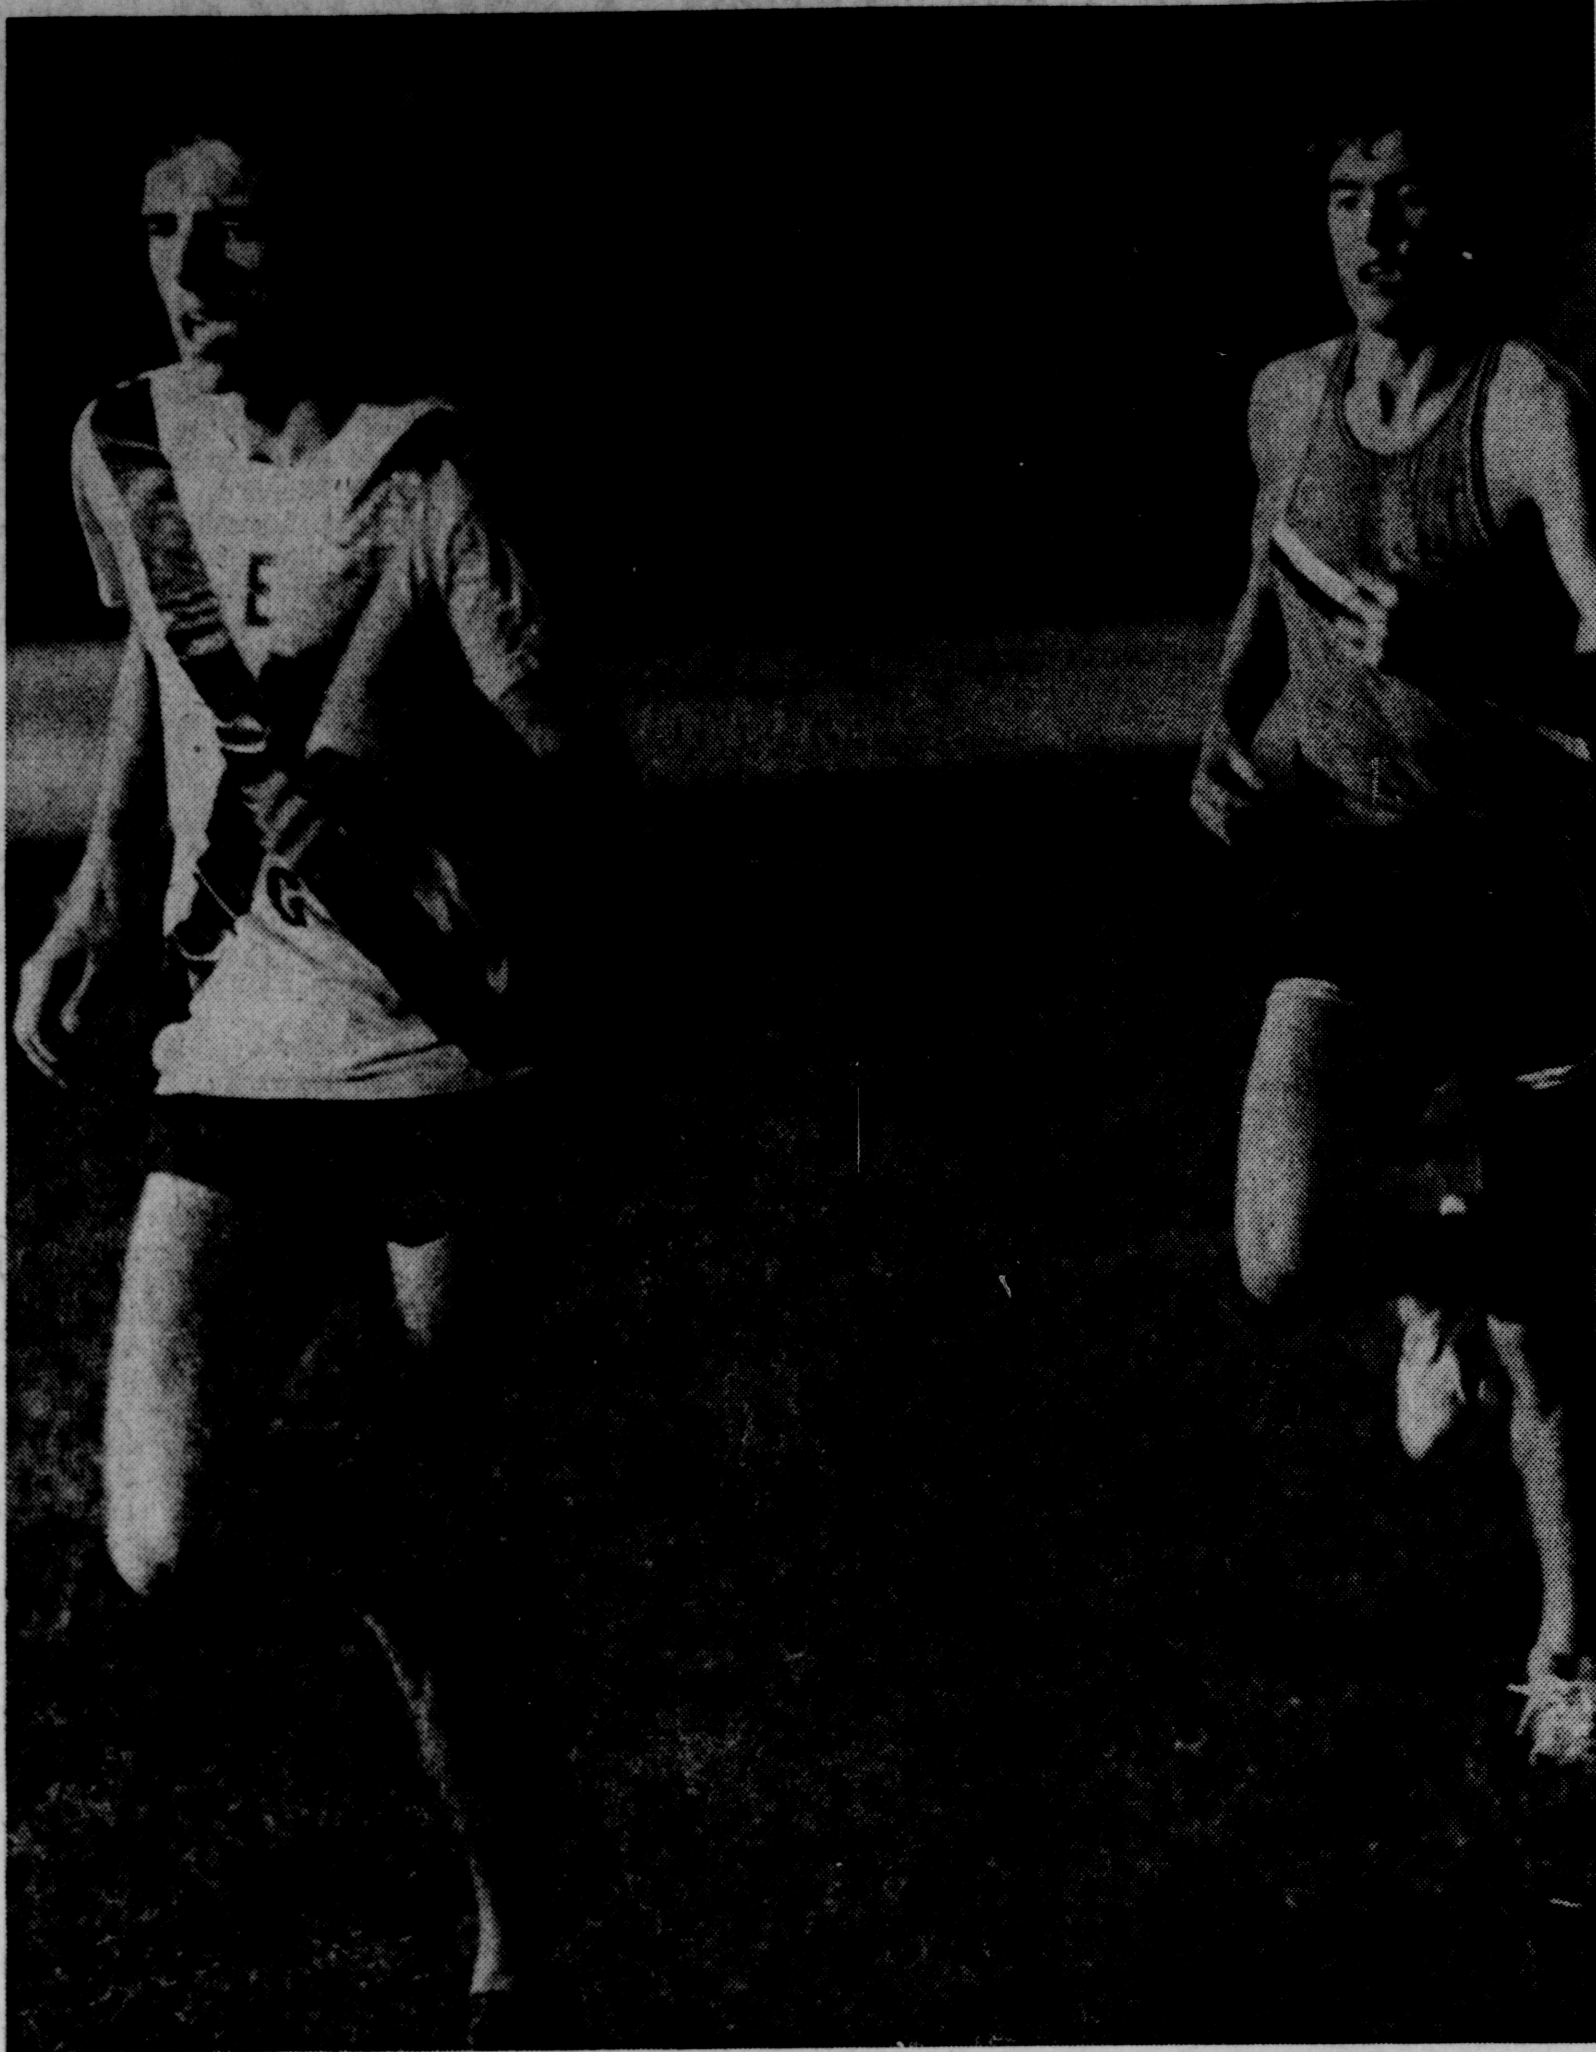

"I think we're an underrated defensive club because we don't shut people out," he said. "But every single one of the 13 kids we play on defense were tremendous tonight. They were sky-high."

"We've always stressed team defense here, not individuals. That's why we absolutely refuse to keep tackle charts."

NEARING THEIR destination are Elk Grove's Damian Archbold (left) and Hersey's Jay McCarthy late in Tuesday's Mid-Suburban League cross country dual meet, won by Hersey 25-34. Archbold was second with 15:38 for three miles and McCarthy third with 15:44. Winner Brian Powell set a new school record for Elk Grove with 15:19. Hersey remained tied for third place in the league.

12, and Sobczynski eventually sneaked it over to open the scoring. Arlington got the ball back and promptly handed it over three plays later. This time Steve Robbins found it and Sobczynski decided to throw a little bomb of his own.

He hit Pete McNally in a little "out" pass on the line of scrimmage, and McNally ran over two Cardinal tacklers to score from the seven.

The second half was mostly Cardinal bombs against Pirate defenders as Palatine must have felt a little like the residents of Hanoi. Arlington drove 65 yards to score after the kickoff. But Bob Tansey, Knotek, and Terry Tansey knocked down enough Schell aerials to put the Pirates in the North Division driver's seat for 1972.

Ironically, the Cards outgained the Pirates 246 to 218, out first-downed them 16 to 12, and generally pushed them around in the second half. Schell, who probably wouldn't agree, had one of his greatest nights, personally accounting for 29 yards passing and 33 running to lead the Cardinal offense. It's just too bad that offense is becoming a second half performer only. Norton led Cardinal runners with 35 yards.

But this was a night Arlington had to play catchup and pass. And they ran out of bombs, luck, and time.

For the first time since 1969, they have lost two in a row, and their chances of capturing the North crown now appear slim.

yards to 197 for the Falcons, had a commanding 309-65 edge on the ground, lost only one turnover and had things their own way almost all night. They also sacked Forest View's fine quarterback Bill Millner six times for 48 yards in losses after the Falcons fell far behind and everyone knew they were going to pass. To Millner's credit, he threw only one interception.

Momentum was as fickle as you'll ever see it in the first quarter. You'd never have guessed after the opening moments that the final score would be close to what it was.

Forest View took the opening kickoff and briskly drove 72 yards in 12 plays, with Kronforst doing most of the work (consecutive runs of 16 and 15 yards) only to fail on fourth and goal on the Elk Grove four-yard line. A pass attempt was incomplete in the end zone after the hosts stiffened up and allowed Kronforst just two yards in three carries.

That's when the J.S. pair took over. On Elk Grove's second possession, Stewart stunned the visitors with pass completions of 10 and 20 yards to Bill Butler and a 35-yarder to Frank Bavaro for the first score. Gary Adams kicked the first of four conversions.

The second of what might have been called turning points — the first having been the Grens' stopping the Falcons' opening drive — followed on the first play after the ensuing kickoff when Don Weadley made a leaping interception at his own 35 and returned 42 yards to the Forest View 23. A 16-yard payoff aerial found Bavaro again and it was 14-0 after one period.

The hosts recovered a fumble on the Forest View 14 midway through the second quarter and Schroeder smashed for 13 yards, then plunged over for 20-0. It was 27-0 by intermission after Butler snared a 14-yard scoring pass with 1:14 left.

Schroeder was even more punishing in the second half, scoring twice more on runs of five and one yards and a lot of other profitable ventures in between. The same went for Stewart and the home bench was cleared in the fourth quarter.

Forest View's only consolation was a four-yard end-around score by promising sophomore Dave Matzl, who made a similar run for 14 yards and caught two passes for 52 yards in his varsity debut. Millner also did a good job throwing to Tom Mueller and Dale Schoenbeck under pressure, but it was much too late.

Schnake was graciously quiet after the big win, saying, "Forest View is not that bad."

Jordan said, "I never felt more confident going into a game. I thought we were completely prepared, but obviously we weren't. When you get outthit like we did, you look worse than you are. They (the Grenadiers) were quicker. They came off the ball faster."

Elk Grove defensive coach Brendan Flynn had nothing but praise for his charges.

"I think we're an underrated defensive club because we don't shut people out," he said. "But every single one of the 13 kids we play on defense were tremendous tonight. They were sky-high."

"We've always stressed team defense here, not individuals. That's why we absolutely refuse to keep tackle charts."

With that kind of attitude prevalent throughout the squad, it's no wonder Elk Grove is in high gear.
